Weapons Seized In Toronto Raids

Kill-Kosygin Attempt Feared

By RON SUDLOW

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police, who carried out weapons raids on 18 Toronto homes and arrested two men Sunday, continued stringent security measures today to protect visiting Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Kosygin Made Honorary Chief, p. 3
K's Interpreter, p. 19

Police were stationed at almost every intersection and on every overpass this morning as the Kosygin motorcade left the hotel and drove 10 miles east to Pickering.

Mr. Kosygin, accompanied by Soviet ambassador Mirosh Nichenko, toured Ontario Hydro's $746 million nuclear generating plant there.

The raids Sunday followed tips to police that an attempt would be made on Mr. Kosygin's life. Weapons seized included a machine gun, some M1 semi automatic U.S. Army rifles, knives and bayonets. Some of the guns were loaded.

Gerald Doyle, 18, was charged with possession of a restricted weapon and possession of an offensive weapon. Kenneth Wilson, 27, was charged with one count of possession of an explosive substance, two charges of possession of restricted weapons and one count of possession of stolen goods valued at more than $50.

Toronto Police Chief Harold Adamson, who described the raids as the stiffest security measures here in recent years, said the action was taken "within the law for the safety of all — the safety of the visit as well as the public."

Chief Adamson said he was concerned about demonstrations planned by about 50,000 area Jews, Hungarians, Czechoslovaks and Ukrainians. He feared a "fanatical fringe" might try to incite trouble.

Special teams of police officers have been studying files to become familiar with known anti-Communist agitators. The science centre, normally open to the public, will be closed today.

SENATOR TOURS TOO

Mr. Kosygin, hatless and smiling, looked at a scale model of the plant before starting the tour, greeted various plant executives and signed a guestbook. He was accompanied by Senator Paul Martin.

Tight security was in evidence Sunday night when Mr. Kosygin's plane from Edmonton landed in a wind-whipped rainstorm. Police cordoned off a section of Toronto International Airport prior to his arrival, and reporters covering the event were checked at least twice for accreditation and identification.

Police also kept the 67-year-old leader well away from about 200 demonstrators at the Inn on the Park, where Mr. Kosygin occupied a $160-a-day suite Sunday night. He was to occupy the same suite — carpeted with deep shag rugs and equipped with two 26-inch color television sets —

BREZHNEV WOOS PARIS

PARIS (UPI) — Smiling and relaxed on his first visit to a Western country, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev said today he hoped to "clean up the dust of the cold war."

He made the statement in reply to President Georges Pompidou's speech of welcome at the Elysee presidential palace barely an hour after arriving from Moscow for a heavily-guarded six-day official visit.

Brezhnev said, "The Soviet Union has a sincere desire" to improve relations with the West. He said this was in the interest of both the Soviet Union and France and called for "mutual co-operation in Europe and of the peoples of the world."

Pompidou also called for good relations between Paris and Moscow as "a necessary element and probably essential to the security of Europe."

Brezhnev, accompanied by his wife and a half-dozen top Kremlin officials, flew into Paris and the heaviest security ever mobilized in France for a foreign leader.

Parisians gave him a lukewarm reception, despite urging of the Communist party to turn his visit into a triumph.

U.S. Surcharge 'Changes Rules'

OTTAWA (UPI) — The U.S. imposition of a 10-per-cent import surcharge has "unilaterally changed the rules" for bilateral trade, but Canada will not strike any bargains for repeal of the surcharge, according to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

In an interview with the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) taped for weekend release, Sharp said that over the years Canada and the U.S. had worked out rules for bilateral trade.

"Now," he said, "they have unilaterally changed the rules of the game and I consider this to be quite inadmissible. We won't play that way. We have already bargained for access to their markets."

Sharp said that while Canada was willing to help the U.S. with its balance of payments problem, "we are not going to bargain over the surcharge.

"The Canadian government has an interest in the prosperity of the United States, but what we have been asked to do — bargain our way out of this surcharge — is an inadmissible situation," he said.

Sharp also predicted that if the surcharge were to be left on for a year, the U.S. could expect a public outcry from Canadians.

"The United States must realize," he said, "that Canadians resent these measures. They didn't deserve them. Canadians have a strong sense of nationalism . . . and they don't like being pushed about."

Sharp accused the U.S. of "hurting its best friends," since Mexico, which also relies on exports to the U.S., stands to suffer heavily from the surcharge.

NEWS BRIEFS

Trains Collide

TSU, Japan (UPI) — Two express trains collided head on in a 1,67-foot tunnel through a Japanese mountainside today when automatic braking devices failed. Prefectural police said 26 persons were known dead and that 12 more passengers were believed dead and trapped in the wreckage. Another 217 persons were injured, 37 seriously.

Talks Resume

Bell Silent

TORONTO (CP) — Most of Bell Canada's telephone operators in Ontario and Quebec remained off their jobs during the weekend as negotiators were starting to tackle money issues in their contract dispute.

India, Pakistan Charge Shelling

In New Delhi, the Pakistani diplomatic mission confirmed Sunday that a large part of its 140-member staff was prepared to return home.

Indian cabinet leaders met today to discuss the reported Pakistani shelling of Agartala, capital of the Indian territory of Tripura, on East Pakistan's border.

A four-man cabinet committee appointed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to administer the nation while she is on a 19-day tour of western nations discussed the shelling of Agartala, but details of the session were not disclosed.

FOUR KILLED

Four persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the shelling during which mortar shells fell in the central part of the city of about 60,000 persons. The casualties were the highest in any incident disclosed by government officials since the start of the recent buildup of Indian and Pakistani troops along the border.

Pakistan's government radio charged today that "Indian artillery" had shelled the town of Comilla Sunday afternoon while people were in the market places, killing 12, wounding 25 and destroying or damaging several houses.

The radio gave the time of the shelling as 4 p.m., which was about four hours before the attack on Agartala. Comilla is located about 25 miles south of Agaratala and about four to five miles inside the East Pakistan border.

RETALIATION

East Pakistani rebel sources in Calcutta, meanwhile, described the shelling of Agartala by Pakistan as a retaliatory move for recent activity in the Comilla district, which borders the town.

Indian military officials in Calcutta said they had no information on the incident in Comilla.

The increased tempo of reports of shellings and casualties came within hours after Mrs. Gandhi left India on a tour seen as an attempt to win greater support for India's position and enlist foreign help.

India's external affairs minister, Sardar Swaran Singh, and other foreign affairs and defence officials met today Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Nikolai Firyubin, who is in New Delhi for what is officially described as "routine" consultations between the two countries.

POLLEN MAY RUN

Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen is expected to announce his candidacy for mayor today at a press conference at 3 p.m.

Pollen said last week he would make a decision over the weekend and make a statement one way or the other.

Pollen's announcement will bring the number of candidates for the chief magistrate's chair to four. They are incumbent Mayor Courtney Haddock, Saanich Ald. Foster Isherwood and "lighthouse philosopher" Bill Scott.

Medical Decisions For Young?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Children's Aid Society is expected to consider tonight a proposal to allow 14-year-olds to decide whether they want to receive medical treatment without their parents' consent.

"There's something to be said for making it easier for young people to get treatment irrespective of their parents' wishes," society president Mrs. Dorothy Beck said Sunday.

"If you can, it's best to respect the wishes of parents. But with some things, especially hepatitis or veneral disease, it's probably a good idea to be able to treat them without any interference."

Mrs. Beck was commenting on a request from the B.C. Hospitals Association that the provincial government allow persons 14 and older to make the final decision on whether they will receive surgery or other treatment.

At present, parents of minors can veto any treatment for their children, including abortions and blood transfusions, unless a doctor judges that the life of the minor is at stake.

The hospital association approved the proposal at its annual conference Saturday.

Weekend of Violence Kills 6 in N. Ireland

BELFAST (CP) — Northern Ireland's weekend toll of dead civilians stood at six today after police marksmen killed a terrorist and wounded his woman accomplice outside a Belfast night club.

The incident, resembling a gangster movie, happened outside the Celebrity Club, in the fashionable centre of Belfast, just before midnight Sunday night.

Plainclothes police opened fire on two men and a woman hurrying away from the club where they had just left a time bomb in the lobby. One of the men fell dying, the woman collapsed wounded and the second man ran off.

Shortly afterwards the bomb exploded, sending the club up in flames but not before an army bomb disposal squad managed to get clear and club members had scrambled to safety through a back window.

SISTERS KILLED

It was the culmination of Ulster's worst weekend of violence in two months, bringing the death toll to 133 in more than two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

In the preceding 48 hours, troops shot dead two sisters in a car racing past army checkpoints in Belfast and killed three men suspected of trying to rob a bank, or bomb it, at Newry, by the border of the Irish Republic.

The deaths of the two women, who the army said were in a car from which shots were being fired at the troops, provoked bitter accusations by republicans and civil rights leaders against the army's methods and sparked off a series of violent incidents in Belfast.

Worse violence broke out in Newry Sunday after three men were shot and killed by troops who saw them apparently trying to carry out a robbery at a bank. The army said the men refused to stop after they were challenged, and the troops opened fire.

A day of rioting in Newry followed, and Sunday night the 30-foot flames of a blazing timber yard illuminated a cortege of more than 1,000 mourners following the coffin of one of the men, 19-year-old Sean Ruddy, through the rubble-strewn streets.

Similar processions followed the bodies of the two other men from the funeral parlor to their homes. Armed soldiers stood at every street corner with guns at the ready as the mourners, four or six abreast, marched past.

QUESTION MAN

Early today the woman shot down outside Belfast's Celebrity Club was in hospital seriously wounded. A man detained near the scene of the club bombing was being questioned by police.

Snipers wounded five soldiers Sunday.

A policeman was shot in the head and critically wounded early today answering a knock on the door at his home.

In Newry, Bernadette Devlin, civil rights leader and a member of the British Parliament, told an angry crowd near the spot where the three suspected bank attackers were shot: "These British troops are murderers. The only time soldiers have the

McCARTHY SEEMS SET TO TRY FOR PRESIDENT

ST. PAUL (WP) — Eugene McCarthy has written a letter to supporters that is tantamount to a formal announcement of his candidacy for president.

"I'm enlarging my staff and intend to establish very soon a formal campaign committee," says one passage in the letter, which is to be mailed on Tuesday.

The letter says one key concern "is in an active and positive effort to secure convention delegates with views similar to ours."

And it adds: "This will require involvement in politics in non-primary states, in those states that have quasi-primaries and those states that have full and open primaries," the former Minnesota senator said.

A source said the letter will be mailed to several hundred thousand 1968 supporters and other "friends" acquired since McCarthy's Democratic presidential campaign then.

The other ends with these words: "The party that wins the presidency in 1972 must stand for something. The election should not be settled by default, or choice of the better of two marginal alternatives."

Peking-Taiwan Racing Neck and Neck at UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Diplomats said the race was still neck and neck today as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an important question requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the Americans figured they had a 58-to-57 or 59-to-57 advantage with more favorable votes possible.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believe the voting would start Tuesday.

The important question resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain to get a majority in the assembly but not a two-thirds majority.

The Albanian resolution was entitled to be voted on first because it was submitted first. But the United States had a motion pending to give its resolution priority.

The U.S. also was pushing a dual-representation resolution to offer both the Communists and the Nationalists seats in the assembly and offer the Communists the Chinese seat on the Security Council.

Peking has said repeatedly that it would have nothing to do with the United Nations as long as the Nationalists remain in it. Their supporters in the world organization say they mean it, but the Americans say there is no way to tell without trying them out.

The U.S. made one gain Sunday when officials in Rome said Italy would vote for the Albanian resolution but would abstain from the vote on the important question resolution. Many observers had believed Italy would vote against it.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would vote for the U.S. resolution but this had been generally expected.

The 23 sponsors of the Albanian resolution planned a last-minute strategy session today to discuss whether, in case their resolution failed, a proposal should be put in to make the American dual-representation resolution an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority.

Water-Dump Standard Set

The Pollution Control Board has set province-wide minimum standards for disposal of garbage and municipal waste-water for the first time in B.C.

The new standards won't apply to existing storm-sanitary sewage systems but upgrading of such systems will be subject to the new standards "with due regard to the quality of the environment at each particular location," said Walter Raudsepp, chairman of the board.

Discharges to fresh-water steams will require a stream flow of at least 20 times the proposed effluent flow to provide for adequate dilution.

THREE LEVELS

Three levels of effluent quality are also established for streams and fresh-water lakes based on biochemical oxygen demand and suspended solids content.

For salt water discharges, three alternatives for outfalls are provided. Under 10,000 gallons per day effluent, point of discharge may be 10 feet below low-water mark and 100 feet out from the low water mark. It could be 20 feet below and 50 feet out or 50 feet below with no restriction of the distance out.

The standards, which apply to recognized shellfish areas, also call for further distances from low-water mark for discharges in excess of 10,000 gallons per day. At 10 feet below, discharges must be 300 feet out; at 50 feet below, 100 feet out; at 100 feet below, no restriction on distance out.

Any deviation from the requirements will be "at the discretion of the board.

Three levels of handling refuse discharged on land are also established, ranging from daily convering for municipal dumps serving more than 5,000 persons to covering once every 20 days for smaller areas.

Job Programs Will 'Mesh'

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today the provincial job opportunity program will mesh with federal job stimultation programs to provide free labor for municipalities on eligible projects.

Campbell said letters have been sent today to inform municipalities of the opportunity.

Under a federal loan program which allocates $21 million to B.C., municipalities may recover 75 per cent of on-site labor costs for eligible projects such as water and sewer works and community buildings.

PROFIT

The provincial government will make up the balance under the job opportunity program where municipalities employ persons who have been on welfare for at least three months and resident in B.C. for a year.

In such cases, the province will pay 25 per cent of the wages, not the 50 per cent share set under the provincial program, Campbeel said. Otherwise, municipalities could make a profit on wages.

The minister said he can think of no excuse for municipalities failing to make application for approval of projects, but added that he could think of no excuse for such failure even when the potential job subsidy was just 50 per cent.

Campbell said the money will be allocated on a first-come first-served basis. The $21 million is B.C.'s share of $160,000 million announced by the federal government about 10 days ago for job stimulation. Projects must be completed by March 31, 1973, to qualify for the federal wage subsidy.

Singers Needed

The Squires — the local branch of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America — are holding auditions at the K-Mart shopping centre Friday for new members.

A spokesman said auditions will begin at 9:15 p.m. in the shopping centre mall. The Squires currently have 35 members and sing at hospitals and conventions.

AUTHOR Philip Wylie died today in Miami at 69. His novels included Generation of Vipers and Opus 21 and his main themes were that American males are brought up by females at home and in school and are dominated by them throughout life. He also attacked the advertising industry, saying it was sex-oriented. (AP Wirephoto)

THE WEATHER

An extensive cloud deck covered all areas of the forecast district early this morning. Rain is general over the entire coast with rain or wet snow over the central interior. Several Pacific disturbances moving rapidly eastward toward the Queen Charlotte islands are causing this poor weather.

The last in the series was about 200 miles off the southern tip of the Charlottes at forecast time and will cross the central interior today and into Alberta by tomorrow morning.

The associated frontal system will move southeastward across southern B.C. today and tonight and out of the province by noon tomorrow. Clearing behind the system will occur over the north coast on Tuesday but cloud and showers are forecast over the south coast and all sections of the interior.

In Dublin, capital of the Irish Republic, about 800 demonstrators marched to the British embassy Sunday night shouting for an end to "murderous tactics of the British army in Northern Ireland."

SWEAR REVENGE

The Irish Republican Army swore to avenge the weekend deaths with "a life for a life." At a meeting in Dublin, the IRA chief of staff, Sean MacStiofain, told a cheering crowd the underground army was launching a final phase "more intensive than anything so far."

Ruari O'Bradaigh, president of Sin Fein, the IRA's political branch, said the movement would force the British army to withdraw from Northern Ireland by bringing down the Ulster Parliament and making the country "ungovernable."

Named a vice-president of the Sinn Fein was David O'Connell, 33, who is wanted by British and Dutch police in connection with three tons of Czechoslovak arms seized Sept. 16 at Amsterdam. Authorities said the weapons were intended for the IRA.

O'Connell told Dublin's Irish Times that he had been in Eastern Europe to purchase rocket launchers, machine-guns and rifles for the IRA.

Meanwhile, British police arrested two Irish sailors from the crew of the Queen Elizabeth II. They had failed to return to the liner after she docked in Ireland last week and landed six suitcases in which were found arms smuggled from New York.

tonight. His departure to Cuba was set back to 8 a.m. Tuesday from 10 p.m. tonight.

The demonstrators — representing the Canadian Jewish Congress, the Jewish Defence League, the right-wing Edmund Burke Society and a number of ethnic organizations — gathered about four hours before Mr. Kosygin's arrival.

They sang Jewish songs and chanted "One, two, three, four, open up the iron door."

Others carried signs saying "Let my people go," "Bulgaria for the Bulgarians" and "Kosygin go home."

Reporters covering the demonstration had difficulty returning to the hotel despite their press credentials. Others were frisked.

Everybody who entered the hotel was subjected to a search of his car. Police maintained a vigil throughout the nigt.

It was an eventful weekend for Mr. Kosygin in Western Canada. After leaving Vancouver Sunday morning, he made a five-hour stop in Edmonton where he picked up the title of Chief Golden Eagle, toured a nickel refinery and accepted a gift of an 85-pound musk ox calf named Little Ivor.

GIFT FROM CHILDREN

Little Ivor didn't make it to the government house luncheon with Premier Peter Lougheed. The animal was said to be a little out of sorts after being separated from his mother on Saturday but will be shipped by air to the Soviet capital in a few days.

Bus Accident

MACKENZIE — Five people were treated for minor injuries and released Sunday after a bus accident in the Pine Pass area of the Hart highway about 80 miles north of Prince George. The bus, bound for Prince George from Dawson Creek, left the highway, described by RCMP as very slippery. Motorists have been warned to avoid the pass.

House Wrecked

VANCOUVER — A 40-year-old man has been held under the Mental Health Act after an incident in which a rooming house was wrecked. House-owner Henry Ostrowski told police the man shattered windows and mirrors, smashed toilets and tore out sinks before he could be stopped. Damage to the property has been estimated at a minimum of $4,000.

Teach-ins Urged

PRINCE GEORGE — Students opposed to the planned U.S. nuclear blast in the Aleutians were urged at the weekend by Dorothy Stowe of the Don't Make A Wave committee to organize teach-ins on possible effects of the blast. She spoke to about 400 persons at a rally organized by high-school students.

Crash Toll Rises

NORTH VANCOUVER — Carl W. Williams, 27, of North Vancouver, died in hospital at the weekend, bringing to five the death toll in an accident at the north end of the Second Narrows bridge across Vancouver harbor. The accident occurred when a convertible car slammed into a concrete divider at the north end of the bridge. RCMP said the barrier, consisting of sand-filled drums of a plastic-type material, was intended to slow down any vehicle hitting it and keep the vehicle from going over onto an embankment below the highway.

OVERHEAD STORAGE for hand baggage is the new look for airlines, eliminating the open racks which left open the possibility of handbags falling during rough weather. New drawers snap closed and are designed to stay that way until opened by passenger.' Here a stewardess inspects the design of a new Pacific Western Airlines 737.

Dollar Drops

TORONTO (CP) — The value of the Canadian dollar dropped back to 99.84 cents U.S. at the open of domestic currency markets Monday after closing Friday at 99.97 cents U.S.

The decline was attributed to the reduction in the central bank interest rate — the rate the Bank of Canada charges for loans to chartered banks. The bank reduced the rate Friday to 4¾ per cent from 5¼.

Prices Down At Toronto

Trading was light on the Toronto Stock Exchange today and prices were slightly lower on all fronts.

AT TORONTO in industrials, Falconbridge dropped 3¼ to $70, General Motors 2¼ to $78¾, Grafton Group 1⅛ to $17⅜, Ford of Canada 1 to $81, Bow Valley ¾ to $25¾ and Canada Cement ¾ to $41¾.

Supertest ordinary was up 1¼ to $54. Pacific Pete ⅛ to $30⅝, Alberta Gas Trunk ¼ to $48½ and Walker-Gooderham ½ to $35¾.

McIntyre was off 2½ to $67, Placer 1⅝ to $17⅞, Sherritt 1⅛ to $10½, Patino ¾ to $12¾ and Tara ⅝ to $11⅝.

Numac dropped ½ to $10¾, Canadian Export Gas 30 cents to $3.55, Total Pete 35 cents to $6.25 and Canada Southern Pete 25 cents to $5.35. Canadian Superior Oil was up ¼ to

AT NEW YORK the stock market bogged down today in apathetic trading and sank to its ninth consecutive loss.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was around its lowest level of the year as a result of observance of Veterans Day as a partial holiday.

Losses exceeded gains by a margin of about 2¼ to 1 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The decline ranged through the motors, mail order-retails, farm implements, aircrafts, utilities, non-ferrous metals, oils, and building materials.

Industrials lost .70 to 166.93, utilities .64 to 144.29, the composite .61 to 166.85 and papers .28 to 65.81. Banks were up .11 to 204.26.

Combined volume on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges was 433,800 shares compared with 351,800 shares at the same time Friday.

AT LONDON, the stock market declined sharply in quiet trading today.

Rank Organization was down and Beechams, Courtaulds and Dunlop reversed initial small gains. ICI, Glaxo and Plessey also were off, but Hawker continued to advance and Unilever rallied after declining Friday.

U.S. issues were down as well. G.E. was the main loser, while Chrysler, Ford and Bethlehem Steel also declined. ITT gained, however.

AT VANCOUVER, prices were down in light trading. The pre-noon volume was 1,376,010 shares.

Tokar led the industrial issues, holding unchanged at $1.45 after trading 4,600 shares. Capital Estates was unchanged at $5, and Hobrough was trading at $4, unchanged.

Peace River Petroleum was active in the oils and was down ½ at 14½ on a turnover of 14,500 shares. Freehold was up .04 at .10 and Plains Petroleum was unchanged at .23.

Anuk River topped the mines issues and was up .03½ at .24 on a volume of 614,000 shares. Bullion Mountain was unchanged at .40 and Great Northern Petroleum was down .08 at $1.07.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

Friday's volume of trade was 1,415,000 bushels of flax, 3,152,000 of rapeseed and 779,000 of rye.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat Friday included 657,000 bushels to India, 578,000 to Japan, 85,000 to Taiwan and 2,250,000 to the U.S.S.R.

FOOTBALL PLAYER COLLAPSES, DIES

DETROIT (AP) — Words were replaced by tears and bowed heads as Detroit Lions filed solemnly from their dressing room Sunday after a 28-23 National Football League loss to Chicago Bears.

Chuck Hughes was dead.

The likable, 28-year-old Lion wide receiver collapsed on the field with a minute left in the game and at 4:41 p.m., about an hour after the game, was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital.

Dr. Richard A. Thompson, one of two team physicians, said an autopsy would be performed today but added that cause of death was likely a ruptured vessel of the aorta, heart, or possibly the brain.

Reporters were barred from the dressing room, where the Lions said a team prayer for Hughes and waited — hopefully, but pessimistically — for news from Henry Ford Hospital of his condition.

It was pro football's first game-related death since December, 1965 when Mack Lee Hill died following surgery for a knee injury. And it was believed the first death ever in a major sports event in Detroit.

Chiefs Call a Halt To Redskins' March

By The Associated Press

It took a full-scale Indian war to stop the rampaging Redskins and when the dust settled, it was—quite naturally—the Chiefs who subdued the tribe.

Washington Redskins went into Sunday's National Football League action as the only undefeated team and it appeared they would stay that way as they carried a 17-6 lead into the second half against Kansas City.

But 30 minutes and three Len Dawson touchdown passes later, the Chiefs were whooping it up with a 27-20 victory.

"It's not the end of the world," Washington coach George Allen said. "We're a fine football team and we will come back. We were a team that was supposed to finish last. I'm proud of the way our team played."

BILLS BEATEN

In Sunday's other games, Chicago Bears defeated Detroit Lions 28-23, Miami Dolphins beat New York Jets 30-14, Philadelphia Eagles whipped New York Giants 23-7, Dallas Cowboys demolished New England Patriots 44-21, Oakland Raiders edged Cincinnati Bengals 31-27, Atlanta Falcons dumped New Orleans Saints 28-6, Los Angeles Rams shelled Green Bay Packers 30-13, Denver Broncos stunned Cleveland Browns 27-0, San Francisco '49ers slapped St. Louis Cardinals 26-14 and Pittsburgh Steelers turned back Houston Oilers 23-16.

In Saturday night's lone game, San Diego Chargers smothered Buffalo Bills 20-3. And tonight, in a contest that looms as a brutal defensive collision, Minnesota Vikings host Baltimore Colts.

Dawson, who wound up completing 10 of 23 passes for 203 yards, began hitting with consistency in the second half. He hit his favorite receiver, Otis Taylor, with scoring strikes of 26 and 28 yards and found Elmo Wright with a 15-yarder. That wiped out the first-half heroics of Washington passer Billy Kilmer, who teamed with Charley Taylor on touchdown tosses of four and 36 yards.

It was Kansas City's fifth successive triumph while Washington's streak ended at five, its best since the start of the 1940 season when the Redskins captured their first seven.

Third-string quarterback Bobby Douglass directed the Chicago upset, throwing touchdowns of 54 and 15 yards, then plunging over from the one for the winning score.

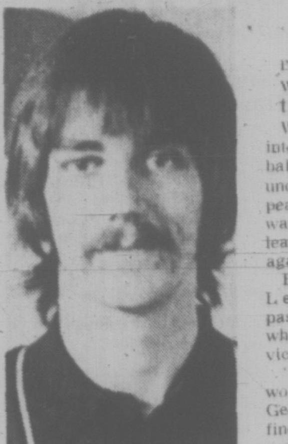
"We can do this against anybody," Larry Csonka said after scoring two touchdowns and teaming with Jim Kiick to roll up 258 yards on the ground in the Dolphins' romp over the Jets.

EAGLES WIN NO. 1

"It was a wonderful, wonderful feeling to win," coach Ed Khayat said after the Eagles beat New York for their first win of the season, thanks primarily to Happy Feller's three field goals.

The Cowboys opened their new home, Texas Stadium, in grand style as Roger Staubach threw touchdowns of 35 and 28 yards to Bob Hayes and ran two yards for another score against the outgunned Patriots.

George Blanda, who made a habit of saving the Raiders last season, came off the bench against the Bengals to direct his team-mates to two touchdowns and a come-from-behind victory.



CLIFF THORBURN

High Breaks Put Thorburn Into Lead

TORONTO (UPI) — Western Canadian open snooker champion Cliff Thorburn of Victoria, made three century breaks — 125, 133 and 103 — Sunday in the Chenier North American Snooker Classic.

Thorburn's 133 break gave him the high run lead in the Molson division of the classic. Sal Vinci of Toronto had previously made a 132 break.

Other leaders in the Molson's division were Bob Paquette of Montreal, Julien St. Denis of Hull, and Winnie McKinley of Toronto.

Hornets Capture Bantam Crown

In the final analysis, one game decided who would win the Vancouver Island Bantam Football League title this year. And it was played long before the season ended.

The teams involved in the first-place battle were Saanich Hornets and Oak Bay Invaders. Both clubs recorded victories Sunday to finish the season with identical 8-1-1 records. Hornets narrowly escaped defeat in Cowichan as they edged the Chiefs, 14-13, and Invaders bombed Knights of Columbus, 32-7.

But the deciding factor that gave Hornets the league championship was their 22-12 victory over Oak Bay earlier in the season that gave them an edge in games between the two clubs. In their first meeting the teams had tied, 26-26. That's how close it was.

SCORING LEADER

Quarterback Christy Sinclare scored two touchdowns and converted both to lead Oak Bay to its victory over Knights. Sinclare finished the season with a remarkable total of 137 points — highest in the league.

Iain Benson, John Smith and Kerry Gudgeon also scored majors for Invaders, who led 19-0 at half time. Andy Macuck scored Knights' only touchdown and converted it.

TIGERS WHIPPED

In another Sunday game, Saanich Chargers whipped Juan de Fuca Tigers 26-12 to finish the season in third place.

Rick Jones, Jim Gardner, Don Irving and Randy Beck also chalked up majors for Chargers. Jones and Irving converted two touchdowns.

Sudden-death semi-final games will be played at Royal Athletic Park Wednesday, with the survivors meeting for the playoff championship next Sunday.

PRETTY CLOSE TO CLINCHING DRIVING TITLE

ROCKINHGAM, N.C. (AP) — Richard Petty led the final 150 miles of the wreck-filled American 500 stock car race Sunday and registered his 19th triumph of the NASCAR Grand National season.

Petty, one of auto racing's three $1 million career winners, completed the 300-mile-long grind around the one-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway in four hours 23 minutes and 42 seconds.

Roughriders' Assault Buries Lions for Good

By The Canadian Press

The hectic battle for first place remains undecided in the Western Football Conference after high-scoring weekend games which featured brilliant individual efforts and another record by Saskatchewan's George Reed.

However, it wasn't a total loss as far as the playoff race is concerned, thanks to Winnipeg Blue Bombers who took an away-from-home 19-18 win over Montreal Alouettes in a Canadian Football League interlocking game Sunday.

It was enough to clinch the third and final playoff position for the Bombers the first time they've been in the Grey Cup battle since 1966 — although they had to wait a few hours to celebrate.

TIED AT 19 POINTS

Later in Regina, Saskatchewan Roughriders hammered British Columbia 50-18 to knock the Lions out of the playoffs. In Calgary Saturday night, the red-hot Edmonton Eskimos won their fourth straight with a 31-12 triumph over the slumping Stampeders.

The Calgary defeat was the fourth in six games.

The results left Saskatchewan and Calgary in a first-place tie, each with 19 points, and both squads have one game remaining. If the teams are deadlocked at the end of the regular-season schedule, the Stampeders would get first because of a better points for-against in league games with the Roughriders.

In Regina, Reed shattered his third CFL record of the year — he also has the mark for career carries and touchdowns — as he picked up 47 yards on 11 rushes.

He surpassed the previous rushing level of 10,909 yards formerly held by Johnny Bright of Edmonton and Calgary. Reed now has 10,927 yards.

But the weekend belonged to quarterback Ron Lancaster and halfback Bobby Thompson of the Roughriders and quarterback Bruce Lemmerman of the Eskimos.

Lancaster fired four touchdown passes and combined with backup Bubba Wyche for 24 completions in 32 attempts for 411 yards. Wyche threw one touchdown pass, a five-yarder to Gordie Barwell — his second of the game.

The fleet Thompson, playing one of his better games since joining Roughriders three years ago out of Oklahoma State, collected three touchdowns.

He got one on a 97-yard pass from Lancaster to open scoring in the first quarter, and another on a 115-yard kickoff return.

Thompson took the kick five yards deep in his own end zone and fled down the sidelines for the second-longest runback in the CFL. The longest was in 1964 when Gene Gaines, then playing for Ottawa Rough Riders, scored on a 128-yard runback.

Other Saskatchewan touchdowns were scored by Silas McKinnie and rookie Bill Manhuk.

For the Lions, quarterback Don Moorehead tossed a five-yard pass to Jim Young for one touchdown and Jim Evenson ran over from the one-yard line for the other. Ted Gerela got a 49-yard field goal and two converts while Ken Phillips kicked a 47-yard single.

In Calgary, Lemmerman threw two touchdown passes, helped set up another, and scored one himself on a three-yard run.

Flanker George McGowan sparked the Eskimos with his third and fourth touchdowns of the season. His second of the night came in the third quarter on a 24-yard pass from halfback Gene Foster who took a short toss from Lemmerman.

SCORES ON PASS

Volly Murphy got the other touchdown for Edmonton, taking a 24-yard pass from Lemmerman, while Dave Cutler picked up 10 points on two field goals and four converts.

Edmonton, with 24 first downs to Calgary's 13, had 198 yards rushing of a total offence of 367 yards.

The WFC schedule winds up next weekend when Calgary visits B.C. for a game Saturday night and Saskatchewan travels to Edmonton for a Sunday afternoon affair.

Three-Way Tie Looms After Riders Beat Cats

By Canadian Press

Ottawa Rough Riders' dramatic comeback win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday and Montreal Alouettes' loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers Sunday didn't make the job of Greg Fulton, Canadian Football League statistician, any easier.

The Riders, rebounding from a 16-6 halftime deficit, crushed Hamilton 40-16 while the Als dropped a 19-18 game at home to Winnipeg.

The results left Hamilton and Montreal with 6-7 won-loss marks and Ottawa at 5-8. Each has one game left in Eastern Football Conference play with the possibility of a three-way tie for second place looming even larger.

FIRST FORMULA OUT

The Riders, who have put 85 scoring points on the board in their last two starts, are hosts to the defending Grey Cup champion Als next Saturday while the Ticats send their anaemic offence into Toronto against the EFC champion Argonauts Sunday.

An Ottawa win and Hamilton loss would leave three clubs with identical 6-8 marks.

The first formula put forth by the CFL offices to break such ties has no bearing in this case since Montreal has beaten Hamilton twice, Hamilton has beaten Ottawa twice and Ottawa has beaten Montreal twice in games played this year between the clubs involved.

MORE COMPLICATED

From there formula evolved becomes a little more complicated. It involves aggregate points in games between the three clubs, considering the points for and against.

Ottawa, on the strength of Saturday's victory, has the edge with a plus-13 aggregate; Montreal is zero, and Hamilton is minus 13.

The Ticats, who could easily have parlayed eight Ottawa turnovers in the first half into at least 30 points, could only muster a 16-6 lead and this vanished quickly once the Riders got over an extreme case of fumblitis.

Defensive halfbacks Barclay Allen and Al Marcelin put the finishing touches to the humiliating Ticat setback when they intercepted two desperation passes by Hamilton quarterback Joe Zuger in the final minute and returned them for touchdowns.

Gerry Organ contributed four field goals and four converts, for 16 points, including kicks of 27 and 14 yards early in the fourth quarter that sent Ottawa into the lead.

Don Jonas' 13-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter at Montreal assured the Blue Bombers of a playoff spot in the West.

HAD MISSED THREE

Jonas, who missed three earlier field goal attempts, also kicked two singles and converted touchdowns by Paul Williams and Mack Herron.

JUDY LAST VICTIM ON UPSET PARADE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jane Youngberg of Vancouver capped a string of upsets with a surprise win Sunday over Judy Rollick of Vancouver to win the women's single final of the British Columbia Open badminton championships.

She defeated Mrs. Rollick, fourth seed in the championships and fourth-ranked in Canada, 4-11, 11-6, 11-8.

Jamie Paulson of Calgary won the men's singles over Bruce Rollick of Vancouver, Judy's husband, and current Canadian singles champion, in straight sets 17-16, 15-4.

* * *

In women's doubles, Mrs. Rollick teamed with Mimi Neilsson of Vancouver to defeat Toronto's Jennifer Dakin and Nancy McKinley 15-9, 15-3. Miss Neilsson joined Rolf Paterson of Vancouver to win the mixed doubles over Yves Pare of Montreal and Marjorie Shedd of Toronto 15-8, 12-15, 15-5.

The men's doubles winners were the Calgary team of Raphi Kanchanaraphi and Channerong Ratanaseangsuang, Downing Pare and Paulson 15-9, 15-8.

Paul's Miss Shot At Soccer Lead

VANCOUVER — Paul's Canadians staged a strong second-half comeback bid, but were defeated 3-2 here Sunday by North Shore Labatts in a closely-fought Pacific Coast Soccer League game that ended in players trading punches on their way to the dressing rooms.

It was the first loss of the season for Canadians after three starts. A win would have given them sole possession of first place, but Victoria West-United, which was idle at the weekend, still holds down the top spot.

North Shore struck quickly as Rick Thomas scored at the two-minute mark. Ken Legge and Ron Hilder added further goals to put Labatts ahead 3-0 with only 18 minutes played.

FINE GOALTENDING

Canadians' fullback Barry Keating got one back with a blistering 25-yard shot before half-time, and Paul's poured the pressure on in the second half.

Harold Hansen put the game within reach midway through the second half, but Paul's bid for a tie was foiled by some standout goaltending by Billy Grant.

On Saturday, University of British Columbia Thunderbirds moved into a third-place tie with Vancouver Inter-Italia with a 2-1 victory over the Blues.

Spanish Ace Upsets Lutz

BARCELONA (Reuter) — Unseeded Manuel Orantes, the Spanish champion, won the men's singles title in the Count Godo international open tennis tournament Sunday when he beat American Bob Lutz 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 in the final.

The women's title went to Helga Hosl of West Germany, who easily defeated Chile's Anna-Marie Arias Pinto 6-2, 6-1.

Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia and Juan Gisbert of Spain beat Cliff Drysdale of South Africa and Andres Gimeno of Spain 7-6, 6-2, 7-6 in a two-hour men's doubles final.

Cougars Find Problem Catching Fleet Tigers

By ENIRE FEDORUK

The version of the Western Canada Hockey League game between Victoria Cougars and Medicine Hat Tigers is tag. The Tigers are "it" but the suspicion is that the Cougars may have a hard time catching Medicine Hat.

The Cougars failed to catch or tag the Tigers on Saturday, and Medicine Hat walked out of Memorial Arena with an impressive 7-3 victory before 2,870 fans.

Big and fast, the Tigers' strong offensive game was too much for Victoria. Although it was only the second victory of the season for Medicine Hat, Tigers showed more class and polish than any of the three clubs — Vancouver, Flin Flon and Calgary — who previously appeared in the Arena.

"They played the kind of hockey you expect to see in mid-season, and not at this time of the year," Victoria coach Fred Hucul said of the Tigers.

FAST FROM OWN ZONE

Strong on positional play, the Tigers broke out of their own zone with great speed. And in centres Stan Weir, Lanny McDonald and Leif Jacobsen, the Tigers have pivotal strength that should rank with the best in the league.

Weir and linemate Jeff Ablett each scored two goals to spark Medicine Hat's performance — one which coach Jack Shupe termed a "night and day difference" over Friday's 6-5 loss to the Nats in Vancouver. Bill Christie, McDonald and Boyd Anderson added singles.

Rick Kennedy, Gary Donaldson and defenceman Jim Atamanenko were the only Cougars to beat goalie Leo Karchie, who came up with several big stops to backstop what seemed to be just a mediocre Medicine Hat defence.

KENNEDY MAIN VICTIM

Karchie took particular delight in frustrating Kennedy, the redheaded centre who came up with his best performance as a Cougar. In addition to scoring the game's first goal, Kennedy was robbed on at least four other clear-cut chances at Karchie.

Atamanenko, who also set up Victoria's first two goals with sharp passes, also stood out for Cougars.

It was an entertaining game, but the wide-open style doesn't seem to be cut out for the Cougars, especially against a team with the offensive power that Tigers displayed.

The Cougars made little or no attempt to slow the Tiger speedsters, as indicated by the penalty count. Each team drew a pair of majors but only seven minors were called.

An innocent relayed an opinion to Hucul that bodychecking might have slowed down the free-wheeling Tigers.

"That might be so," Hucul replied, "but we couldn't catch them."

Nats Surprise Tigers

By The Canadian Press

Captain Brian Walker scored twice Sunday to lead Calgary Centennials to a 7-0 victory over Edmonton Oil Kings and put his team at the top of the Western Canada Hockey League's Western Division with a 5-1 record.

In other action, New Westminster Bruins and Flin Flon Bombers split a weekend series. Flin Flon won 5-3 Saturday and the Bruins took Sunday's game 3-2.

Winnipeg Jets defeated Swift Current Broncos 5-2 and Vancouver Nats beat Medicine Hat Tigers 6-2 in the other Sunday games.

Don Martineau sparked Westminster Sunday with two goals, including the winner, as the bruins scored their come-from-behind victory over the Bombers. Blaine Stoughton gave Flin Flon a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period, which stood up until Martineau scored for the first time late in the second period.

In Sunday's Winnipeg-Swift Current contest, Dave Elliott led scoring for the jets with two goals. Reg Malinoski, Jeff Hunt and Gary Doerksen had the others. Twenty-seven penalties were called in the game.

In Vancouver, Grant Williams scored three times as the Nats downed Medicine Hat. Gord Stewart scored twice and Pat Russell contributed the other goal. Tom Lysiak and Stan Weir replied for the Tigers.

Only One Man Links Kosygin With Hosts . . . His Translator

TORONTO (CP) — The most important man on Alexei Kosygin's Canadian tour, besides the Soviet premier himself, probably is Victor Sukhodryev.

Mr. Sukhodryev rarely leaves Mr. Kosygin's side. When he does, the Soviet premier is unable to communicate with his Canadian hosts.

Only 39, Mr. Sukhodryev has been one of Russia's most widely-travelled interpreters for the last 15 years.

In a weekend interview, Mr. Sukhodryev said he started interpreting for Russian government leaders in 1956 when he accompanied Nikita Khrushchev, then Soviet premier, to the United States.

Mr. Sukhodryev was there when Mr. Khrushchev whomped a table-top with his shoe at the United Nations.

He also was present on a movie set in Hollywood when Mr. Khrushchev chided Shirley Maclaine and other dancers for flipping their skirts in a Follies Bergere number.

Translating can be a rigorous occupation, he says, thinking back to a five-hour interview Mr. Khrushchev once had with three United States reporters.

"During the fourth hour, I looked at my notes from Khrushchev and translated a couple of his answers and then realized I was talking to the Americans in Russian. I was getting pretty beat."

Mr. Sukhodryev tosses around idioms such as "pretty beat" with ease.

He lived in England with his mother, who worked in the Soviet trade delegation, from the age of seven to 13.

"When you're that young, a new language is easy to acquire," he says.

But idioms vary from country to country, and an interpretor has to be on his toes.

For example, last Wednesday at a news conference in Ottawa, Mr. Kosygin was quoted as saying that every country has its "riff-raff." This was in connection with the attack on him last Monday.

"I cannot treat the actions of certain riff-raff that exist in every country as the attitude of the Canadian people toward the Soviet Union," Mr. Sukhodryev quoted the premier as saying.

Was "riff-raff" exactly the word that Mr. Kosygin wanted to use?

Mr. Sukhodryev said several euphemisms flashed through his mind before he selected "riffraff." He said that the word presented Mr. Kosygin's sentiment accurately, but it probably was not precise.

KEEP WARM

True Confession Of a Ski Cheat

The president and officers of the newly-formed Cowichan Valley Ski Club who call themselves the Skyliners have invited my wife and me to their inaugural week-end on the Forbidden Plateau and I'd be a mighty poor sport if I refused.

Clearly, the boys and girls have seen through my little joke of a couple of weeks ago when, succumbing to every newspaperman's secret yearning to be a writer of fiction, I concocted an entirely imaginary account of an adventure on the higher slopes of the Alps. They're determined, obviously, to have the last laugh. Darned if I don't think I owe it to them.

In fact, I might as well make a clean breast of the whole fraud right now and freely confess that, all my life, I have been The Ski Cheat of the Western World. There! It's out!

It all began, as a small boy, when I was knee-high to a Gelandesprung. My father, chagrined at my habit of lying about the house reading Nietzsche, Schopenhauer, Burt L. Standish and illustrated medical books, purchased a pair of enormous planks identified as cross-country skis, buckled me into them and shoved me through the door in a northerly direction.

Soon I'd joined a ski club and, to the delight of my parents, spent nearly every weekend in the hills or, to be more specific, hard by the stove in the juniors' cabin where I quickly learned to smoke, drink and cheat at cards.

"They're making a man of my boy," my father would say proudly when I sloped home on Sunday night, flushed with my tiny hangover and the 48-hour barbecue effect of the stove.

If he'd ever sat in on our little discussion groups, which were devoted entirely to basic biology, he'd have been surprised to know how right he was.

I soon discovered that I loved every part of skiing except the part where you actually slide on the snow. This has shaped my single-minded approach to the sport ever since. I mastered the formula of Skiing Without Tears, sneaky little weasel that I was.

Now, after 30-odd years of it, I look back on skiing in the form of a montage in which figure prominently wide, hot fireplaces and tall, hot rums, all-night poker sessions, dancing in slippers by candlelight, marvellous vistas of winter playgrounds seen through frosted, weather-proof windows, harmonizing around the fire to the accompaniment of accordions and all sorts of splendid hot rums.

Indeed, the very best ski holiday I ever remember was just exactly like that. My wife and I had gone to Timberline Lodge on Mount Hood to celebrate our 20th wedding anniversary. On our very first day we elected to run the slope called The Miracle Mile and within the space of 20 minutes two things happened. One: My wife disappeared into the machinery at the top of the tow and the whole operation was shut down while she was extricated from the gears. Two: My wife then sprained her ankle half way down the hill and had to be rescued by a patrol, strapped in a toboggan, which then overturned, spraining her other ankle.

This, very successfully, got the skiing nicely out of the way and we had a wonderful week, lying in bed until noon, playing Chinese Checkers, and engaging in the apres-ski festivities each night, all without the necessity of going out into the cold.

No sport creates such congenial camaraderie. This is due in part to the wardrobe which is at once informal and kind of heroic. The white slopes outside will separate the men from the boys, but in the lodge, itself, before the cheery log fire (and with the hot rums in hand) every man has the appearance of having just Schussed the Widow's Leap.

The actual skiing part, as I say, never intrigued me. I made the discovery very early in my career that skiing has a number of insurmountable drawbacks.

It is, for obvious reasons, cold. There is a great deal of falling down and getting up, which never appealed to me very much. There's an awful lot of work involved in it for the excitement of risking a compound fracture. It was just one of those things, like weight lifting, that seemed, from the beginning, foreign to my delicate nature.

How I reconciled my repugnance for the outdoor part with my love of the indoor part is a saga of sheer chicanery.

Part of my secret lies in mastering the gentle slope which leads away from the chalet, any chalet. I went to considerable pains to establish myself as the lone skier, eager to set off for the higher slopes unfettered by lesser mortals. It is my practice to make a great show of preparedness, waxing my skis, donning my considerable equipment and then standing theatrically outside the lodge, flexing my knees and leaning on my poles. I do this terribly well if I say so myself.

Then, with a great shout of "Ski Heil!" I coast down the four-degree incline, skid around the bend and fall down and laugh, laugh, laugh. By the time I've recovered my wind they'll all be gone and I can walk back and be warm all day.

Another device, which must be used sparingly, is The Limp. A rueful description of how you sprained a fibula while trying to perfect a reverse Christiana, accompanied by a stoic gritting of the teeth as you hobble to the bar, will generally do the trick.

I will elaborate on all this for the benefit of the Skyliners when the weekend comes unless, as I suspect, 90 percent of the membership are up to the same game themselves.

Ask the Times

Q. After a recent air trip to Hawaii and England we found many films in our baggage had turned out blank. Other people have told us they have had the same experience, and that this is due to airlines x-raying passengers and their baggage, which damages the film. Is this correct? — M.H.

A: An Air Canada spokesman said such complaints are received from time to time, but there is no substance to them. Those airlines using screening devices, he said, have magnetically-operated metal detectors which could not possibly damage films. The official said it would be completely impractical to attempt to x-ray passengers and their baggage.

Q. The world "waffle" frequently appears in news items dealing with the New Democratic Party. What is the full title of the group and what does the name stand for? W.R.C.

A: The Waffle, this is its full title, is a group of left-wing activists within the NDP party which began coming into prominence after the publication of a manifesto by Professor Melville Watkins of the University of Toronto and James Laxer, a history lecturer at Queen's University. To waffle means to equivocate and the group, originally, were determined not to waffle. The name began as something of a joke — but the group decided to stay with it.

Weekend Fire Destroys Seamen's Club Building

Still smouldering this morning, the Club 44 building at CFB Esquimalt was completely gutted this weekend by fire which broke out Sunday morning.

Officials in the base comptroller's office said they were unable to give an estimate of the loss today until a complete inventory has been made. The building was used as a club for leading seamen and corporals.

The fire was discovered about 10:20 a.m. Sunday by the club's president, LS Gordon Kimmett.

BOILER ROOM

Believed to have started in the boiler room, the fire spread rapidly until flames were shooting through the roof.

Although the fire was contained it took four rigs, two from the dockyard, one from Belmont and one from Esquimalt, to bring the blaze under control.

Built in 1942, the building was double-walled and insulated.

The dockyard firemen's stock of air canisters was depleted as the crews worked for hours to subdue the flames. Extra ones had to be rushed from Belmont.

Fire rigs had to be called off twice in the afternoon to answer two other alarms, one of them false.

GREASE FIRE

An Esquimalt crew raced to the dockyard to put out a grease fire that started in the galley of the destroyer-escort HMCS Gatineau at 2 p.m.

One of the dockyard rigs was sent to Work Point at 4 p.m. when another alarm was turned in. Reaching the Work Point barracks they found a failure in the electrical alarm system which triggered the false alarm.

A board of inquiry has been ordered to investigate the Club 44 fire and will report its findings to Rear-Admiral Richard Leir, commander of Maritime Command Pacific.

Soviet Seaman in Jail

A Russian seaman who jumped ship in Nanaimo last week will go before a department of immigration inquiry this afternoon at Victoria city jail.

"The first thing we have to find out is whether he is seeking political asylum or is just a deserter," Douglas Cook, district administrator, said today.

The seaman, Andrei Vlasov, 33, an engine room motor man with the Russian freighter Dzhurma, was being escorted from Nanaimo late this morning by RCMP who have held him since he turned himself in on Friday after the freighter left at noon that day.

A lawyer will be made available to Vlasov this afternoon, Cook said. The proceedings will decide, depending on final approval from the federal immigration minister, whether the man will be deported or allowed to stay. Meanwhile, Vlasov remains in custody.

Vlasov is understood to have told the RCMP in Nanaimo that he is seeking political asylum.

He jumped ship on Thursday and hid overnight in bushes before going to a Dairy Queen in Nanaimo in the evening and asking the attendant to phone "police" the only word in English he appeared to know.

The freighter, which was loading logs for Japanese ports, delayed its scheduled departure Thursday night until Friday noon.

Vlasov had been a crew member on the ship from February 1970.

Uniform Ambulances Urged

A regional ambulance service that would offer all Greater Victoria residents the quality of equipment that only Saanich residents now receive has been called for by the B.C. Medical Association.

Saanich municipality ambulance is specially equipped and staffed to resuscitate persons overcome by heart attack.

"The fact is that this care is available only to those persons in Greater Victoria who happen to live in Saanich," said the report by the traffic and safety committee of the BCMA, which is under the chairmanship of Dr. Peter Ransford of Victoria.

The report also said that "while in isolated instances the ambulance services may have improved, taken over-all there is still much room for improvement."

The Saanich ambulance has a defibrillator that is used to restore heart beats and a radio that transmits eardiograms of patients to the Royal Jubilee Hospital before the ambulance arrives at the emergency ward.

The attendants are also trained to inject drugs if it is decided by the service's medical consultant.

Brothers, Board To Meet Today

The entire Campbell River school board was to meet Education Minister Donald Brothers this afternoon here. But it is unlikely the delegation will make headway in winning back accreditation for Campbell River Senior Secondary.

'NO COMMENT'

J. R. Meredith, superintendent of instructional services for the department of education, had "no comment" to make on the accreditation withdrawal, which drew charges of "politics" from principal J. A. Young and protests from teachers, trustees, parents and students in Campbell River.

Meredith, who has been out of town and unavailable for comment since his notice of accreditation withdrawal became public two weeks ago, did say that it is "not normal" for a school to get its accreditation back within the same year it is withdrawn.

Asked if the school could get accreditation back as soon as it cleared up department complaints against it, Meredith said that it is normal for accreditation to be restored after a year or even more.

In reply to charges that the department in this case violated its own policy of giving a school at least two years' notice before withdrawal, Meredith said "no comment." Campbell River Senior Secondary, which has drawn the attention of educators throughout Canada for its free approach to learning, lost its accreditation four months after the first warning.

Young commented this morning that "the whole thing is preposterous. How do you get around bureaucrats like Meredith who are not accountable to the public?"

14 COMPLAINTS

The department took away accreditation because of 14 complaints, which included failure to hold routine departmental testing, lack of clear policy in testing and promotion procedures, and slightly below average academic performance on the part of graduating students.

Young brushed these complaints aside as picayune.

Accreditation withdrawal means that a high school can no longer recommend Grade 12 students for university entrance and that all must now write final exams.

Needy Enjoy Surplus From Cool-Aid Farm

Victoria Cool-Aid's three-acre farm in Saanich was so productive that the group donated leftover vegetables to poor people and charitable organizations, staff worker Rick Stamford said today.

Stamford co-ordinated work at the Saanich farm with the help of other staff workers Benny Quay and Ernie Seedhouse. Total farm expenses this summer came to $8,226, Stamford said in his report on the project.

Financing came from the federal Opportunities for Youth program. Stamford said Cool-Aid intends to work the land again next summer.

Farm produce fed young people who stayed at Cool-Aid's hostels in Victoria. Young transients were hired for one day in groups of five to work the farm. They received $8 a day.

Stamford's report said this works project resulted in a large decrease in the number of young people going to Victoria's welfare department to get transportation money off the Island.

The OFY grant also paid for installation of a water line, irrigation system fittings, seed, fertilizer, tools and field cultivation.

The land was leased from Saanich for a nominal $1 a year. Stamford said many Greater Victoria residents donated time and equipment as well as technical know-how during the early stages of the project.

Cool-Aid grew only organic vegetables. Produce included peas, corn, soybeans, cabbage and beans. Only natural fertilizers were used.

"The most important benefit from the OFY program was the chance to organize a project and take the responsibility for it. Working close to the government allowed a greater understanding on our part of the complexity involved with such large-scale organizing," Stamford said.

CUPE Talks Resume

Negotiations will resume next week between three Victoria private hospitals and the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The negotiations for renewal of existing collective agreements also involve Simon Fraser Private Hospital in Prince George.

In Victoria, the talks involve Glenwarren, Glengarry and Richmond Heights private hospitals. All together, about 120 employees are members of CUPE.

While no details were disclosed, CUPE staff representative Alex Markides said employees voted 96 per cent to reject the first offer by the managements.

Members of the same union have been on strike at Sandringham Private Hospital for almost 13 months seeking a first contract.

Songhees Get $6,300 From Fund

Songhees Indian band has received a total of $6,300 from the provincial First Citizens' Fund, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today.

The money will be used for recreation and nursery school expenses. Campbell is chairman of the First Citizens' Fund advisory committee.

He also announced that the Becher Bay Indian band has received $9,000 for operating expenses at their marina. The grants were made following a committee meeting Oct. 13, Campbell said.

The John Howard society of Vancouver Island received a grant of $10,110 for an Indian court worker, and a similar grant went to the John Howard society in Vancouver. More than $220,000 was distributed to 36 bands, individuals or societies.

Pepin to Head Tourism Meeting

Federal trade minister Jean-Luc Pepin will be chairman of the federal-provincial tourism concerence this week in Victoria, Ottawa confirmed today.

The conference, which opens tomorrow and will run through to Thursday, is being held in Victoria to honor B.C.'s centennial year.

Governments as well as representatives from all parts of the $1.2 billion a year tourist industry will attend the conference.

Pepin estimates that by 1980 the tourist business in Canada will provide an income for the country of $3.5 billion.

Aliens Possible On Voters Lists

But it would be illegal for them to vote; even if they are on the list, because they do not meet the requirement that voters must be Canadian citizens or British subjects.

Other requirements include being 19 years or older and for non-property owners, residence for at least six months in the municipality.

Saanich clerk and returning officer Gordon Hayward does not believe the possibility of aliens getting on to the voters list is much of a problem.

"To my personal knowledge, I don't know of anyone not qualified who voted and I don't really believe it is a problem," he said.

Victoria clerk and returning officer Morran Waller said "we can't tell" if it is a problem.

The bulk of the voters list comprises property owners and this information comes from the land registry office.

Both Hayward and Waller said land registry used to supply citizenship information with property registration but this has been discontinued.

Hayward said because it is possible for the names of aliens to appear on the voters list this "does not make it right for them to vote and they shouldn't."

He said such persons could be challenged at the polling station and the clerk can demand proof of citizenship.

UVIC STAFF GIVES $3,000 TO APPEAL

Early returns from the United Appeal canvass among University of Victoria staff are pleasing campaign chairman Eric Charman.

Charman said today the canvass only started Friday but the total, with 58 returns in, already exceeds the $3,000 mark.

"That's over $56 apiece so far, a fairly hefty increase on the university average last year," he said.

Total university staff including faculty, secretarial and outside workers is nearly 1,000.

Despite this pleasing aspect of the campaign, Charman said there must be a substantial increase in employees' contributions on the payroll deduction system if the drive is to meet its $758,723 target.

The weekend total was $348,500, or about 46 per cent of the goal.

Anyone wanting to have donations collected should telephone the United Appeal office at 385-6708 or Charman's office at 385-9765.

Donations may also be left at the Appeal office at 1951 Cook or at Charman's office at 608 Broughton.

Weapons Seized In Toronto Raids

Kill-Kosygin Attempt Feared

By RON SUDLOW

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police, who carried out weapons raids on 18 Toronto homes and arrested two men Sunday, continued stringent security measures today to protect visiting Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Police were stationed at almost every intersection and on every overpass this morning as the Kosygin motorcade left the hotel and drove 10 miles east to Pickering.

Mr. Kosygin, accompanied by Soviet ambassador Mirosh Nichenko, toured Ontario Hydro's $746 million nuclear generating plant there.

The raids Sunday followed tips to police that an attempt would be made on Mr. Kosygin's life. Weapons seized included a machine gun, some M1 semi automatic U.S. Army rifles, knives and bayonets. Some of the guns were loaded.

Gerald Doyle, 18, was charged with possession of a restricted weapon and possession of an offensive weapon. Kenneth Wilson, 27, was charged with one count of possession of an explosive substance, two charges of possession of restricted weapons and one count of possession of stolen goods valued at more than $50.

Toronto Police Chief Harold Adamson, who described the raids as the stiffest security measures here in recent years, said the action was taken "within the law for the safety of all — the safety of the visit as well as the public."

Chief Adamson said he was concerned about demonstrations planned by about 50,000 area Jews, Hungarians, Czechoslovaks and Ukrainians. He feared a "fanatical fringe" might try to incite trouble.

Special teams of police officers have been studying files to become familiar with known anti-Communist agitators. The science centre, normally open to the public, will be closed today.

SENATOR TOURS TOO

Mr. Kosygin, hatless and smiling, looked at a scale model of the plant before starting the tour, greeted various plant executives and signed a guestbook. He was accompanied by Senator Paul Martin.

Tight security was in evidence Sunday night when Mr. Kosygin's plane from Edmonton landed in a wind-whipped rainstorm. Police cordoned off a section of Toronto International Airport prior to his arrival, and reporters covering the event were checked at least twice for accreditation and identification.

Police also kept the 67-year-old leader well away from about 200 demonstrators at the Inn on the Park, where Mr. Kosygin occupied a $160-a-day suite Sunday night. He was to occupy the same suite carpeted with deep shag rugs and equipped with two 26-inch color television sets.

BREZHNEV WOOS PARIS

PARIS (UPI) — Smiling and relaxed on his first visit to a Western country, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev said today he hoped to "clean up the dust of the cold war."

He made the statement in reply to President Georges Pompidou's speech of welcome at the Elysee presidential palace barely an hour after arriving from Moscow for a heavily-guarded six-day official visit.

Brezhnev said, "The Soviet Union has a sincere desire" to improve relations with the West. He said this was in the interest of both the Soviet Union and France and called for "mutual co-operation in Europe and of the peoples of the world."

Pompidou also called for good relations between Paris and Moscow as "a necessary element and probably essential to the security of Europe."

Brezhnev, accompanied by his wife and a half-dozen top Kremlin officials, flew into Paris and the heaviest security ever mobilized in France for a foreign leader.

Parisians gave him a lukewarm reception, despite urging of the Communist party to turn his visit into a triumph.

U.S. Surcharge 'Changes Rules'

OTTAWA (UPI) — The U.S. imposition of a 10-per-cent import surcharge has "unilaterally changed the rules" for bilateral trade, but Canada will not strike any bargains for repeal of the surcharge, according to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

In an interview with the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) taped for weekend release, Sharp said that over the years Canada and the U.S. had worked out rules for bilateral trade.

"Now," he said, "they have unilaterally changed the rules of the game and I consider this to be quite inadmissible. We won't play that way. We have already bargained for access to their markets."

Sharp said that while Canada was willing to help the U.S. with its balance of payments problem, "we are not going to bargain over the surcharge.

"The Canadian government has an interest in the prosperity of the United States, but what we have been asked to do — bargain our way out of this surcharge — is an inadmissible situation," he said.

Sharp also predicted that if the surcharge were to be left on for a year the U.S. could expect a public outcry from Canadians.

"The United States must realize," he said, "that Canadians resent these measures. They didn't deserve them. Canadians have a strong sense of nationalism . . . and they don't like being pushed about."

Sharp accused the U.S. of "hurting its best friends," since Mexico, which also relies on exports to the U.S., stands to suffer heavily from the surcharge.

NEWS BRIEFS

Trains Collide

TSU, Japan (UPI) — Two express trains collided head on in a 1,67-foot tunnel through a Japanese mountainside today when automatic braking devices failed. Prefectural police said 20 persons were known dead and that 12 more passengers were believed dead and trapped in the wreckage. Another 217 persons were injured, 37 seriously.

Talks Resume

Bell Silent

TORONTO (CP) — Most of Bell Canada's telephone operators in Ontario and Quebec remained off their jobs during the weekend as negotiators were starting to tackle money issues in their contract dispute.

India, Pakistan Charge Shelling

In New Delhi, the Pakistani diplomatic mission confirmed Sunday that a large part of its 140-member staff was prepared to return home.

Indian cabinet leaders met today to discuss the reported Pakistani shelling of Agartala, capital of the Indian territory of Tripura, on East Pakistan's border.

A four-man cabinet committee appointed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to administer the nation while she is on a 19-day tour of western nations discussed the shelling of Agartala, but details of the session were not disclosed.

FOUR KILLED

Four persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the shelling during which mortar shells fell in the central part of the city of about 60,000 persons. The casualties were the highest in any incident disclosed by government officials since the start of the recent buildup of Indian and Pakistani troops along the border.

Pakistan's government radio charged today that "Indian artillery" had shelled the town of Comilla Sunday afternoon while people were in the market places, killing 12, wounding 25 and destroying or damaging several houses.

The radio gave the time of the shelling as 4 p.m., which was about four hours before the attack on Agartala. Comilla is located about 25 miles south of Agaratala and about four to five miles inside the East Pakistan border.

RETALIATION

East Pakistani rebel sources in Calcutta, meanwhile, described the shelling of Agartala by Pakistan as a retaliatory move for recent activity in the Comilla district, which borders the town.

Indian military officials in Calcutta said they had no information on the incident in Comilla.

The increased tempo of reports of shellings and casualties came within hours after Mrs. Gandhi left India on a tour seen as an attempt to win greater support for India's position and enlist foreign help.

India's external affairs minister, Sardar Swaran Singh, and other foreign affairs and defence officials met today Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Nikolai Firyubin, who is in New Delhi for what is officially described as "routine" consultations between the two countries.

POLLEN MAY RUN

Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen is expected to announce his candidacy for mayor today at a press conference at 3 p.m.

Pollen said last week he would make a decision over the weekend and make a statement one way or the other.

Pollen's announcement will bring the number of candidates for the chief magistrate's chair to four. They are incumbent Mayor Courtney Haddock, Saanich Ald. Foster Isherwood and "lighthouse philosopher" Bill Scott.

Weekend of Violence Kills 6 in N. Ireland

BELFAST (CP) — Northern Ireland's weekend toll of dead civilians stood at six today after police marksmen killed a terrorist and wounded his woman accomplice outside a Belfast night club.

The incident, resembling a gangster movie, happened outside the Celebrity Club, in the fashionable centre of Belfast, just before midnight Sunday night.

Plainclothes police opened fire on two men and a woman hurrying away from the club where they had just left a time bomb in the lobby. One of the men fell dying, the woman collapsed wounded and the second man ran off.

Shortly afterwards the bomb exploded, sending the club up in flames but not before an army bomb disposal squad managed to get clear and club members had scrambled to safety through a back window.

SISTERS KILLED

It was the culmination of Ulster's worst weekend of violence in two months, bringing the death toll to 133 in more than two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

In the preceding 48 hours, troops shot dead two sisters in a car racing past army checkpoints in Belfast and killed three men suspected of trying to rob a bank, or bomb it, at Newry, by the border of the Irish Republic.

The deaths of the two women, who the army said were in a car from which shots were being fired at the troops, provoked bitter accusations by republicans and civil rights leaders against the army's methods and sparked off a series of violent incidents in Belfast.

Worse violence broke out in Newry Sunday after three men were shot and killed by troops who saw them apparently trying to carry out a robbery at a bank. The army said the men refused to stop after they were challenged, and the troops opened fire.

A day of rioting in Newry followed, and Sunday night the 30-foot flames of a blazing timber yard illuminated a cortege of more than 1,000 mourners following the coffin of one of the men, 19-year-old Sean Ruddy, through the rubble-strewn streets.

Similar processions followed the bodies of the two other men from the funeral parlor to their homes. Armed soldiers stood at every street corner with guns at the ready as the mourners, four or six abreast, marched past.

QUESTION MAN

Early today the woman shot down outside Belfast's Celebrity Club was in hospital seriously wounded. A man detained near the scene of the club bombing was being questioned by police.

Snipers wounded five soldiers Sunday.

A policeman was shot in the head and critically wounded early today answering a knock on the door at his home.

In Newry, Bernadette Devlin, civil rights leader and a member of the British Parliament, told an angry crowd near the spot where the three suspected bank attackers were shot: "These British troops are murderers. The only time soldiers have the Medical Decisions For Young?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Children's Aid Society is expected to consider tonight a proposal to allow 14-year-olds to decide whether they want to receive medical treatment without their parents' consent.

"There's something to be said for making it easier for young people to get treatment irrespective of their parents' wishes," society president Mrs. Dorothy Beck said Sunday.

"If you can, it's best to respect the wishes of parents. But with some things, especially hepatitis or veneral disease, it's probably a good idea to be able to treat them without any interference."

Mrs. Beck was commenting on a request from the B.C. Hospitals Association that the provincial government allow persons 14 and older to make the final decision on whether they will receive surgery or other treatment.

At present, parents of minors can veto any treatment for their children, including abortions and blood transfusions, unless a doctor judges that the life of the minor is at stake.

The hospital association approved the proposal at its annual conference Saturday.

McCARTHY SEEMS SET TO TRY FOR PRESIDENT

ST. PAUL (WP) — Eugene McCarthy has written a letter to supporters that is tantamount to a formal announcement of his candidacy for president.

"I'm enlarging my staff and intend to establish very soon a formal campaign committee," says one passage in the letter, which is to be mailed on Tuesday.

The letter says one key concern "is in an active and positive effort to secure convention delegates with views similar to ours."

And it adds: "This will require involvement in politics in non-primary states, in those states that have quasi-primaries and those states that have full and open primaries," the former Minnesota senator said.

A source said the letter will be mailed to several hundred thousand 1968 supporters and other "friends" acquired since McCarthy's Democratic presidential campaign then.

The other ends with these words: "The party that wins the presidency in 1972 must stand for something. The election should not be settled by default, or choice of the better of two marginal alternatives."

Peking-Taiwan Racing Neck and Neck at UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Diplomats said the race was still neck and neck today as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an important question requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the Americans figured they had a 58-to-57 or 59-to-57 advantage with more favorable votes possible.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believe the voting would start Tuesday.

The important-question resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain to get a majority in the assembly but not a two-thirds majority.

The Albanian resolution was entitled to be voted on first because it was submitted first. But the United States had a motion pending to give its resolution priority.

The U.S. also was pushing a dual-representation resolution to offer both the Communists and the Nationalists seats in the assembly and offer the Communists the Chinese seat on the Security Council.

Peking has said repeatedly that it would have nothing to do with the United Nations as long as the Nationalists remain in it. Their supporters in the world organization say they mean it, but the Americans say there is no way to tell without trying them out.

The U.S. made one gain Sunday when officials in Rome said Italy would vote for the Albanian resolution but would abstain from the vote on the important question resolution. Many observers had believed Italy would vote against it.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would vote for the U.S. resolution but this had been generally expected.

The 23 sponsors of the Albanian resolution planned a last-minute strategy session today to discuss whether, in case their resolution failed, a proposal should be put in to make the American dual-representation resolution an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority.

Water-Dump Standard Set

The Pollution Control Board has set province-wide minimum standards for disposal of garbage and municipal waste-water for the first time in B.C.

The new standards won't apply to existing storm-sanitary sewage systems but upgrading of such systems will be subject to the new standards "with due regard to the quality of the environment at each particular location," said Walter Raudsepp, chairman of the board.

Discharges to fresh-water steams will require a stream flow of at least 20 times the proposed effluent flow to provide for adequate dilution.

THREE LEVELS

Three levels of effluent quality are also established for streams and fresh-water lakes based on biochemical oxygen demand and suspended solids content.

For salt water discharges, three alternatives for outfalls are provided. Under 10,000 gallons per day effluent, point of discharge may be 10 feet below low-water mark and 100 feet out from the low water mark. It could be 20 feet below and 50 feet out or 50 feet below with no restriction of the distance out.

The standards, which apply to recognized shellfish areas, also call for further distances from low-water mark for discharges in excess of 10,000 gallons per day. At 10 feet below, discharges must be 300 feet out; at 50 feet below, 100 feet out; at 100 feet below, no restriction on distance out.

Any deviation from the requirements will be "at the discretion of the board.

Three levels of handling refuse discharged on land are also established, ranging from daily covering for municipal dumps serving more than 5,000 persons to covering once every 20 days for smaller areas.

Job Programs Will 'Mesh'

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today the provincial job opportunity program will mesh with federal job stimultation programs to provide free labor for municipalities on eligible projects.

Campbell said letters have been sent today to inform municipalities of the opportunity.

Under a federal loan program which allocates $21 million to B.C., municipalities may recover 75 per cent of on-site labor costs for eligible projects such as water and sewer works and community buildings.

PROFIT

The provincial government will make up the balance under the job opportunity program where municipalities employ persons who have been on welfare for at least three months and resident in B.C. for a year.

In such cases, the province will pay 25 per cent of the wages, not the 50 per cent share set under the provincial program, Campbeel said. Otherwise, municipalities could make a profit on wages.

The minister said he can think of no excuse for municipalities failing to make application for approval of projects, but added that he could think of no excuse for such failure even when the potential job subsidy was just 50 per cent.

Campbell said the money will be allocated on a first-come first-served basis. The $21 million is B.C.'s share of $160,000 million announced by the federal government about 10 days ago for job stimulation. Projects must be completed by March 31, 1973, to qualify for the federal wage subsidy.

Singers Needed

The Squires — the local branch of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America are holding auditions at the K-Mart shopping centre Friday for new members.

A spokesman said auditions will begin at 9:15 p.m. in the shopping centre mall. The Squires currently have 35 members and sing at hospitals and conventions.

In Dublin, capital of the Irish Republic, about 800 demonstrators marched to the British embassy Sunday night shouting for an end to "murderous tactics of the British army in Northern Ireland."

SWEAR REVENGE

The Irish Republican Army swore to avenge the weekend deaths with "a life for a life." At a meeting in Dublin, the IRA chief of staff, Sean MacStiofain, told a cheering crowd the underground army was launching a final phase "more intensive than anything so far."

Ruari O'Bradaigh, president of Sin Fein, the IRA's political branch, said the movement would force the British army to withdraw from Northern Ireland by bringing down the Ulster Parliament and making the country "ungovernable."

Named a vice-president of the Sinn Fein was David O'Connell, 33, who is wanted by British and Dutch police in connection with three tons of Czechoslovak arms seized Sept. 16 at Amsterdam. Authorities said the weapons were intended for the IRA.

O'Connell told Dublin's Irish Times that he had been in Eastern Europe to purchase rocket launchers, machine-guns and rifles for the IRA.

Meanwhile, British police arrested two Irish sailors from the crew of the Queen Elizabeth II. They had failed to return to the liner after she docked in Ireland last week and landed six suitcases in which were found arms smuggled from New York.

tonight. His departure to Cuba was set back to 8 a.m. Tuesday from 10 p.m. tonight.

The demonstrators — representing the Canadian Jewish Congress, the Jewish Defence League, the right-wing Edmund Burke Society and a number of ethnic organizations — gathered about four hours before Mr. Kosygin's arrival.

They sang Jewish songs and chanted "One, two, three, four, open up the iron door."

Others carried signs saying "Let my people go," "Bulgaria for the Bulgarians" and "Kosygin go home."

Reporters covering the demonstration had difficulty returning to the hotel despite their press credentials. Others were frisked.

Everybody who entered the hotel was subjected to a search of his car. Police maintained a vigil throughout the nigt.

It was an eventful weekend for Mr. Kosygin in Western Canada. After leaving Vancouver Sunday morning, he made a five-hour stop in Edmonton where he picked up the title of Chief Golden Eagle, toured a nickel refinery and accepted a gift of an 85-pound musk ox calf named Little Ivor.

GIFT FROM CHILDREN

Little Ivor didn't make it to the government house luncheon with Premier Peter Lougheed. The animal was said to be a little out of sorts after being separated from his mother on Saturday but will be shipped by air to the Soviet capital in a few days.

Chinese Visit

VANCOUVER — The first appearance in North America by a sports team from the People's Republic of China is scheduled next month when a two-man badminton team starts a Canadian tour in Vancouver. Chinese stars Tang Hsien-Hu and Hou Chia-Chang will meet top Canadians Wayne Macdonnell and Bruce Rollick, both of Vancouver, in two singles and one doubles match in Vancouver Nov. 2.

Bus Accident

MACKENZIE — Five people were treated for minor injuries and released Sunday after a bus accident in the Pine Pass area of the Hart highway about 80 miles north of Prince George. The bus, bound for Prince George from Dawson Creek, left the highway, described by RCMP as very slippery. Motorists have been warned to avoid the pass.

House Wrecked

VANCOUVER — A 40-year-old man has been held under the Mental Health Act after an incident in which a rooming house was wrecked. House-owner Henry Ostrowski told police the man shattered windows and mirrors, smashed toilets and tore out sinks before he could be stopped. Damage to the property has been estimated at a minimum of $4,000.

Teach-ins Urged

PRINCE GEORGE — Students opposed to the planned U.S. nuclear blast in the Aleutians were urged at the weekend by Dorothy Stowe of the Don't Make A Wave committee to organize teach-ins on possible effects of the blast. She spoke to about 400 persons at a rally organized by high-school students.

Crash Toll Rises

NORTH VANCOUVER — Carl W. Williams, 27, of North Vancouver, died in hospital at the weekend, bringing to five the death toll in an accident at the north end of the Second Narrows bridge across Vancouver harbor. The accident occurred when a convertible car slammed into a concrete divider at the north end of the bridge. RCMP said the barrier, consisting of sand-filled drums of a plastic-type material, was intended to slow down any vehicle hitting it and keep the vehicle from going over onto an embankment below the highway.

THE WEATHER

An extensive cloud deck covered all areas of the forecast district early this morning. Rain is general over the entire coast with rain or wet snow over the central interior. Several Pacific disturbances moving rapidly eastward toward the Queen Charlotte islands are causing this poor weather.

The last in the series was about 200 miles off the southern tip of the Charlottes at forecast time and will cross the central interior today and into Alberta by tomorrow morning.

The associated frontal system will move southeastward across southern B.C. today and tonight and out of the province by noon tomorrow. Clearing behind the system will occur over the north coast on Tuesday but cloud and showers are forecast over the south coast and all sections of the interior.

KOSYGIN'S VISIT

Paper Slams Trudeau Stance

LONDON (CP) — The Daily Telegraph has made a stinging editorial attack on Prime Minister Trudeau in connection with the current Canadian visit of Soviet Premier Kosygin.

Trudeau "has made such anti-American capital out of Mr. Kosygin's visit . . . that he seems set on becoming a kind of Western Tito," the London newspaper says in a reference to the neutralist-inclined president of Yugoslavia.

The Telegraph contends that Kosygin "naturally took his cue in Canada from Mr. Trudeau's outrageous statement in Moscow recently that Canada feared American economic and military domination."

"He also took advantage of an invitation to address a joint Commons-Senate external affairs committee to slander Britain over Northern Ireland."

QUESTIONS THINKING

The Conservative-supporting Telegraph says that "Trudeau seems to have convinced himself — and many Canadians likewise embarrassed by the dependence on America which will always be Canada's most jealously-guarded birthright — that relations with Russia can indeed become as close as with America."

The paper then asks two questions about the thinking of Canadians:

"Do they really believe that relations with a closed, iron-curtain dictatorship are as easy as with America, with all her faults?

"How long do they think Canada could defend her vast riches without America's shield?"

The security crackdown on homes in Toronto prior to Kosygin's arrival there was given first place on one of the main national television newscasts in Britain Sunday night, topping in prominence even the latest crisis in Northern Ireland.

In Paris, meanwhile, the newspaper Le Monde noted what it calls Kosygin's offer to buy Canadian industrial equipment, notably computers.

"This was a way of replying to the restrictions imposed by Washington on (American) imports of industrial products," Le Monde says.

CITES STATEMENT

Without taking the hostile viewpoint adopted by The Telegraph, Le Monde cites a Trudeau statement about Canada's desire for having relations with Russia equally friendly as those with the United States.

The Paris paper agrees with some Canadian commentators that the Trudeau statement might mean a turning point in Canadian foreign policy.

"The mutual exploitations of resources in the far north isn't really the only factor conducive to 'rapprochement' between Canada and the Soviet Union and to estrangement with regards to the Americans."

Portrayal of Trudeau as an aspiring Western counterpart to Tito was a feature of an article on Kosygin's visit published by The Sunday Telegraph, The Daily Telegraph's sister paper.

Kosygin would like to see the Canadian prime minister in this role, The Sunday Telegraph says, and Trudeau himself "would probably be happy to move his country into a state of advanced neutralism—if he could."

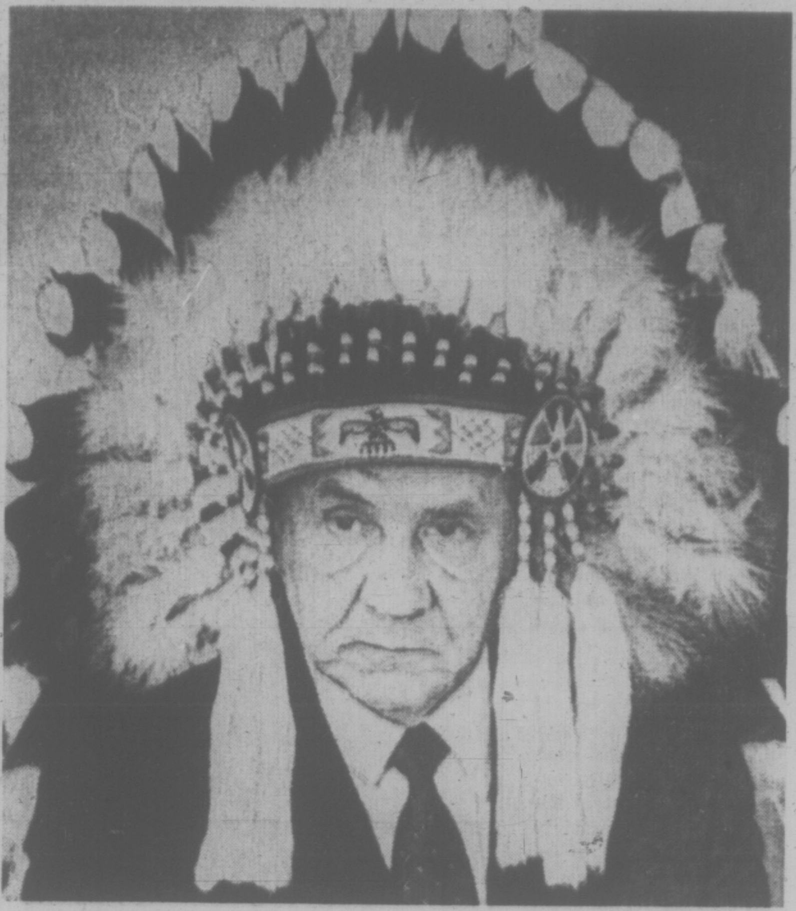
FREEDOM LIMITED

"But as both men know, Canada's freedom of action is limited," a factor the weekly paper attributes to Ottawa's close commercial and political ties with Washington.

The Sunday Times, like The Telegraph, emphasized present strains in Canadian-American relations.

Citing the current Canadian moves towards better relations with Moscow and Peking and a greater emphasis on independence, The Sunday Times, in story from Ottawa, says Trudeau "is an arrogant man and the Russians and the Chinese nurture his arrogance."

The paper adds that "the White House has studiously ignored it," which may be a mistake on Washington's part.



CHIEF GOLDEN EAGLE, also known as Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, got a new hat Sunday in Edmonton, not to mention the new name. Kosygin was honored by Ermineskin Indians of Hobbema, Alta., at a luncheon. Perhaps the new headgear will start a fad in the Kremlin. From the look on Kosygin's face, perhaps not. (CP Wirephoto).

Laird Warns NATO Against Force Cuts

BRUSSELS (AP) — Defence Secretary Melvin R. Laird of the United States began three days of conferences today with NATO allies with a warning against cutting their defences.

Laird told reporters the prospect of negotiations with the Soviet Union on reduction of forces in Europe had inclined European parliaments to cut their forces in advance.

He said this would be a grave mistake and "we should have just the opposite attitude."

Laird praised the European defence improvement program, under which the European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization promised last December to spend nearly $1 billion in the next five years to improve military communications and aircraft shelters.

The purpose was to appease critics in the U.S. Congress who don't think the Europeans carry enough of the Western defence burden, and the $200-million-a-year expenditure represents only a small increase in the European defence budgets.

Laird's schedule today included conferences with William Porter, head of the U.S. delegation at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris; Helmut Schmidt, the West German defence minister, and the defence ministers of Britain and Italy.

CALMER SEAS END SIEGE OF COUGAR

The fully-grown cougar that lay siege to two lighthouse keeping couples on Kains Island for two days has apparently swum back the 800 feet between the tiny island and the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Capt. Bill Exley, superintendent of lights, said today that the seas had become calmer Sunday, allowing the animal to make the return trip.

"It's a narrow gut there," he said "and it can get pretty rough."

During the two days the cougar was on the island the Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre had a helicopter standing by, ready to fly in a provincial game warden if the animal began to menace the residents.

Exley said that cougars had been seen on the island during the summer but the lighthouse keepers were concerned that this one might have been forced, by bad weather, to remain for a long period.

There are no deer — cougar's main source of food — on the island, which is heavily treed and only about an acre in size.

He Wouldn't Wait For the Cigarettes

A William Head inmate who ran from a prison vehicle that had stopped at a store Sunday was sentenced to a year in prison in court today for escaping custody and being unlawfully at large.

John H. Brown, court was told, ran from the car while the guard-driver was in the store buying him cigarettes.

Brown pleaded guilty.

A police officer said the accused was given a day pass from the prison Saturday and was later arrested in the city for being intoxicated. He was held in city cells overnight Saturday.

The officer said the guard arrived at the city police station Sunday morning to escort Brown back to William Head.

The guard stopped the car at Jenkins General Store, 4398 Metchosin, to buy Brown cigarettes.

Brown was apprehended about an hour later, the officer said, some two miles from the store.

Brown was serving a four-year term for robbery with violence and was to be released in July 1973.

Judge Edmond St. Jorre gave the accused six-month sentences on each of the escape and at-large offences to be served consecutively.

A New Try for World Peace?

The response of the world to the tragic Pakistani problem has been fairly generous although curiously detached. Both government and private contributions of food, clothing and money have reached an imposing level, but the aid itself is not extensive in view of the incredible problems presented by a refugee total which has been estimated at between four and nine millions.

It is the very magnitude of the situation which has perhaps discouraged public assistance from other countries: an individual's donation seems tiny and ineffective in the face of so overwhelming a disaster. Or perhaps the world is becoming immunized to mass starvation and death. The problem of the million Biafran babies left most Canadians confused and frustrated.

A hint of possible international efforts to get at the basic causes of such man-made genocidal events was contained in the remarks of External Affairs Minister Sharp to a Parliamentary standing committee earlier this month. Mr. Sharp referred to his recent statement to the United Nations Assembly regarding the inability of the U.N. to provide more than humanitarian relief in such cases as the Pakistan crisis.

"In Canada," Mr. Sharp said, "we believe in finding domestic solutions to domestic problems, as do the peoples of other nations. Certainly this is the outcome to be hoped for in Pakistan. I regret to say that at the moment I cannot be very optimistic. As armed conflict drags on in the Middle East, Indochina and now Pakistan it is clear that new means must be found for their resolution. The search for these new means will be a major preoccupation of the international community in the immediate future."

In these guarded words of diplomacy may we read the possibility of a new concept in global peace-keeping — one which will try to eliminate the bloody battling and drawn-out erosions of man-made agonies — or was Mr. Sharp voicing no more than a routine hope? Earthquakes, floods, large fires and other natural hazards elicit mankind's humanitarian response to the plight of the victims. But natural tragedies seldom exact the toll of human suffering and death that man himself imposes.

Has the world — and its formal conference place, the United Nations — reached a stage where it is prepared to do something about the political and military excesses that create casualty lists and refugee marches? If we are to regard such mass events not merely as tragedies for the residents of individual countries but as tragedies for residents of the world, then their relief, and their prevention, become a responsibility of the world rather than merely of a single government.

Obviously, there are vast problems of sovereignty involved in pursuing any such line of thought. But the military adventures common to the nineteenth century and the first 70 years of the twentieth have proved to be increasingly hard to justify in the light of results, increasingly hazardous to the whole range of mankind in view of the new technical achievements and the greater inter-dependence of our era, and increasingly unacceptable to the factual, down-to-earth assessment of events which today marks the common man's approach to world affairs. "New means for their resolution", to use Mr. Sharp's phrase, could win support from people the world over.

When Departure Becomes a Political Tool

Since Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan said that he would not run again for the presidency of the ruling Liberal Democratic party, the timing of his eventual departure from politics—perhaps within a year—has become a staple part of the political game in the island empire.

Although he has no real political future Mr. Sato wants to go down in history as the man under whom Okinawa was returned to Japan. At the price of his resignation, the opposition parties in the Japanese parliament or Diet may give the former bureaucrat an easy time and allow the numerous bills connected with the reversion of Okinawa to Japanese sovereignty to pass.

Premier Chou En-lai of China has not made matters easier for Mr. Sato by stating publicly he looks forward to a visit from the "next" Japanese premier. Mr. Nixon's forthcoming visit to Peking and his economic program have been interpreted as slaps at Japan which seriously undermine Mr. Sato's prestige.

As the Japanese await their premier's exit the world can only wonder if his successor will preside over a Japan whose friendliness will be as freely dispensed as in the past 25 years.

WILLIAM R. FRYE

Buddha or Dozing Dragon?

The pervasive influence of mainland China on world affairs continues to be one of the most striking features of the international landscape. All around a 360-degree horizon, China looms as a major factor in diplomatic calculations.

It is not simply that presidential assistant Henry Kissinger has been in Peking the past week preparing for President Nixon's coming visit—though this fact, of course, epitomizes the world's interest in closer contacts with China.

Nor is it simply that the question of how and when to bring China into the organized world community has been preoccupying the United Nations these days to the virtual exclusion of all else.

There is equally compelling evidence to be found in less-publicized developments.

In South Asia, the danger of a new war between India and Pakistan is extremely serious. But the thing which really gives chancelleries concern is the possibility that China, by manoeuvring its forces along India's frontiers in support of Pakistan, might trigger the mutual-assistance pact recently negotiated between India and the Soviet Union.

Spectre of War

Not merely could this raise the spectre of atomic war between the two great communist superpowers, but it could dig Soviet influence into the Indian subcontinent so deeply that India would become, in effect, a Soviet dependency.

The danger of such a chain of events could well have been a factor in Kissinger's hastily-arranged return to Peking.

In Japan, the whole future course of that emerging economic superpower is at issue in the domestic political turmoil precipitated by China policy. Premier Eisaku Sato, whose preference has been close ties with the United States, is fighting for his political life.

In the Middle East, Chinese influence among some of the Palestine guerrillas continues to be pervasive, though it no longer is a major complication in the search for peace. Should mainland China be seated on the UN Security Council, however, Mideast diplomacy in the world organization could take on a wholly new dimension of difficulty.

Along the Sino-Soviet frontier, formidable military concentrations still face each other along thousands of miles of disputed territory, and there has been renewed sparring of late in segments of this line. The fact that President Nixon has been invited to Moscow is in part a by-product of this massive confrontation.

The world's intense interest in the "Great Peking Mystery" — the puzzle of what has been going on inside China over the past several weeks — is a measure of the importance attached to Chinese policy and to the identity of the men who control it.

If a new man is emerging from the Chinese army to replace an ailing or dead Marshal Lin Piao as Mao Tse-tung's heir apparent, it will be one of the major developments of the year. Segments of the army appear to oppose rapprochement with the United States.

All these concerns have been part of the stage setting this past week as the UN wrestles with the disposition of China's seat.

A profound desire to moderate the long-standing hostility of Peking for the outside world is in conflict, at the core of this debate, with a wish to apply maximum leverage on the policies and actions of a major power centre.

The United States is arguing, in effect, that like a great river, Chinese policy can and should be channelled and dammed. Resist Peking's maximum demands, Washington says; refuse to seat Peking on her own terms (the expulsion of Taiwan). Make her pay a price for the commodity she obviously wants so badly: recognition as the sole legitimate government of all China — including Taiwan.

Turbulent River

Much of the rest of the UN General Assembly stands aghast at the thought of seeking to dam or channel such a turbulent river. Adjust the countryside to the river's chosen course, they say, and hope at best to build irrigation ditches and peripheral flood controls.

The two approaches are so nearly in balance that there is a good chance the UN will pass no resolution on Chinese representation this year: that the whole fight will end in deadlock, each side frustrating the other.

This would leave Nationalist China in the UN for another year, and give the United States the opportunity it seeks to attempt a bargain with China.

Would Peking mend its ways — for example, would it help with a Vietnam peace — in order to smooth its acceptance into the world community as the only China? Or would it angrily withdraw its tentative overtures and once again retreat into irrational xenophobia and self-imposed isolation?

No one knows. That is the way with China — it is as inscrutable as an oriental Buddha, and as unpredictable as a dozing dragon.

They Ganged Up on NDP

TORONTO — Thursday, Oct. 21, was a clear, warm autumn day across Ontario and a record 72 per cent of the province's 4.5 million voters turned out to return the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party for yet another four years in power.

Ontario voters started doing this nine elections and 28 years ago, and apart from the landslide Tory victory, few expected this time to be any different. The election campaign had been dull and deliberately low key, the government had a comfortable majority, and the Ontario Conservative Party, as usual, had not lacked for money to pay for the propaganda which, as usual, it mounts against the proposals and challenges of the opposition parties.

Why then did so many vote? Large turnouts usually do not favor the government; why then was the result a government sweep? Was it just the nice weather? Were the voters responding to the advertising of "the big blue machine," as the press called the Tory propaganda campaign, to do something for Premier Bill Davis on election day, because Bill Davis was doing so much for them?

Or were they perhaps voting not so much for Mr. Davis and his Conservatives as against that horrible thing called "Socialism" — to wit (but not too accurately), the Ontario New Democratic Party?

The last time anything like 72 per cent of the Ontario electorate turned out to vote in a provincial election was in 1945, when 71.5 per cent voted. The result then was to reduce the NDP's forerunner, the CCF, from an official opposition of 34 seats to a rump group of eight members.

Slowly Coming Back

But the NDP has been slowly coming back. It managed 20 seats in 1967, picked up another in a 1969 by-election. There has been a lot of press talk that the NDP is the party on the move, a lot of viewing with alarm by the Conservatives that the "Socialists" are the real threat and enemy.

On Oct. 21, the voters responded nobly. Alarmed at the prospect of an NDP government, they ganged up where possible against NDP candidates to give the Conservatives their huge majority.

This conclusion is inescapable when the voting strengths of the three parties are compared on a riding-to-riding basis with the results of the 1967 election. The NDP did not lose votes from 1967 to 1971; indeed, its popular vote increased from 26 to 27 per cent. It was simply snowed under by anti-votes — partly because 1967 Liberals voted Conservative this time (and in some cases, Conservatives voted Liberal) to defeat the NDP, and partly because persons who do not normally bother to vote trooped out to make sure the NDP was going nowhere.

In only eight of 117 ridings, for example, did the NDP fail to poll more votes, in absolute numbers, than in 1967 and four of these were in ridings where NDP candidates were re-elected. The Conservatives also fell below 1967 totals in eight ridings — but all except one

Thus in the southwestern Ontario riding of Perth, Liberal Hugh Edighoffer won in 1967 by only 187 votes, polling 9,971 over 9,784 for the Conservative and 3,191 for the NDP. This time, (despite population increase, the lowering of the voting age to 18 and Conservative victories elsewhere) the Conservative dropped a few hundred, the NDP went up a thousand, and Mr. Edighoffer won by 7,000.

In 33 ridings, the Liberals polled fewer votes than in 1967 while the NDP improved and the Conservatives soared dramatically. A classic example was Simcoe Centre north of Toronto, where Conservative Arthur Evans received 10,814 votes in 1967 against 8,284 for the Liberal and a paltry 1,686 for the NDP. This time, the NDP got 5,581, the Liberal fell to 7,908 and Mr. Evans received 17,025.

In Ottawa South, the 1967 split was 13,472 Conservative, 12,351 Liberal and 2,531 NDP. This time it was 10,718 NDP, 10,514 Liberal and 22,472 Conservative. In Temiskaming, NDP incumbent Donald Jackson actually increased his vote over 1967 but was defeated because the Liberal vote fell off and went to his major Conservative opponent.

Repeated in some 40 ridings across the province, the pattern is clear enough, that given a Conservative or Liberal incumbent, the voters tended to reinforce him at the expense of the NDP, and that this involved in particular a switch from Liberal to Conservative support. Overall, the Liberal popular vote fell from 31 per cent in 1967 to 28 per cent while the Conservative climbed from 42 to 44 per cent.

Other factors, of course, played a part in the end result. At least two NDP and three Liberal seats appear to have been lost because of the separate schools question, the opposition parties being in favor of tax support for separate schools through to the end of high school and the Conservatives opposed. Ethnic antagonism to the visit of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin also appears to have hurt the provincial Liberals badly in two Toronto ridings.

The Main Thrust

But the main thrust of the election was to reject an apprehended NDP government, however remote that possibility in reality was, and the only consolation for the NDP in this is that it required, as the Party has long contended it would, some realignment of the political spectrum, with the Conservatives and Liberals on one side and the NDP on the other.

The NDP, however, has failed in its goal of official opposition (Barring recounts, it has 19 seats against 20 for the Liberals and 78 for the Conservatives) and many party supporters must be wondering if it would not have done better if Stephen Lewis had not determined last year to supplant Donald MacDonald as party leader.

Mr. MacDonald had brought the NDP to a certain stage of public acceptability; after 17 years he was in fact something of an elder statesman, comfortable and familiar. Mr. Lewis was hot and radical and his chief preoccupation since becoming leader has been to cool it, to convince Ontario's inherently Conservative body politic that he is no flaming socialist, which indeed he is not.

Obviously he has not succeeded.

LETTERS

Who Needs a Street Number?

The postmaster has returned a piece of mail posted by me and addressed "Chief of Police, Oak Bay," with the endorsement by the post office "address incomplete." Is this what they call "working to rule" or does one public service, the post office, ignore the existence of another public service, the police? Or is it that the puritan post office does not know where the police station is located? Again, is it a "backlash" retaliation as a result of the recent "working to rule" some little time before?

Anyway it seems that the more we pay (with another increase in the price of stamps forecast for the New Year) the less service we get and the greater the gap between the public and the paid government monopolies.

The Postmaster General should be proud of this example of progress as a prognostication of the future efficiency of his department and the Liberal government of which it is a part. May he measure the merit of this forward movement by the accumulation of delayed mail which his menials seem to delight in refusing to deliver. — Clarence Goode, 1840 St. Ann.

Lost Newcasts

Three weeks ago the CBC cut out the British news from London without pre-announcement or explanation both at 9 a.m. on F.M. and 4 p.m. on A.M. and replaced them by one only at 7 a.m. on F.M.

I have written twice to protest and have not even had the courtesy of an acknowledgement of my letters.

'I believe quite a lot of people listened to and enjoyed the 4 p.m. news on A.M. and certainly the 9 a.m. on F.M. was more enlightening than a word for word repeat of the "World at 8" at 9 a.m. which is now broadcast. As one relay of the British news is still given — the "Canadian content" is not being helped by much — and why only at such an early hour and only on F.M.?

'It would be nice to have some explanation and nicer still to get an answer to a letter.

Perhaps if any of your readers enjoyed the 4 p.m. news from London, they would join my protest by writing to the CBC and we might at least get an answer!' H. Swinburne, 2175 Curteis.

Doors Can Be Opened

I am one of the tenants who was phoned lately about a visit by the United Appeal people. Next day (October 16) our landlord, Mr. Karcher, was mentioned in the Times re "closed doors."

Perhaps canvassers, where there is a controlled entrance, could buzz all apartments, write down the numbers of those willing to see them, then knock only on those doors. Personally, I'd like representatives of groups and good causes to have this privilege. (There's a little noise even in hospitals.)

Meanwhile I think that Mr. Charman and his helpers won't mind if I show that there's a different side of the coin where our landlord's public image is concerned.

I arrived here tired, elderly, and alone. Mr. and Mrs. Karcher took the trouble to meet and welcome me. A day or so later Mr. Karcher appeared at my door to do work in getting settled that I couldn't do.

60 Years Ago

From the Times of Oct. 25, 1911:

The conflict between the aldermen and the mayor over the new city police station reached another stage last night, when the city fathers, before a crowded council chamber, forced the executive head to vacate the chair and, with Mayor Morley merely a spectator, carried out their plans with comparatively little opposition. This morning, as a result of the discussion, they will take steps to ask the ruling of a judge of the supreme court as to the legality of the mayor exercising a right of veto to prevent the expenditure of the $30,000 voted for a new police station at the last annual election.

A Place That People Shun

EAST BERLIN — It's like being on the set of a surrealist movie, caught up in it, not understanding it but somehow hypnotized by it.

Emptiness is the big thing.

You enter East Berlin through the famous Checkpoint Charlie.

It is located in one of the slummier parts of West Berlin, and by the time you've gone through all the visa checks on the eastern side and ridden the subway to heart of East Berlin, the memories of the crowded, throbbing heart of West Berlin are dimmed.

By

DONALD STAINSBY

But even so you are hardly prepared for the vast emptiness of what was, in happier days, the actual downtown heart of the undivided city.

Alexanderplatz is looked upon now as the centre of East Berlin.

It is broad, huge, enormous. Hotel Stadt Berlin, the regimé's answer to Hilton, rises higher than any other building in all Berlin.

Not far away the once-famous Unter den Linden moves even more grandly to the Brandenburg Gate, on the other side of which The Wall severs it from the outside world.

But so few people!

In the chill October afternoon the wind swept across the platz, located where Berlin's imperial city hall had once stood, and dried leaves scuttered across it.

But in all that space, not more than two dozen people.

A policeman stood in the middle of the broad avenue directing traffic — a dozen cars this way, half as many the other.

Even in Alexanderplatz where the great hotel rises across from one of the main underground and elevated railway stations, the people could be counted in hundreds where there is space for tens of thousands.

Walking down Karl Marx Allee, under the huge slogans on the buildings proclaiming, among other things, that "there is life and strength in the community of socialist states," there were no crowds, no jostling, no sense of citiness.

It is hard to believe that 1.1 million people live in East Berlin, about a third of the total city's population. It is true that they have 45 per cent of the city's total area, but even that cannot account for the lonely feeling.

It is said, in West Berlin, that East Berliners go home right after work, lock the door and watch western television.

I do not know what they do once they are home, but they certainly seem to go there.

In the whole of Karl Marx Allee there are only three restaurants — and those I saw were far from full.

Perhaps the planning is partly to blame — a block of apartment houses, a speciality store, another apartment block, another speciality store — a shoe house here, a children's house there, an international cinema here.

There were certainly people in those shops, but you could not say they were jammed.

But even if each was crowded, they are so far from one another that no urban feeling could develop.

The shops looked attractive enough and seemed to support the reports of improvements in the East German and East Berlin economy.

This economic improvement has led to an odd reaction about The Wall; that obscene physical thing that cuts the city in half.

When it was first built the East Berliners were told that it was necessary to prevent exploitation by Western capitalists.

For years it was felt necessary to justify its existence.

But for two years now it has been pointed to with pride. It is said to be the source of the economic growth.

Last spring, in fact, there were celebrations marking its 10th anniversary.

This kind of topsy-turviness, added to the emptiness, the almost slow-motion feeling I got walking the streets of East Berlin, built up gradually into a surrealistic feeling, a sense of not really being in the world.

I felt as unreal standing in Marx-Engels Platz looking down the vast emptiness of Unter den Linden, as I had done a few minutes earlier in the superb Pergamon Museum standing in the reconstructed processional way leading to one of the gates of ancient Babylon.

It grew with the gathering dark of the chill evening until I fled East Berlin, back through Checkpoint Charlie, straight to the heart of West Berlin's Ku-Damm where in the lights and the crowds I found once again a world that I knew.

The drab emptiness of East Berlin

The Upside Down Society

By ALBERT SZENT-GYORGI

WOODS HOLE, Mass. — It happens sometimes that the natural order of the atmosphere becomes reversed and the heavier cold air, which should be on bottom, is on top while the lighter warm air, which should be on top, is on bottom. This is atmospheric inversion which makes smog and pollution unbearable.

Such inversion takes place sometimes also in social relations. I have lived through such a period of social inversion under Hitler. All the earlier moral, ethical and intellectual standards were inverted, making the shy, cultured and bashful Germans into savage potential murderers, arrogant imperialists who tried to enforce their ideas on the whole world as "Pax Germanica."

We are living through such a period of inversion. The U.S. was founded on the idea that all men are born equals; we talked about inalienable rights in the search for happiness. We were a life-oriented country.

Then we turned around and went 10,000 miles away from home, to spend our treasures in a senseless and criminal war, destroying with our technical superiority an underdeveloped nation which never attacked us.

We used our treasures to rig an election for a corrupt anti-democratic government, hated by its own people, making a farce out of democratic principles. We try to be the policeman of the world enforcing "pax Americana."

Our leaders do their scheming behind closed doors, leaving the people out of their confidence. We neglect our priorities and deny decent respect for the opinions of mankind. Our greatest office buildings are the Pentagon and the new FBI buildings symbolizing the directions in which we are going.

We are allies of all dictators and provide them with arms against their peoples. We prosecute Dr. Daniel Ellsberg and make a national hero of Lieutenant William Calley. We talk about conserving the environment and deforestate millions of acres irreversibly by poisons. The inversion is complete.

Where the inversion started is difficult to say. The cold hostility with which Stalin met our friendship, and his bid for world domination, certainly played an important role. We are spreading inversion. Lately we succeeded in forcing Japan back on its old road to militarism.

One of the dangers is that once inversion is complete everything seems logical again. It is a self-consistent logical system, only the direction is fatal. It seems logical that we and the Soviet Union should arm as madmen, to have spent a trillion dollars on armaments while half of the world's children went hungry to bed, not having enough protein to build sane minds and bodies. We build monstrous instruments of destruction which can wipe us out at a moment's notice.

This is what an inversion leads to: a death oriented society spending all its means on self-destruction instead of self-elevation.

The inversion took place so gradually that we did not notice it. So we, the richest of nations, put up with inflation, crime, unemployment, poverty and even hunger, ghettos and slums, drugs and war.

We find it natural that we cannot go out at night without fearing to be mugged and feel unsafe even at home.

The overriding problem is how to get out of this situation before we pass the point of no return. We must urgently start Americanizing America instead of Vietnamizing Vietnam.

Tentative Trudeau Should Speak Out

By PETER DESBARETS

OTTAWA — When a complex economic issue dominates the political life of a nation, as it does in Canada at the moment, one of the central problems is that only a handful of people understand what is happening.

In this nation of more than 20 million people, only a few thousand economists and financial specialists at most have been in a position to evaluate the events of the past two months. A much smaller number have been capable of transmitting their understanding in a form which educated laymen could understand. And among this select group, so many different interpretations of reality have been current that the layman who has made an effort to understand often has succeeded only in substituting confusion for ignorance.

Media Ineffective

In the field of economics, our highly developed mass media are surprisingly ineffective — and as a rule, this ineffectiveness increases with the size of the audience.

The electronic media, with the largest mass audience, are almost useless as transmitters to the public of complex data. As every television producer knows, the toughest programs to put together are those which set out to explain inherently complicated subjects.

Attempts to explain these subjects through talks, interviews, debates, group discussions and other routine television techniques are largely wasted. It seems to be impossible for the ear and eye to absorb complex information from television in compressed, journalistic packages.

This has been evident to everyone who, in recent weeks, has watched television trying to deal with the international monetary situation, the American import surcharge and the Canadian responses to these developments.

Daily newspapers suffer from the same limitations to a lesser degree. Many newspapers in recent weeks have printed explanatory articles and structured summaries of economic developments which do give a fairly clear picture to their readers. But often the articles are written by economic specialists for other economic specialists and they mean little to readers who don't have the right type of academic background.

Newspaper journalists also suffer from a tendency to see everything in terms of contestation. This may be due to the fact that most journalists are trained on cops-and-robbers reporting or it may be simply that issues break down into black and white components under the distorting pressure of daily journalism. Whatever the cause, newspapers usually report political events as contests between good guys and bad guys.

Exotic Example

An exotic example of this was seen recently when the Peking "People's Daily" portrayed the international monetary crisis as an opposition of "the bright phase in China's Yuan" and "the dark phase in the financing and currency of capitalist countries." A more domestic example has been presented by the reporting in our own newspapers of current economic relations between the United States and Canada.

The result of all this is that the average Canadian, despite the information explosion, understands as much about the causes of our current economic difficulties as the average Englishman of the last century understood about the reasons for the Napoleonic wars. He certainly doesn't know enough about the situation to make an intelligent decision about it. All he knows is what he feels in terms of the impact of the situation on his everyday life.

This impact is psychological as well as financial. Without understanding much about what is really happening, most Canadians are aware at the moment that Canada is experiencing economic difficulties and that these are being aggravated by the United States.

Failing Country

Because it is impossible for most people to understand the day-to-day economic developments and to make a decision on who is "right" or "wrong," the attitude of our political leaders at this time exerts an unusually strong influence on the public.

This is where Prime Minister Trudeau may be failing Canada at the moment.

There is a particularly sharp contrast between his performance in recent weeks and during the October crisis of 1970. Then, he was certain of his ground and his words and bearing showed it; now, the issue is more complex and it also lies in a field where his background and competence may not be much greater than the ordinary intelligent layman's, although his sources of information are obviously better.

As a result, Mr. Trudeau has adopted a tentative and experimental approach to the problems of the past two months. His remarks at his press conference a week ago were typical of this: "I'm not saying now that I would narrow my options down to one . . . I would be wrong to state now that we have eliminated some possibilities . . . I don't think any theoretical avenue should be closed. . . ."

This is probably good economic strategy. But is it an adequate political response? As the prime minister said last week, the new American posture "has sowed uncertainty" in Canada. Has this uncertainty been aggravated by a Canadian response to the U.S. initiative which has appeared to be adaptive rather than creative?

At this point, this criticism relates more to style than to content. It doesn't imply that Mr. Trudeau should leap immediately into a posture of "no truck or trade with the Yankees." But there needs to be an appearance by the prime minister, and other Canadian leaders, of welcoming the American move as an opportunity to redefine our relationship with the United States.

So far, at a time when Canadians are listening not so much to what he says but to how he says it, the prime minister has failed to put this across.

The Mini-Print Miracle

By CHRISTOPHER LEHMANN-HAUPT

Almost as if H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth could be floated in your bathtub, or the old British Empire itself laid out within the borders of your garden . . . the great 13-volume, $300 Oxford English Dictionary has now been micrographically reduced to the approximate size of a portable TV set — two volumes boxed, weighing about 17 pounds, measuring 6¼x13½x10 inches, and selling for the comparatively small amount of $75. Is this the miracle it seems to be? Or is it an ominous portent of some miniaturized world to come, in which only the human body will be obsolete?

After a few hours of hefting and browsing in the compact dictionary, the conclusion that it is something of a miracle seems irresistible. The blessings of the reduced size and price are too obvious to go into. The only serious objection that occurred to me was that the miniaturization of the type faces might make it troublesome either to locate desired words quickly or to browse through the volumes in comfort. But this turns out not to be the case.

For while the "definitions" of the words are in type too small for the naked eye, the words themselves, as well as the procedural instructions and the "historical introduction," can be managed without special aid. So it is a simple enough matter to learn how to use the dictionary and to locate the word one wants, and only then does one need the magnifying glass that comes with the set (in a shallow drawer built into the slipcase). In short, "the compact edition" is easier to work with than the original with its 13 separate volumes.

What does the work get you? Anyone fortunate (or affluent) enough to be familiar with the Mega-O.E.D. scarcely needs to be told about the treasures here. But for the neophyte explorer, new continents of information will be opened up.

First conceived in 1857 by members of the British Philological Society, the "new" dictionary was planned to incorporate all the latest lexicographical principles; that is, unlike previous dictionaries, it would not only define the meaning and origins of all "common" English words; it would also show through illustrative quotation from literature the development of those words from the 11th century to the present.

With a confidence in the order of things that is truly breathtaking to behold today, the great enterprise was launched. However, not even the Philological Society quite foresaw the scope of the project or the uncertainties of the future. And it was not until some 70 years later, in 1928, that all obstacles were overcome, and the over 400,000 definitions and nearly 2 million illustrative quotes were published.

One need only sample the O.E.D. to understand how worthwhile the effort was, however. For what one finds in it are not cut-and-dried definitions of words resting in peace, but the lives of words — their births, maturations, fadings into feeble old age and occasional deaths. "Propaganda," for instance, has enjoyed a vigorous if well-ordered life, having been born in the 17th century — in the official title of the Papal "College of Propaganda," "A committee of cardinals . . . having the care and oversight of foreign missions" — and having matured by gradual steps to its present more general meaning.

By such dipping and darting through the O.E.D. one learns that "culture" did not really come to mean "the intellectual side of civilization" until Matthew Arnold (who else?) wrote in "Literature and Dogma" of "culture, the acquainting ourselves with the best that has been known and said in the world."

Have a caution with these miniaturized volumes. After a little time with them, the rest of the world looms huge and threatening. But buy them. Even at $75, the set is an extraordinary bargain.

Feelings Mixed Over Malaspina

DUNCAN COWICHAN

(Duncan Office Ph. 746-6181)

DUNCAN — Cowichan School District residents are expressing mixed feelings about a proposed plebiscite, asking whether they wish to continue participation in the Malaspina regional concept at Nanaimo, which will be put before them by the school board in December.

Many feel that the school board is acting irresponsibly and that the plebiscite is "a dishonest and unreasonable ploy designed to destroy" the college while others feel that it is a vote long overdue to Cowichan residents.

MUST AGREE

Cowichan trustees last Monday announced their intentions to hold the plebiscite in December. They said they need guidance from residents. They said that the initial three-year operation of the college in temporary facilities will expire and that a request to hold a capital building referendum will be forthcoming.

All boards participating in the college, which are Cowichan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Qualicum, must agree to the referendum before it can be held.

If the people say they no longer wish to participate, Cowichan School Board will not agree to the referendum being held. If the situation is reversed, trustees said they will participate fully.

In May of 1970 Cowichan pulled out of the concept because they did not agree with the cost-sharing agreement. Six months later, after the other participating boards agreed to re-negotiate, they went back in. Trustees said the negotiations have not been successful.

NEVER DONE

"I am in favor of the plebiscite being held because it should clear up the cloud over the college once and for all," said North Cowichan Ald. Margaret Robertson.

She said that after the first plebiscite asking people if they agreed with the college concept was held residents were expecting a referendum to be held immediately after. The college was instituted without this being done.

"I feel that now the people should know what they are voting on and how it is financed," she stressed. "I personally feel that we need colleges but I don't approve of the method of taxation.

"I feel that they should have grants from the federal and provincial governments like universities rather than see the whole load put on property owners."

President of the North Cowichan Southend Ratepayers' Association Archie Stevenson said he thinks the holding of the plebiscite "is a wonderful idea. It will give the people an opportunity to know what the college is all about and will help the board in deciding to make a major decision."

UNWORTHY OBJECT

Dr. Charles Ennals, Social Credit nominee for the Cowichan Malahat district in the next provincial election, said that the board's decision "is open to justifiable and predictable criticism as a dishonest and unreasonable ploy designed to destroy Malaspina College.

"This unworthy project is clearly the aim of a long and sad series of moves made by representatives of the board in a vindictive and short-sighted effort to justify their previous stand."

Ennals said that for some time now he has been "extremely concerned about an apparent lack of co-operation on the part of members of the board in the affairs of the college.

"The continuing effort by some board members to frustrate and even endanger the whole regional college concept is a matter of great public concern and one which I am not prepared to allow to go unchallenged."

Ennals said that it should be evident "to all in your position that the regional college concept is one of the better things to take place in our educational system in recent years."

Chairman of the Cowichan Valley Regional Board, Bruce Devitt, who is also a former Cowichan school trustee, feels that in holding a plebiscite the board is acting "irresponsibly."

"They should have more courage to make decisions themselves," he stressed. "They should get out and sell the concept instead of giving up because they are frustrated over not getting anywhere with the cost-sharing agreement. This is their duty as trustees."

Devitt said the board should realize that the college is an educational necessity in the district and that "they shouldn't throw the whole thing out because they feel one thing is wrong with it.

"They don't need guidance."

Devitt said that he was one of the trustees that went out to sell the original concept of the college in 1967.

He said a referendum was planned after the plebiscite but the tight-money situation made it impossible to finance the project.

"In order to ease the overload at the other universities the government went ahead and set up the college anyway."

'OUT OF ORDER'

Although Duncan city council went on record in 1967 as opposing the college concept, Mayor Jim Quaife feels that the plebiscite "will be strictly out of order."

Quaife said that originally council felt that the added burden of increased educational taxes would be too much for homeowners to bear.

"Now that the college is in operation is has proven to be a great benefit and a source of pride to people on Vancouver Island. I feel the board is taking an unrealistic and narrow-minded point of view."

Engineer Receives Award

SIMMONS
. . . to receive award

G. E. (Geoff) Simmons, assistant deputy minister of water resources, is this year's recipient of the R. A. McLachlan Memorial Award, presented annually by the B.C. Association of Professional Engineers.

Simmons, who lives at 3969 Tudor Rd. in Victoria, is also regional commissioner for the Boy Scouts in Greater Victoria.

The award is presented by the association to an engineer who "through his activity in professional affairs and in his participation in community activities has exhibited to a notable degree that concern with public welfare which should characterize the engineering profession at its best."

A former secretary-treasurer and chairman of the provincial association, Simmons has been active in his church, St. Michaels and All Saints, and has served as president of the Anglican Brotherhood of Churchmen.

In scouting activities, he was involved in sponsorship of the 4th Tsartlip Scouts and Cubs in 1958 and served as assistant regional commissioner for Rovers in Greater Victoria for four years prior to his appointment as regional commissioner.

Worker Joins Candidate List

NORTH COWICHAN — Another candidate has announced that he will seek election as a North Cowichan alderman in the December civic elections.

Peter Idema, an employee at Crofton Pulp and Paper Mill, said his platform during the campaign will be total amalgamation between Duncan and North Cowichan and the introduction of a modified ward system.

The mayor's seat as well as two two-year terms and a one-year term will be contested.

Ald. George Whittaker will resign from his position one year short of fulfilment to compete with Mayor Gerry Smith.

Incumbents Tom Burge and Margaret Robertson said they will seek re-election. Henry Bepple, another employee at the Crofton Mill, said he will run for alderman. Cowichan School Board Chairman Dave Haywood and president of the North Cowichan South-End Ratepayers' Association Archie Stevenson said they are considering running.

SPEC Group Hurt By Lack of Interest

DUNCAN — Members of the Cowichan-Malahat branch of SPEC were told recently that if they don't become more involved in anti-pollution activities the group may be disbanded.

Vice-president Jim Egan told about 20 members Thursday evening that he can't understand "where all of the enthusiasm has gone."

"A small fraction of our memberships is here tonight. It seems to me that the bulk of the people is just not-concerned any longer about pollution in this area. The interest in pollution problems seems to wane."

Egan stressed that effective pollution control by the people can only be exercised if a large group of citizens band together to put pressure on the government.

He said that the present executive has been busy but if the membership does not become actively involved all efforts become meaningless.

Currently there are 205 members in the local SPEC group, down 50 per cent from last year.

Egan said that he and president Kurt Horn will not be standing for re-election at the annual meeting next month. Unless a new executive is nominated that night, Egan said a motion to dissolve the group will be made.

Egan said that it will be impossible for him to serve a third year on the executive of SPEC and that Horn has become increasingly active in the provincial SPEC organization.

S. African Homes Raided

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) — South African police, in their second major country-wide swoop this year, staged simultaneous weekend raids on the homes of about 100 persons in seven cities and made at least one arrest.

The raids were carried out Sunday but there was still no official word today about the reason for the searches, conducted by three-man teams of plainclothes security police armed with warrants issued under the Suppression of Communism Act.

All the raids were between 4 and 5 a.m. and were at homes of student and church leaders, university lecturers, journalists and other public figures in Johannesburg, Cape Town, and five major centres in the eastern coastal region—Durban, Pietermaritzburg, Port Elizabeth, Grahamstown and East London.

In Durban, a 24-year-old student at the University of Natal, David Davis, was detained by the police who also seized some documents from his home. The reason for his arrest was not immediately known and no one was allowed access to him.

SOME QUESTIONED

In Pretoria, the commissioner of police, Gen. Gideon Joubert, said the police were acting on information. He added that a certain number of persons have been questioned and investigations are continuing.

Police last made a similar country-wide swoop on religious, semi-religious and student bodies Feb. 25 as part of the investigation leading up to the trial of Very Rev. Gonville French-Beytagh, the Anglican dean of Johannesburg.

Judgment in the dean's trial, which ended slightly more than a week ago, is to be delivered Nov. 1.

Among those whose homes were searched in Sunday's raids were the Anglican bishop of Port Elizabeth, Rt. Rev. Phillip Russell; lecturers at the University of Cape Town and Rhodes University in Grahamstown; the editor of the Port Elizabeth Evening Post, John Sutherland; Rev. Cosmas Demond, a Roman Catholic priest under house arrest in Joahnesburg, and Winnie Mandela, wife of the jailed former African nationalist leader Nelson Mandela. Mrs. Mandela lives in Johannesburg's African township of Soweto.

Students Return

EDMONTON — Some 20,000 students in rural areas north and west of Edmonton were back in school today after teachers and trustees agreed to submit their contract dispute to binding arbitration. The students had been out since 850 teachers went on strike Oct. 8 to support demands that new contracts give them a voice in determining working conditions.

Teen-agers Die

WALLA WALLA, Wash. — Six teen-age Albertans and five other persons died in a two-car head-on collision west of here Sunday. The state patrol said it was the worst passenger car accident in Washington history. The Albertans were: Dale Long, 18, Calgary, Crystal Schultz, 18, Calgary; Coleen Kennedy, 17, Lacombe; Roy Thompson, Rocky Mountain House; Cathy Timms, 19, Leslieville, and Heathy Bell, 19, Caroline. The teen-agers' car was knifed in two by the impact, an observer said.

Halloween Freak-Out Planned

A unique blending of improvisational theatre and rock music is the attraction of a special "Halloween Freak-Out" to be held Sunday.

The rock music is being provided by two local bands — Buckeye and As Sheriff — and the theatre by a group known as Company One.

The theatre group will perform at intervals between sessions of music, provided alternately by the two bands. The concert will be held at the Club Tango from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

A light show will also be featured.

Lang Hopeful

AVONLEA, Sask. — Otto Lang, minister in charge of the wheat board, says he hopes farmers in Western Canada are not simply mourning the loss of the grains income stabilization bill. He looks forward to the farmers bringing the bill back into parliament as soon as possible. "I hope the people of Assiniboia start their campaign towards that end on Nov. 8 by electing Jim Hooker, "Mr. Lang told a by-election rally, in support of Mr. Hooker, the Liberal candidate.

Rustler Alert

CALGARY — A recent outbreak of cattle-rustling west of this city shows "the shortcomings of present game policies in the province," says Chris Mills, secretary of the Western Stock Growers' Association. Earlier this month an increase in cattle thefts prompted stock growers to ask RCMP for night patrols in forestry reserves near the city. Four butchered animals had been found in a two-week period. Mr. Mills called on the government to initiate new policies respecting the rights of hunters and land-owners alike.

OCTOBER 24, 1971.

TO ALL PROSPECTIVE CAR AND TRUCK BUYERS:

IN JUNE OF THIS YEAR WE PLACED OUR ORDER WITH GENERAL MOTORS COVERING WHAT WE THOUGHT WOULD BE OUR REQUIREMENTS FOR THE BALANCE OF THE 1971 MODEL YEAR. AT THAT TIME WE FELT THAT THE 1972 MODELS WOULD BE SUBJECT TO SIZEABLE PRICE INCREASES THUS GIVING THE 1971 MODELS SUBSTANTIAL PRICE ADVANTAGES. WE THEN ORDERED OUR REQUIREMENTS ACCORDINGLY. LAST AUGUST THE U. S. GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED SOME RATHER STRINGENT ECONOMIC MEASURES INCLUDING A PRICE FREEZE ON 1972 CARS AND TRUCKS. BECAUSE THESE MEASURES AFFECTED CANADIAN PRICES WE LOST OUR FORECASTED PRICE ADVANTAGE AND NOW FIND OURSELVES OVERSTOCKED.

WE ARE NOW IN THE POSITION WHERE-IN OUR REMAINING 1971 STOCK MUST BE LIQUIDATED IN THE SHORTEST POSSIBLE TIME. IN ORDER TO ACCOMPLISH THIS WE HAVE REPRICED ALL OUR 1971 CARS AND TRUCKS AND OUR ENTIRE FLEET OF 1971 DEMONSTRATORS AND ARE OFFERING OUTSTANDING SAVINGS ON THESE VEHICLES.

WE WOULD LIKE TO ASSURE ANY PURCHASER OF ONE OF THESE EXCEPTIONALLY LOW PRICED UNITS THAT THE PRICING WILL HAVE NO EFFECT ON OUR CONTINUING POLICY TO OFFER OUR CUSTOMERS THE BEST IN AUTOMOTIVE PRODUCTS, QUALITY SALESMANSHIP AND AFTER SALES SERVICE.

YOURS TRULY,

FISCHER WINS

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Bobby Fischer defeated Tigran Petrosian Sunday night in their eighth chess game, giving the American a virtually insurmountable lead in the 12-game series for the right to challenge for the world championship.

Fischer now has won four games, including the last three, and Petrosian only one. The victory gives Fischer 5½ points to Petrosian's 2½, with 6½ points needed to win the tournament.

The victor will meet world champion Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union next spring for the title.

The critical point came on the 24th move when Petrosian gave up a pawn to go on the attack. Fischer rebuffed the attack and had a strong passed pawn ahead. With fine tactical thrusts he pushed the pwan forward and created the mating threat.

The 28-year-old American appeared to be back in the form that gave him 20 straight victories until he was defeated by Petrosian in the second game of this series.

He now needs only one point in the remaining four games still scheduled. A victory counts one point and a draw one-half point.

Match victory could come for the American in the ninth game Tuesday, when Fischer will have the white and the first-move advantage.

If it does not, succeeding games will be on Thursday and Sunday.

Petrosian, 42, appeared rested for the game. He had asked for a postponement of Thursday's game until Sunday because of exhaustion.

Picasso Fails To Show Up

VALLAURIS, France — Despite the pleadings of the French Communist party, the local townspeople and even the village priest, Pablo Picasso failed to show for a fete celebrating his 90th birthday here Sunday.

"A man like Picasso who can turn down President de Gaulle who offered to decorate him with the legion of honor at the Elysee Palace, can certainly turn down a town like Vallauris," said one townsman Georges Ramie. Among the well-wishers at the birthday party were some of the French Communist party echelon — Picasso himself is a Communist — and about 10,000 people from all over the world. But Picasso remained firmly holed up on his 35-acre estate outside the town and his front-row chair stayed empty.

WASHINGTON — U.S. Vice-President Spiro Agnew returned to the land of the free this weekend from another country which, he says, "has the spirit of freedom and the strength to preserve that freedom." The country? The military dictatorship of Greece.

CAIRO — How temporal and temporary is power probably crossed the mind of former Egyptian war minister Gen. Mohamed Fawzy today. Fawzy went on trial on charges of high treason for his alleged part in a conspiracy against Egyptian President Anwar Sadat last May. The charge carries a possible death sentence.

ROME — Evangelist Billy Graham seems to believe in taking the bull by the horns. Graham announced a "crusade" to bring tens of thousands of Protestants to Rome from around the world. Graham said the "invasion" of Christians would take place next year. What would Martin Luther have said to that?

ISTANBUL — Queen Elizabeth in the Ottoman sultans' harem? Yes, it's true, but there were no sultans around to order her about. The queen visited Topkapi Palace Sunday as part of her visit to Turkey and heard a recital of 17th century love songs. She was accompanied by Prince Philip and Princess Anne.

CAPE TOWN — Anglican priest Bernard Wrankmore Sunday ended a 67-day fast to demand an inquiry into the death of a Moslem leader in police detention two years ago. The emaciated priest, who had to be helped to the altar to break his fast on a communion wafer, said he had been directed by God to eat again. His protest has had no effect on the South African authorities who have refused to hold an inquiry into the death.

Journalist Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Jay G. Hayden, Washington correspondent of the Detroit News for half a century, died Sunday at the age of 86. He was one of three U.S. reporters accredited to witness the signing of the Treaty of Versailles which ended the First World War. He became head of the Washington bureau of The News in 1938, and retired in 1965.

Mindszenty To Vienna

ROME (AP) — Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, whose 15 years of refuge in the U.S. mission in Budapest ended last month, flew to Vienna Saturday night to take up residence.

Sources here said Cardinal Mindszenty, 79, would live at a Hungarian seminary in Vienna in order to be nearer his homeland.

The cardinal arrived in Rome Sept. 28. The next day, Hungary granted him amnesty from a life prison term as an apparent concession for his leaving Hungary.

OVERHEAD STORAGE for hand baggage is the new look for airlines, eliminating the open racks which left open the possibility of handbags falling during rough weather. New drawers snap closed and are designed to stay that way until opened by passenger. Here a stewardess inspects the design of a new Pacific Western Airlines 737.

Dollar Drops

TORONTO (CP) — The value of the Canadian dollar dropped back to 99.84 cents U.S. at the open of domestic currency markets Monday after closing Friday at 99.97 cents U.S.

The decline was attributed to the reduction in the central bank interest rate—the rate the Bank of Canada charges for loans to chartered banks. The bank reduced the rate Friday to 4¾ per cent from 5¼.

Lower interest rates in Canada make this country a less attractive place to deposit foreign currencies.

Currency traders said there was little activity on Canadian markets because the United States currency markets were closed for the Veterans' Day holiday.

Businessmen Awaiting Upturn in Job Market

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Businessmen's interest in industrial expansion is likely to be slack for several more months, and only a cut in the unemployment rate will really restore confidence to the Canadian economy, say the top executives of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of Canada.

The big company held its latest monthly board of directors meeting here, the occasion for an executive luncheon for Ottawa's top public figures.

K. R. MacGregor, president of the company and former superintendent of insurance in the federal government, said the effects of President Nixon's new economic policies in the United States are a challenge to Canada to stand on its own feet.

"The events of the past two months suggest that we Canadians are going to have to stand closer together if we are to continue our progress as an economically strong and politically independent nation."

NO PATTERN

At a press conference later, Mr. MacGregor expanded on his theme that Metropolitan Life had shown its ability to grow and prosper in this country as a major independent life insurance company. But he couldn't suggest how Met's experience could be made a pattern for other non-insurance firms in Canada.

Mr. MacGregor said Canadian corporations have been active borrowers from the insurance companies for the last year and a half of funds for expansion. But now, the climate seems to be less vigorous. Industry's demand for borrowable funds is slackening.

The chartered banks, trust companies, and other financial intermediaries in addition to the insurance companies now have ample supplies of mortgage money available for funds, he said.

Together with slackening demand by industry, this plentiful supply of loanable money seems to point to lower mortgage interest rates. Mr. MacGregor confirmed this indirectly by saying he couldn't see interest rates going up.

CONFIDENCE LACK

A large proportion of personal income is still going into insurance, into bank accounts, and other forms of personal savings, he said. This was a sign that people were hesitant about the future, lacking confidence.

How could confidence be restored?

"The important thing is to get the unemployment rate down.

"It's somewhat anomalous that even with the degree of unemployment we have, those who are employed continue to press for higher and higher wages."

John H. Panabker, executive vice-president of the company, said one bright sign is the high level of housing activity, and that there is plenty of mortgage money available for more houses.

But Mr. MacGregor was cautious. He said people are building up opposition to paying higher and higher prices for houses.

Shortages Created By U.S. Coal Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The coal industry strike has begun to gnaw at the production capabilities of the aluminum industry.

It was considered likely that strike-induced coal shortages would increasingly curtail production of aluminum and other metals.

Aluminum Co. of America, the biggest producer of aluminum in the United States, was the first to cut because stockpiles of coal were dwindling.

Alcoa said it would shut down two production lines at its Warrick, Ind., primary aluminum smelter.

The cut will slice the Warrick smelter's currently operating annual capacity of 225,000 tons of ingot by 100,000 tons. About 100 employees will be affected.

MAY BE EXTENDED

Alcoa said it might have to take other facilities out of production if the strike continues through November.

The National Association of Secondary Material Industries reported this week that the primary nickel market "is in the severe grip of an economic virus that has caused production cuts, price weakness, postponement of new facility projects, and consumer problems."

Henry Wingate, chairman of International Nickel Co., said nickel sales were weak and indicated that users, aware of ample available supplies, were using up inventories.

The company, which produces nearly one-half of the 985 million pounds of nickel used in the Western world, said it had cut its production by seven per cent.

Other producers of nickel were reported to be taking similar action.

Bond Prices Edge Higher

TORONTO (CP) — In a week of active trading, prices on the Canadian bond market turned upwards after a two-week slump, highlighted by a gain of between 90 and 95 cents in the market's short end.

Dealers say the trend should continue this week.

Mid-term issues were better by about three-quarter to seven-eighths of a point while both long-term and corporate issues were higher by about one point.

Union Gas Co. Ltd. floated a new 20-year sinking-fund debenture Tuesday to raise $20 million. The issue sold at par to yield eight per cent. There was a new issue Thursday from Calgary Power Ltd., an eight per cent issue, redeemable March 2, 1992, selling at $99.50 to yield 8.05 per cent.

Whopping Increase In Port Tonnage

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cargo handled through the port of Vancouver for the first eight months of this year showed a whopping increase of more than one third over the same period in 1970.

Figures released by the National Harbors Board show the port moved 23.7 million tons of goods, compared with only 17.7 million tons during the first eight months of last year.

The statistics extend only until the end of August because the port is still bogged down with paper work created by the maritime strike in the United States which started July 1.

Port manager Jim Duncan forecasts a total cargo volume of at least 35 million tons by the end of December, a figure which he says will put Vancouver among the forefront of ports in North America. Twenty-seven million tons of domestic and foreign goods were handled in 1970.

Industry May Use N-Blasts

MONTREAL (CP) — Excavation using controlled nuclear explosions without threat to the environment is one of many areas being explored by planners of the mammoth James Bay hydro-electric power project, says Robert A. Boyd, commissioner of Hydro-Quebec.

No decisions on handling the $6 billion project will be made until completion of an engineer's report early next year, he said in a recent interview.

But harnessing the power of five rivers, each 300 miles or more long, will require highly advanced techniques.

A close eye will be kept on what impact such techniques have on the natural balance of the area drained by the rivers — a region 100,000 miles square or one-sixth of the area of Quebec.

The act setting up the James Bay Development Corp., charged not only with developing the hydro project in conjunction with Hydro-Quebec but also with controlling any resultant development of mining, forestry, oil or tourism resources, expressly states the corporation must "see to the protection of the natural environment and prevent pollution in the territory."

* * *

Concern about the project has already been expressed by Indians who will be uprooted and marine scientists who say the project will create longer and colder winters in Eastern Canada through tampering with the ecology.

Keeping such concerns in mind, planners must control the power of the Nottaway, Broadback and Rupert rivers running into the south of James Bay, and the Eastmain and La Grande in the north to provide an estimated 10 million kilowatts of power by 1981, twice the present output of Hydro-Quebec.

Controls Necessary

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian mining industry has a responsibility for pollution control and admits that responsibility, Wallace R. Horn, research co-ordinator of the Mining Association of Canada said today.

Dr. Horn, addressing the annual western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, said pollution control takes as much as five to 20 per cent of the cost of new mining developments.

Mining and metallurgical industries in Canada plan to spend about $500 million on environmental control and improvement from 1971 to 1975, Dr. Horn said.

"The environment needs friends," he said. But a balance is needed between exploitation of resources and preservation of the environment.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

Turbo

Peerless Industrial manufactures car washes, automotive chemicals such as cleaners, waxes and powders, and distributes the products in Western Canada.

P & G

The Proctor and Gamble Co. of Canada Ltd. reports net earnings for fiscal 1970-71 declined by 1 per cent while revenue was up 3 per cent.

Income for the year ended June 30 totalled $5.75 million and revenue $110.72 million. Comparable figures for the previous year were $5.81 million and $107.9 million.

HW — G & W

Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts Ltd. reports net income of $48.4 million ($2.81 a share) for the year ended Aug. 31, compared with $48.69 million ($2.82) for the corresponding period last year.

The company also reports consolidated net sales totalled $713.6 million compared with $715.37 million in the 1970 period.

Sales and earnings this year were affected by a 16-week strike at the company's plant in Peoria, Ill., and by the general U.S. economy.

Colcel

Columbia Cellulose Co., with pulp mills at Prince Rupert and Castlegar, reports a third-quarter loss of $2.34 million on sales of $20.93 million.

It compared with a loss of $3 million on sales of $11.85 million in the third quarter of 1970. The company lost $2.7 million on sales of $21 million in the second quarter.

Colcell president G. W. Scrimshaw said pulp production costs had been reduced through the quarter, although sales volume did not improve materially because of sluggish export markets.

Acklands

Acklands Ltd. in the nine months ended Sept. 30 had sales of $87.3 million compared with $92.3 million a year ago.

But net income was greater at $961,100, including a $187,100 extraordinary gain, compared with $321,900 a year earlier.

CSBs

Subscriptions for Canada Savings Bonds on Vancouver Island are past the 50 per cent mark of last year's total payroll deduction figure, with three weeks remaining in the 1971 campaign.

A figure of $1.24 million was totalled to the end of last week from commitments of 2,505 employees on Vancouver Island. Harmac pulp mill MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.) subscribed $100,200, double their 1970 figure, and MB Port Alberni plywood workers have signed up for $26,600 compared with $17,850 last year.

Pathfinder

Pathfinder Resources Ltd. reports it is giving up its mineral claims three miles southeast of Coal Harbor, near Port Hardy, when they normally expire. The decision not to renew follows professional advice after examination.

Mobile Homes Backed As Low-Cost Housing

Snobbery, selfishness and intractable local councils are blamed by Nanaimo land developer Frank Ney, and Social Credit MLA, for preventing mobile homes from filling Canada's housing gap.

Ney, as president of Great National Land and Investment Corp. Ltd., spoke last week to the Canadian Real Estate Association in Montreal, urging all levels of government to create a friendly climate for more low-cost housing.

In many areas, he said, municipalities favor construction of large, expensive homes because of the greater tax revenue they bring.

"And on top of this home owners themselves with their prejudices, snobbery and selfishness have stood in the way of low-cost housing.

TOWN HOUSES

"For example, recently in Victoria, Ottawa and London, town housing, row housing and moblie home parks — all Central morgatge and Housing Corp. approved — have been turned down after public protest.

"Unless something is done we are in for a social revolution if we cannot make it possible for the average Canadian to buy a home of his own. We cannot keep home ownership a privilege for a chosen few," Ney said.

The key to the problem, he said is proper planning and segregation of mobile homes from conventional homes by means of buffer zones.

Fewer than 16 per cent of all new houses built in Canada last year were priced under $20,000, with the average new home sale $28,614, which fewer than 7 per cent of citizens can afford, Ney told realtors.

TAX STRUCTURE

Many municipalities, in opposing the mobile home, "simply do not know how to fit (them) into their assessment and tax structure." But they could look to favorable U.S. experience, he suggested.

These steps should also be taken:

More aggressive involvement by CMHC in approval of construction and financing.

The real estate industry needs to reappraise thinking about mobile homes and parks, which can exist harmoniously with the environment.

FOOTBALL PLAYER COLLAPSES, DIES

DETROIT (AP) — Words were replaced by tears and bowed heads as Detroit Lions filed solemnly from their dressing room Sunday after a 28-23 National Football League loss to Chicago Bears.

Chuck Hughes was dead.

The likable, 28-year-old Lion wide receiver collapsed on the field with a minute left in the game and at 4:41 p.m., about an hour after the game, was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital.

Dr. Richard A. Thompson, one of two team physicians, said an autopsy would be performed today but added that cause of death was likely a ruptured vessel of the aorta, heart, or possibly the brain.

Reporters were barred from the dressing room, where the Lions said a team prayer for Hughes and waited — hopefully, but pessimistically — for news from Henry Ford Hospital of his condition.

It was pro football's first game-related death since December, 1965, when Mack Lee Hill died following surgery for a knee injury. And it was believed the first death ever in a major sports event in Detroit.

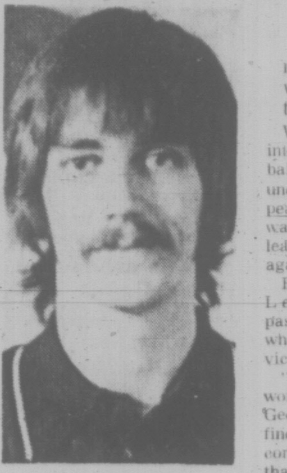
Chiefs Call a Halt To Redskins' March



CLIFF THORBURN

By The Associated Press

It took a full-scale Indian war to stop the rampaging Redskins and when the dust settled, it was—quite naturally—the Chiefs who subdued the tribe.

Washington Redskins went into Sunday's National Football League action as the only undefeated team and it appeared they would stay that way as they carried a 17-6 lead into the second half against Kansas City.

But 30 minutes and three Len Dawson touchdown passes later, the Chiefs were whooping it up with a 27-20 victory.

"It's not the end of the world," Washington coach George Allen said. "We're a fine football team and we will come back. We were a team that was supposed to finish last. I'm proud of the way our team played."

BILLS BEATEN

In Sunday's other games, Chicago Bears defeated Detroit Lions 28-23, Miami Dolphins beat New York Jets 30-14, Philadelphia Eagles whipped New York Giants 23-7, Dallas Cowboys demolished New England Patriots 44-21, Oakland Raiders edged Cincinnati Bengals 31-27, Atlanta Falcons dumped New Orleans Saints 28-6, Los Angeles Rams shelled Green Bay Packers 30-13, Denver Broncos stunned Cleveland Browns 27-0, San Francisco '49ers slapped St. Louis Cardinals 26-14 and Pittsburgh Steelers turned back Houston Oilers 23-16.

In Saturday night's lone game, San Diego Chargers smothered Buffalo Bills 20-3. And tonight, in a contest that looms as a brutal defensive collision, Minnesota Vikings host Baltimore Colts.

Dawson, who wound up completing 10 of 23 passes for 203 yards, began hitting with consistency in the second half. He hit his favorite receiver, Otis Taylor, with scoring strikes of 26 and 28 yards and found Elmo Wright with a 15-yarder. That wiped out the first-half heroics of Washington passer Billy Kilmer, who teamed with Charley Taylor on touchdown tosses of four and 36 yards.

It was Kansas City's fifth successive triumph while Washington's streak ended at five, its best since the start of the 1940 season when the Redskins captured their first seven.

Third-string quarterback Bobby Douglass directed the Chicago upset, throwing touchdowns of 54 and 15 yards, then plunging over from the one for the winning score.

"We can do this against anybody," Larry Csonka said after scoring two touchdowns and teaming with Jim Kiick to roll up 258 yards on the ground in the Dolphins' romp over the Jets.

EAGLES WIN NO. 1

"It was a wonderful, wonderful feeling to win," coach Ed Khayat said after the Eagles beat New York for their first win of the season, thanks primarily to Happy Feller's three field goals.

The Cowboys opened their new home, Texas Stadium, in grand style as Roger Staubach threw touchdowns of 35 and 28 yards to Bob Hayes and ran two yards for another score against the outgunned Patriots.

George Blanda, who made a habit of saving the Raiders last season, came off the bench against the Bengals to direct his team-mates to two touchdowns and a come-from-behind victory.

High Breaks Put Thorburn Into Lead

TORONTO (UPI) — Western Canadian open snooker champion Cliff Thorburn of Victoria, made three century breaks — 125, 133 and 103 — Sunday in the Chenier North American Snooker Classic.

Thorburn's 133 break gave him the high run lead in the Molson division of the classic. Sal Vinci of Toronto had previously made a 132 break.

Other leaders in the Molson's division were Bob Paquette of Montreal, Julien St. Denis of Hull, and Winnie McKinley of Toronto.

Hornets Capture Bantam Crown

In the final analysis, one game decided who would win the Vancouver Island Bantam Football League title this year. And it was played long before the season ended.

The teams involved in the first-place battle were Saanich Hornets and Oak Bay Invaders. Both clubs recorded victories Sunday to finish the season with identical 8-1-1 records. Hornets narrowly escaped defeat in Cowichan as they edged the Chiefs, 14-13, and Invaders bombed Knights of Columbus, 32-7.

But the deciding factor that gave Hornets the league championship was their 22-12 victory over Oak Bay earlier in the season that gave them an edge in games between the two clubs. In their first meeting the teams had tied, 26-26. That's how close it was.

SCORING LEADER

Quarterback Christy Sinclare scored two touchdowns and converted both to lead Oak Bay to its victory over Knights. Sinclare finished the season with a remarkable total of 137 points — highest in the league.

Iain Benson, John Smith and Kerry Gudgeon also scored majors for Invaders, who led 19-0 at half time. Andy Macuck scored Knights' only touchdown and converted it.

TIGERS WHIPPED

In another Sunday game, Saanich Chargers whipped Juan de Fuca Tigers 26-12 to finish the season in third place.

Rick Jones, Jim Gardner, Don Irving and Randy Beck also chalked up majors for Chargers. Jones and Irving converted two touchdowns.

Sudden-death semi-final games will be played at Royal Athletic Park Wednesday, with the survivors meeting for the playoff championship next Sunday.

PRETTY CLOSE TO CLINCHING DRIVING TITLE

ROCKINHGAM, N.C. (AP) — Richard Petty led the final 150 miles of the wreck-filled American 500 stock car race Sunday and registered his 19th triumph of the NASCAR Grand National season.

Petty, one of auto racing's three $1 million career winners, completed the 300-mile-long grind around the one-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway in four hours 23 minutes and 42 seconds.

Second place went to Buddy Baker, Petty's Dodge - driving teammate, who was almost a full lap behind.

By The Canadian Press

The hectic battle for first place remains undecided in the Western Football Conference after high-scoring weekend games which featured brilliant individual efforts and another record by Saskatchewan's George Reed.

However, it wasn't a total loss as far as the playoff race is concerned, thanks to Winnipeg Blue Bombers who took an away-from-home 19-18 win over Montreal Alouettes in a Canadian Football League interlocking game Sunday.

It was enough to clinch the third and final playoff position for the Bombers the first time they've been in the Grey Cup battle since 1966 although they had to wait a few hours to celebrate.

TIED AT 19 POINTS

Later in Regina, Saskatchewan Roughriders hammered British Columbia 50-18 to knock the Lions out of the playoffs. In Calgary Saturday night, the red-hot Edmonton Eskimos won their fourth straight with a 34-12 triumph over the slumping Stampeders.

The Calgary defeat was the fourth in six games.

The results left Saskatchewan and Calgary in a first-place tie, each with 19 points, and both squads have one game remaining. If the teams are deadlocked at the end of the regular-season schedule, the Stampeders would get first because of a better points for-against in league games with the Roughriders.

In Regina, Reed shattered his third CFL record of the year — he also has the mark for career carries and touchdowns — as he picked up 47 yards on 11 rushes.

He surpassed the previous rushing level of 10,909 yards formerly held by Johnny Bright of Edmonton and Calgary. Reed now has 10,927 yards.

But the weekend belonged to quarterback Ron Lancaster and halfback Bobby Thompson of the Roughriders and quarterback Bruce Lemmerman of the Eskimos.

Lancaster fired four touchdown passes and combined with backup Bubba Wyche for 24 completions in 32 attempts for 411 yards. Wyche threw one touchdown pass, a five-yarder to Gordie Barwell his second of the game.

The fleet Thompson, playing one of his better games since joining Roughriders three years ago out of Oklahoma State, collected three touchdowns.

He got one on a 97-yard pass from Lancaster to open scoring in the first quarter, and another on a 115-yard kickoff return.

Thompson took the kick five yards deep in his own end zone and fled down the sidelines for the second-longest runback in the CFL. The longest was in 1964 when Gene Gaines, then playing for Ottawa Rough Riders, scored on a 128-yard runback.

Other Saskatchewan touchdowns were scored by Silas McKinnie and rookie Bill Manhuk.

For the Lions, quarterback Don Moorehead tossed a five-yard pass to Jim Young for one touchdown and Jim Evenson ran over from the one-yard line for the other. Ted Gerela got a 49-yard field goal and two converts while Ken Phillips kicked a 47-yard single.

In Calgary, Lemmerman threw two touchdown passes, helped set up another, and scored one himself on a three-yard run.

Flanker George McGowan sparked the Eskimos with his third and fourth touchdowns of the season. His second of the night came in the third quarter on a 24-yard pass from halfback Gene Foster who took a short toss from Lemmerman.

SCORES ON PASS

Volly Murphy got the other touchdown for Edmonton, taking a 24-yard pass from Lemmerman, while Dave Cutler picked up 10 points on two field goals and four converts.

Edmonton, with 24 first downs to Calgary's 13, had 198 yards rushing of a total offence of 367 yards.

The WFC schedule winds up next weekend when Calgary visits B.C. for a game Saturday night and Saskatchewan travels to Edmonton for a Sunday afternoon affair.

Three-Way Tie Looms After Als, Riders Win

By Canadian Press

Ottawa Rough Riders' dramatic comeback win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday and Montreal Alouettes' loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers Sunday didn't make the job of Greg Fulton, Canadian Football League statistician, any easier.

The Riders, rebounding from a 16-6 halftime deficit, crushed Hamilton 40-16 while the Als dropped a 19-18 game at home to Winnipeg.

The results left Hamilton and Montreal with 6-7 won-loss marks and Ottawa at 5-8. Each has one game left in Eastern Football Conference play with the possibility of a three-way tie for second place looming even larger.

FIRST FORMULA OUT

The Riders, who have put 85 scoring points on the board in their last two starts, are hosts to the defending Grey Cup champion Als next Saturday while the Ticats send their anaemic offence into Toronto against the EFC champion Argonauts Sunday.

An Ottawa win and Hamilton loss would leave three clubs with identical 6-8 marks.

The first formula put forth by the CFL offices to break such ties has no bearing in this case since Montreal has beaten Hamilton twice. Hamilton has beaten Ottawa twice and Ottawa has beaten Montreal twice in games played this year between the clubs involved.

MORE COMPLICATED

From there formula evolved becomes a little more complicated. It involves aggregate points in games between the three clubs, considering the points for and against.

Ottawa, on the strength of Saturday's victory, has the edge with a plus-13 aggregate; Montreal is zero, and Hamilton is minus 13.

The Ticats, who could easily have parlayed eight Ottawa turnovers in the first half into at least 30 points, could only muster a 16-6 lead and this vanished quickly once the Riders got over an extreme case of fumblitis.

Defensive halfbacks Barclay Allen and Al Marcelin put the finishing touches to the humiliating Ticat setback when they intercepted two desperation passes by Hamilton quarterback Joe Zuger in the final minute and returned them for touchdowns.

Gerry Organ contributed four field goals and four converts, for 16 points, including kicks of 27 and 14 yards early in the fourth quarter that sent Ottawa into the lead.

Don Jonas' 13-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter at Montreal assured the Blue Bombers of a playoff spot in the West.

HAD MISSED THREE

Jonas, who missed three earlier field goal attempts, also kicked two singles and converted touchdowns by Paul Williams and Mack Herron.

JUDY LAST VICTIM ON UPSET PARADE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jane Youngberg of Vancouver capped a string of upsets with a surprise win Sunday over Judy Rollick of Vancouver to win the women's single final of the British Columbia Open badminton championships.

She defeated Mrs. Rollick, fourth seed in the championships and fourth-ranked in Canada, 4-11, 11-6, 11-8.

Jamie Paulson of Calgary won the men's singles over Bruce Rollick of Vancouver, Judy's husband, and current Canadian singles champion, in straight sets 17-16, 15-4.

In women's doubles, Mrs. Rollick teamed with Mimi Neilsson of Vancouver to defeat Toronto's Jennifer Dakin and Nancy McKinley 15-9, 15-3. Miss Neilsson joined Rolf Paterson of Vancouver to win the mixed doubles over Yves Pare of Montreal and Marjorie Shedd of Toronto 15-8, 12-15, 15-5.

The men's doubles winners were the Calgary team of Raphi Kanchanaraphi and Channerong Ratanaseangsuang, Downing Pare and Paulson 15-9, 15-8.

Paul's Miss Shot At Soccer Lead

VANCOUVER — Paul's Canadians staged a strong second-half comeback bid, but were defeated 3-2 here Sunday by North Shore Labatts in a closely-fought Pacific Coast Soccer League game that ended in players trading punches on their way to the dressing rooms.

It was the first loss of the season for Canadians after three starts. A win would have given them sole possession of first place, but Victoria West-United, which was idle at the weekend, still holds down the top spot.

North Shore struck quickly as Rick Thomas scored at the two-minute mark. Ken Legge and Ron Hilder added further goals to put Labatts ahead 3-0 with only 18 minutes played.

FINE GOALTENDING

Canadians' fullback Barry Keating got one back with a blistering 25-yard shot before half-time, and Paul's poured the pressure on in the second half.

Harold Hansen put the game within reach midway through the second half, but Paul's bid for a tie was foiled by some standout goaltending by Billy Grant.

On Saturday, University of British Columbia Thunderbirds moved into a third-place tie with Vancouver Inter-Italia with a 2-1 victory over the Blues.

Spanish Ace Upsets Lutz

BARCELONA (Reuter) — Unseeded Manuel Orantes, the Spanish champion, won the men's singles title in the Count Godo international open tennis tournament Sunday when he beat American Bob Lutz 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 in the final.

The women's title went to Helga Hosl of West Germany, who easily defeated Chile's Anna-Marie Arias Pinto 6-2, 6-1.

Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia and Juan Gisbert of Spain beat Cliff Drysdale of South Africa and Andres Gimeno of Spain 7-6, 6-2, 7-6 in a two-hour men's doubles final.

Cougars Find Problem Catching Fleet Tigers

By ENIRE FEDORUK

The version of the Western Canada Hockey League game between Victoria Cougars and Medicine Hat Tigers is tag. The Tigers are "it" but the suspicion is that the Cougars may have a hard time catching Medicine Hat.

The Cougars failed to catch or tag the Tigers on Saturday, and Medicine Hat walked out of Memorial Arena with an impressive 7-3 victory before 2,870 fans.

Big and fast, the Tigers' strong offensive game was too much for Victoria. Although it was only the second victory of the season for Medicine Hat, Tigers showed more class and polish than any of the three clubs Vancouver, Flin Flon and Calgary who previously appeared in the Arena.

"They played the kind of hockey you expect to see in mid-season, and not at this time of the year," Victoria coach Fred Hucul said of the Tigers.

FAST FROM OWN ZONE

Strong on positional play, the Tigers broke out of their own zone with great speed. And in centres, Stan Weir, Lanny McDonald and Leif Jacobsen, the Tigers have pivotal strength that should rank with the best in the league.

Weir and linemate Jeff Ablett each scored two goals to spark Medicine Hat's performance — one which coach Jack Shupe termed a "night and day difference" over Friday's 6-5 loss to the Nats in Vancouver. Bill Christie, McDonald and Boyd Anderson added singles.

Rick Kennedy, Gary Donaldson and defenceman Jim Atamanenko were the only Cougars to beat goalie Leo Karchie, who came up with several big stops to backstop what seemed to be just a mediocre Medicine Hat defence.

KENNEDY MAIN VICTIM

Karchie took particular delight in frustrating Kennedy, the redheaded centre who came up with his best performance as a Cougar. In addition to scoring the game's first goal, Kennedy was robbed on at least four other clear-cut chances at Karchie.

Atamanenko, who also set up Victoria's first two goals with sharp passes, also stood out for Cougars.

It was an entertaining game, but the wide-open style doesn't seem to be cut out for the Cougars, especially against a team with the offensive power that Tigers displayed.

The Cougars made little or no attempt to slow the Tiger speedsters, as indicated by the penalty count. Each team drew a pair of majors but only seven minors were called.

An innocent relayed an opinion to Hucul that body-checking might have slowed down the free-wheeling Tigers.

"That might be so," Hucul replied, "but we couldn't catch them."

Nats Surprise Tigers

By The Canadian Press

Captain Brian Walker scored twice Sunday to lead Calgary Centennials to a 7-0 victory over Edmonton Oil Kings and put his team at the top of the Western Canada Hockey League's Western Division with a 5-1 record.

In other action, New Westminster Bruins and Flin Flon Bombers split a weekend series. Flin Flon won 5-3 Saturday and the Bruins took Sunday's game 3-2.

Winnipeg Jets defeated Swift Current Broncos 5-2 and Vancouver Nats beat Medicine Hat Tigers 6-2—in the other Sunday games.

Don Martineau sparked Westminster Sunday with two goals, including the winner, as the bruins scored their come-from-behind victory over the Bombers. Blaine Stoughton gave Flin Flon a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period, which stood up until Martineau scored for the first time late in the second period.

In Sunday's Winnipeg-Swift Current contest, Dave Elliott led scoring for the jets with two goals. Reg Malinoski, Jeff Hunt and Gary Doerksen had the others. Twenty-seven penalties were called in the game.

In Vancouver, Grant Williams scored three times as the Nats downed Medicine Hat. Gord Stewart scored twice and Pat Russell contributed the other goal. Tom Lysiak and Stan Weir replied for the Tigers.

Pinder Starts Popping Goals To Prove Point

By The Canadian Press

The 23-year-old Saskatoon native was hardly a household word after three National Hockey League seasons until last April when he earned critical acclaim for popping off at his coach.

He alleged Billy Rea wasn't using him properly in the Chicago Black Hawk lineup, that he was being ignored.

"The coach can ignore me all he wants; it's bush league. I feel I can play somewhere," Pinder said at the time.

The Hawks were in the midst of playoffs and, while the dispute was resolved to the point where Pinder was back on the team, it was just a matter of time before he got his chance to "play somewhere."

And when Chicago sent him to California Golden Seals earlier this season with goalie Gerry Desjardins in exchange for goalie Gary Smith, controversy followed.

TRADE CALLED OFF

The NHL ruled the trade void when it was learned one of the principals, Desjardins, had not fully recovered from a broken arm suffered in the latter part of the 1970-71 season and that these involved in the trade would not be able to work out with their respective teams until an amicable agreement was reached.

The two teams finally settled their differences last week and Pinder, true to his word, showed new boss Vic Stasiuk he can play hockey.

The fiery 165-pounder scored three goals and assisted on two others by Ernie Hicke as the Seals scored their first win of the season Sunday night, 6-3, over Detroit Red Wings.

The victory ended California's five-game losing string, after two ties to open the season, and were the first points for Stasiuk who took over the club 10 days ago.

In other Sunday games, Pittsburgh Penguins and New York Rangers tied 1-1, Boston Bruins edged Vancouver Canucks 4-3 in an afternoon game, St. Louis Blues downed Buffalo Sabres 3-2, Philadelphia Flyers clipped Chicago 2-1 and Minnesota North Stars cruised 6-3 over Los Angeles Kings.

In Saturday's action, Toronto Maple Leafs dropped the Flyers 5-3, Montreal Canadiens outskated Los Angeles 3-1, New York took St. Louis 4-3, Minnesota drubbed Buffalo 5-1 and Chicago beat Pittsburgh 5-2.

Pittsburgh's Jean Pronovost and Vic Hadfield of the Rangers scored 32 seconds apart for the stalemate at New York, marred by an injury to Penguins' rookie goaltender, Jim Rutherford.

Rutherford, who came up through the Detroit farm system before moving to Pittsburgh in the off-season, made a sparkling save on Rangers' Bill Fairbairn who had broken in alone. He apparently injured his right leg making the save and was carried off the ice on a stretcher.

BREWER SCORES FIRST

Veteran defenceman Carl Brewer's first goal of the season at Buffalo spearheaded the St. Louis victory. Brewer's goal opened up a 3-1 lead for the Blues before Sabre rookie Richard Martin narrowed the gap with two minutes remaining.

Unfortunately for Canucks, Bruins Tend to Business Now

By BILL WAKER

Ask Vancouver Canucks. They felt all the awesome power of the Bruins before a sellout crowd of 15,570 in the Pacific Coliseum Sunday afternoon. And just when it appeared the Canucks might be on their way to a victory too.

Leading 3-1 as late as the last two minutes of the second period, the Canucks couldn't stem the relentless tide, and Boston came on for a 4-3 triumph.

It was the Bruins' fifth win in six games since they were told that their extra-curricular activities would have to be curbed. They tied the other game.

Actually explained general manager Milt Schmidt of the Bruins, it wasn't really a ban against outside appearances. Rather it was a move designed to remind the players to keep their minds on the real business at hand, hockey, and this warning had come after a poor pre-season record and an opening-game loss in Boston to New York.

But the Bruins, runaway league champions last year, have come almost all the way back. They now trail Rangers, Eastern division leaders in the National Hockey League, by a single point, and have played one game less. Rangers were tied 1-1 by Pittsburgh Penguins Sunday night.

He didn't get the first game star, but it was Bobby Orr who did a lot of the damage for the Bruins.

After Jocelyn Gouvremont, the Canucks' rookie defenceman, had scored at 1:29 of the first period to end a team goal drought that had passed seven periods, Orr made the play that enabled Boston to tie it.

Murray Hall and Andre Boudrias, the latter with a clean steal of the puck behind the Boston goal, supplied Vancouver with its 3-1 edge before Orr struck again.

This time he made a simple deflection of a Ken Hodge pass almost the perfect play, and Gardner had no chance as the Bruins pulled close at 3-2.

That goal at 18:33 of the second period turned the tide, even coach Hal Laycoe of the Canucks admitted it. "That's why he's a superstar," he said of Orr. "He dominates the game."

But it still took two other starry members of the Boston powerhouse to get the final job done.

Johnny Bucyk got the tying goal early in the third period when Canuck defenceman John Schella elected to play the puck along the boards and lost it to Johnny MacKenzie. Seconds later Bucyk had put it in the net.

Then Phil Esposito notched the winner. It wasn't a pretty goal, and it came right after the Canucks had come close on three good tries. But from a scramble in front, Esposito dribbled it across the line. And that is all that finally mattered.

MERALOMAS, REGINA IN WESTERN FINALE

VANCOUVER (CP) —Halfbacks Grant Medhurst and Craig Miller each scored two touchdowns Sunday to lead Vancouver Meralomas to a 35-0 victory over North Shore Cougars and give them the British Columbia Junior Big Four Football League championship.

The Rams rolled into the Western final Sunday in impressive fashion, pasting Edmonton Huskies 48-7 before 3,500 Regina fans.

Miller scored his first touchdown on a one-yard run in the first quarter. His second came on a nine-yard run in the third quarter.

Medhurst scored both his touchdowns in the fourth quarter on 16-yard and 34-yard pass-and-run plays from quarterback Dennis Kelly. Kelly got a second-quarter touchdown on a 20-yard run.

All the touchdowns were converted by kicker Dennis Messinezis.

Shannon Powers Hornet Attack

Fullback Mike Shannon contributed 138 yards to a 444-yard running attack as Chew Excavating Hornets rolled to a 45-6 Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League victory Sunday over James Bay Athletic Association Mustangs at Centennial Stadium.

In an other game at Duncan, Oak Bay Farmer Construction won its first game of the season with a 13-1 decision over Cowichan Timbermen.

Both games closed out the regular season and league-champion Hornets gain a bye into the sudden-death playoff final on Nov. 7.

Second-place Mustangs and third-ranked Timbermen meet Saturday at 2 p.m. in Centennial Stadium for the right to meet Hornets.

MUSTANGS SCORE

Mustangs grabbed a 6-0 lead in the first quarter after a two-yard plunge for a touchdown by halfback Nirmal Johl, but from then on Hornets dominated the play.

Randy Kerr and Laurie Garret scored TDs while Norm Baker supplied both converts and a 35-yard field goal to give Hornets a 17-6 lead by half time.

Baker was accurate on all four conversion attempts to chalk up a personal game total of nine points and a second-place finish in the indivudual scoring race this season.

Clubmate Sean Flynn, who sat out the game with a tendon injury, topped the league with 60 points, eight more than Baker. Kerr finished in a tie for third place with Dave Stapleford of Mustangs, each with 48 points.

Oak Bay's Rick Smith opened scoring at Cowichan after intercepting a pass on the 50-yard line and running it back to the 10. Quarterback Jim Tarbuck rifled the ball to Smith on the next play for a major in the first quarter.

Solid Tide Effort Stuns Starry Foes

International players, former internationals, stars of city representative sides and eager youngsters all played their parts Saturday in providing an interesting afternoon of rugby for about 500 fans at Macdonald Park.

In a pair of exhibition matches that highlighted centennial reunion festivities of the Victoria Rugby Union, Internationals, a squad of former international players, downed a Vancouver Island junior side 8-0 and Victoria Crimson Tide stunned a star-studded Canadian Rugby Union president's team.

Winger Murray McAlpine, one-time Canadian international, scored two trys to provide all the points in the opening match as the juniors, playing together for the first time, appeared somewhat intimidated by the reputations of their rivals.

Perhaps also confused by the slick touches and sly moves displayed by the veterans, some of them portly and puffing, the juniors were jittery and less than sure-handed.

ALERT TACKLING

Crimson Tide, the city's representative squad, turned in a solid effort, balancing forward power and alert tackling to throttle the scoring power of the visitors until the late stages.

With Rob Hindson, Gordie Hawkins, Ken Wilkie, John Wenman and Bob Iverson setting the pace, the Victoria forwards outplayed the Vancouver pack and continually disrupted the president's backfield.

Bob Spray, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, was forced to make late changes in his roster due to recent injuries, but his side was still loaded with potential power and included six men who toured Wales this fall with the Canadian national team.

SELDOM SAW BALL

Wingers Spence McTavish (leading try-scorer on the Welsh tour) and Jim Ryan, both brilliant runners, seldom received the ball because of Victoria's bustling defensive tactics.

Standoff half Gillie Greig and fullback Cliff Yorath, two former Welsh internationals, provided a foundation for the Tide back line.

Greig sparked the line with some excellent tactical kicking while Yorath bolstered the defence and provided seven points with a penalty goal and two conversions.

Wingers Reg Houle and Barry Greenhalgh and scrum-half Dave Slater each scored a try for the Victorians, who led 6-0 at half-time and 19-4 after 25 minutes of the second half.

RALLY TOO LATE

As the Tide began to tire late in the match, President's XV began to move, but it was too late.

Wenman fumbled the ball near his own line and prop Fred Sturrock was on hand to recover it and dive over for a try.

Two minutes from the end McTavish collected the ball and eluded four defenders to score a try after a 45-yard run. Fullback Barry Burnham converted for the final points.

Canadian President's XV — Barry Burnham, Spence McTavish, Jim Ryan, Chuck Piester, Rick Sim, Gareth Hill, Jack Morita, Gary Hendrickson, Clive Austin, Keith Nicholson, Lee Hillier, Eric McAvity, Fred Sturrock, Gary Fumano, Charlie Lefevre.

WINNER of Wills Masters golf tournament Sunday in Melbourne, Australia, was Bruce Crampton (above), who finished 72-hole event with seven-under-par tally of 281. Australian pro was three shots ahead of Britain's Peter Bembridge, who edged American Dave Stockton by one shot.

CASTAWAYS TOP RUGBY TOURNEY

Castaways dominated the loose scrums and applied heavy pressure through most of the match to defeat James Bay Athletic Association 11-3 Sunday at Carnarvon Park in the final of the inaugural Reg Wenman knockout rugby tournament.

Oak Bay Wanderers romped to a 30-0 victory over University of Washington in the consolation final on the same pitch.

Craig Dalziel and Gillie Greig scored trys for Castaways while Allan Rees supplied the balance of points by booting a penalty goal. Al Foster kicked a penalty goal for JBAA.

Castaways, along with the Victoria representative Crimson Tide side, will be missing the services of forward Ken Wilkie for the remainder of the season. Wilkie suffered a broken shin bone early in the second half.

Tom Livesay and Lloyd Anderson each scored two trys to lead the Oak Bay rout while single trys were counted by Bob Oughtred and John Morely. Oughtred converted three trys while Don Burgess booted one conversion.

Twelve teams competed in the two-day tourney, which was part of a centennial reunion program staged by the Victoria Rugby Union.

Double Setback Jolts Chemainus

On the ice, Blues dropped a 6-4 decision to CFB Esquimalt Buccaneers here Saturday night — their first loss of the season. Off the ice, the Blues were losers again — on a technicality.

Chemainus had dressed only eight players on Oct. 9 when it defeated University of Victoria Norsemen, 8-3. League rules stipulate that a minimum of 12 players must be dressed for every game. So the league awarded the game to Uvic.

The double loss sent the Blues plunging from second place to fifth in the standings, but they hold two games in hand over three teams, and three games in hand over two.

Blues' Bob Wilson scored three goals in a losing cause against Esquimalt. Don Smith netted another for Chemainus as the teams battled to a 4-4 tie minutes before the end of the second period.

But Len Desjardins scored his second goal of the night, and what proved to be the winner, before the middle period had ended, and Len Olchove pumped in the insurance marker for Esquimalt in the third. Dave Parkin, Pete Okopski and Rene Taillefer also scored for the Buccaneers, who moved into third place with the victory.

Canucks Beat Aussies

Commonwealth Champs

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuter) — Canada defeated Australia Sunday to win the Commonwealth amateur golf tournament here with an unbeaten record.

Australia finished as runner-up and Britain, which gained its only win of the competition by beating New Zealand Sunday, was third.

In Sunday's play, postponed from Saturday because of heavy rain, Canada and Australia were all square in the foursomes, each winning one with one halved, but Canada clinched victory in the singles three matches to two, with one halved.

Over-all, Canada defeated Australia 4 to 3, with two halved; Britain beat New Zealand 7-2.

Britain lost the foursomes 1-2 against New Zealand but won all six singles.

"It was the last ambition I had in golf," said Calgary's Doug Silverberg, 38, who clinched the title for his team when he beat Noel Ratcliffe of Australia on the 18th green.

Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., and Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., were Canada's other singles winners Sunday.

Weslock rated 19-year-old Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver as the most promising player he had seen. Roxburgh halved his foursomes match Sunday and was beaten in the singles.

Manitoba Trips Vikings

SASKATOON — University of Victoria Vikings nipped the University of Alberta Golden Bears 3-2 Sunday in the consolation final of the annual Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Association pre-season soccer tournament.

Vikings, the defending WCIAA champions, finished third in the tournament after suffering a 2-1 defeat at the hands of the University of Manitoba Bisons in a semi-final clash earlier the same day.

Manitoba went on to win the tournament with a 3-0 shutout over Winnipeg Wesmen, who advanced to the title game with a 1-0 overtime win against Alberta.

Uvic reached the semis with wins over Lakehead University and University of Calgary on Saturday.

Vikings blanked Lakehead 6-0 despite playing with nine men after the 55-minute mark. MacKay and Sailes were ejected from the match following an altercation with the opposing goalkeeper. Both players also missed the Calgary game but Vikings had little trouble posting a 4-0 triumph.

Brian Barraclough and Sailes scored two goals each against Lakehead while singles came from Steve Bridgeman and Leier. Parraclough, Leier, Jindy Johl and Dan Bolton scored against Calgary.

In round-robin play, Vikings topped the "A" side of the tourney with the Golden Bears second. Wesmen won the "B" section while the Bisons, who lost 2-1 to Winnipeg Saturday before blanking Saskatoon 4-0, were in the runner-up spot.

Cubs Hang Zero On Port Alberni

Brent Patterson, Kim Bowles and Allan McLaren scored for Cubs while Rick Tkalcic recorded the shutout with a 30-saves performance — including one on a breakaway.

Vancouver Keeps Title

In what turned out to be a repeat of the order of finish last year, Vancouver won the third annual Victoria and District Soccer League invitational tournament Sunday at Royal Athletic Park.

Vancouver retained the tourney crown with a 2-0 victory over Victoria in the final while the University of Oregon Ducks collected third place by blanking Nanaimo 5-0 in the consolation match.

Ron Koshky was credited with both Vancouver goals, but the opening tally went into the net off a Victoria defender following an indirect kick late in the first half. Koshky actually scored the second goal with a long lob at the 80-minute mark.

In opening matches Saturday, Victoria crushed an under-strength Nanaimo club 6-0 while Vancouver downed Ducks, 4-2.

Greer Trips Cavaliers

By The Associated Press

At 35, Hal Greer is considered old for a pro basketball player. Don't tell that to Greer—or Cleveland Cavaliers.

Philadelphia's aging backcourt star appeared spry Sunday night, pouring in 29 points and sparking the surprising 76ers to a 111-93 triumph over the Cavaliers.

Greer, now in his 13th season in the National Basketball Association, is only one of six players in league history to score more than 20,000 points in his career. He started the season as No. 6 with 20,410 points.

The veteran guard hit four baskets in 3½-minute span of the third quarter as the 76ers went on a 15-2 burst and took a commanding 70-54 lead over Cleveland.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Los Angeles Lakers downed winless Houston Rockets 113-103, Seattle SuperSonics whipped Cincinnati 119-101, and Chicago Bulls edged Phoenix Suns 105-104.

We can help.

At the Unemployment Insurance Commission we are now able to assist claimants in their search for re-employment with our Claimant Assistance Program.

We've got trained interviewers at your service who can discuss your unemployment situation and provide guidance.

You will be invited to the first interview after you've been on claim for six weeks. We'll show you how to look for a job, review your skills and evaluate the reasons for your unemployment.

If your search is not successful, you will be invited to a follow-up interview. Together, we'll examine your requirements and explore new courses of action.

We'll be a link between you and the agency best able to help you seek employment. We'll make an appointment for you and thus save you time and effort.

Casper Snaps Slump With Easy Triumph

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper, playing some of the best golf of his sparkling career, got so far in front he made his victory in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open a ho-hum affair

Casper established a six-stroke lead at one time during the final round, fashioned a four-under-par 68 and finished with a tournament record 269, 19 under par on the 6,633-yard Silverado Country Club course.

"When I saw what he was doing, I decided I'd better start playing for second," said Tommy Aaron, the only man who really had a shot at the front-running Casper.

MARTI SECOND

Aaron's last hopes died when he went one over par on the 11th and 12th holes and he slipped back to third when rangy Texan Fred Marti birdied the last two holes for a 67 and 273, four strokes off the pace.

Aaron had a 71 for 274 with George Johnson alone in fourth with a 72 for 276. Miller Barber and Mike Hill tied at 279.

Lee Trevino, holder of the U.S., British and Canadian Open titles, never really got it going on the cool, sunny day and finished far back with a 282 total and a 71 final round.

The victory was worth $30,000 to Casper, pushed his money winnings to $107,000 for the season and snapped the longest slump of his career.

Mainland Students Trim University Side

St. George's of Vancouver romped to an 18-0 half-time lead and then went on to trample St. Michael's University School 31-3 in a B.C. Independent Schools Rugby League match Saturday in Vancouver.

Hayden Swofford booted a penalty goal to avert a shutout for University School, which has now lost three straight league matches.

In a match between the second teams, St. George's scuttled University School 54-4. Victoria sides did better in the senior and junior-junior colt matches, winning 7-4 and 19-0 respectively.

In matches at University School, the hosts downed St. George's 14-0 in a junior colt match while the Vancouverites downed St. Michael's 15-3 in another junior-junior colt encounter.

STEPS FOR HEALTH — 88-YEAR-OLD RETIRED DENTIST DR. JEROME G. HESS gave up his dentistry practice after 42 years because of his declining health in 1952.

Nine years later he started taking dancing lessons to get some regular exercise and ward off the aging process. It evidently worked. Last year Hess won a national fox-trot and tango title in Miami, Fla., and now — at the age of 88 — is training hard to defend his title in April. "I'll be ready," promised the retired dentist, who has been going to Fred Astaire Studios twice a week for lessons since 1965.

Jo Siffert Dies in Crash

FINAL EVENT OF YEAR

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP) — Jo Siffert, called "a model to all youngsters wanting to get into motor racing" and "one of the world's best drivers," was killed Sunday in a flaming wreck of his BRM Formula I car.

The 35-year-old Swiss driver was burned to death under his blazing car, which crashed into a bank, overturned and exploded. He had been driving at more than 100 miles an hour in the year's last Formula I event.

Ironically, the race was a non-championship event organized to replace the Mexican Grand Prix in which drivers had refused to compete because of inadequate safety precautions. It was arranged as a "triumph victory" appearance of Scotland's Jackie Stewart and his Tyrrell Ford, winners of the 1971 world driving championship.

Siffert, BRM's No. 1 driver following the death of Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, killed in a sports car race in Germany in July, was the favorite for Sunday's race after winning the pole position.

Following his crash on the 14th lap of the 25-lap event at the Brands Hatch circuit south of London a huge black cloud rose into the air.

British driver John Surtees, whose car was behind Siffert's, said later: "He didn't stand a chance. His gear box seemed to seize and the car flipped over as it hit the bank out of control."

The others were Rodriguez and Italy's Ignacio Giunti, killed in Buenos Aires last January.

Oak Bay Girls Retain Crown

It was the fourth straight shutout of the day for goaltender Pat McIntyre, who had to parry only one shot in the four matches.

Michelle Williams and Rosalind Harney scored in the final for Bays, who got by Dunsmuir 1-0 on a goal by Leslie Williams; downed host Mt. Prevost 1-0 on another goal by Michelle Williams, and blanked Campbell River 5-0 on goals by Julie Proudman (2), Margaret Joyce, Miss Harney and Leslie Williams.

Woodlands of Nanaimo rounded out the 10 teams in the tourney.

CRASH KILLS BOAT DRIVER

Shakespeare, 40, was practicing for the Windermere Grand Prix later in the day. Witnesses said his boat took off, hit the water again and disappeared.

Shakespeare set a world class record of 104 miles an hour on Lake Windermere a year ago. He was married with four children.

Sailing Triumph

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Royal Vancouver Yacht Club crew outclassed the Royal Canadian Yacht Club crew from Toronto again Saturday to win the third race in the best-of-five series and take the first national cruising class yacht championship.

Mariners Extend Unbeaten Streak

Mariners extended their unbeaten streak this season to five matches Saturday but failed to gain ground on second-place Oak Bay in first division standings of the Vancouver Island Ladies' Field Hockey Association.

In interlocking matches between first and second division teams, Mariners downed Castaways 11-3 at Beacon Hill Park but Oak Bay, also unbeaten and untied, won fourth straight match by bouncing Esquimalt 8-1 at Windsor Park. Sandpipers I blanked Evergreens 2-0 at Windsor Park while University of Victoria I downed Pirates 4-1 and Uvic II defeated Rebels 2-0 in two Uvic matches.

Jenny John, with four goals, Caroline Penn (3) and Pam Temple (2) paced the Mariner attack while Nancy Hill (3), Nita Hibbert (2) and Judy Bingham (2) were the Oak Bay scoring leaders.

Diane Whittingham counted both tallies for Sandpipers I and Rhonda Duncan matched the feat in the Uvic II victory.

Quebec Rift Healed

By PAUL WHITELAW
Special to the Times

MONTREAL — A dispute over "self-determination" for Quebec which had threatened to cause a split between the federal New Democratic Party and its Quebec wing was headed off at a weekend convention here.

Some 200 delegates to the special meeting of the Quebec wing voted approval of a compromise worked out this summer by a committee of 20 NDP members from Quebec and other parts of Canada.

The new policy handles the controversial issue of "Quebec's right to self-determination," which the Quebec wing had been demanding since last February, by stating: "We recognize that this new Canada must be based on the full consent of its peoples. It cannot be held together by force without negating its purpose."

CONFIDENT

NDP national leader David Lewis, who attended the meeting, said he is confident the compromise will be accepted by the party's federal council when it meets in Ottawa next month.

Lewis noted that he had taken part in the drafting of the new resolution, which would replace a staunchly pro-federalist position adopted at the party's national leadership convention in Ottawa last April.

After two-thirds of the delegates to the national convention voted down Quebec's demand that the party recognize their province's "right to self-determination," Quebec leader Raymond Laliberte said he would have to "re-evaluate" his group's role in the NDP.

APPEASES

The new resolution appeases the position of the Quebec wing without retaining what Lewis and some other party leaders felt was the pro-separatist tone of the "self-determination" stand.

The 600-word document also calls for the replacement of federal-provincial conferences by a "constitutional convention" as a means of working out a new Canadian constitution.

The resolution states that the convention would bring together not only governments "but the elected representatives of Canada's 11 parliaments." Also included would be representatives of Canada's Indians and Eskimos.

RESOLVES

That would mean that the separatist Parti Quebecois, which holds seven seats in Quebec's 108-seat national assembly — along with other opposition groups across Canada — would be able to take part in constitutional discussions. It resolves a demand by the Quebec NDP wing in its original stand that Quebec have equal representation with the federal government and Canada's nine other provinces at federal-provincial constitutional talks.

In a prepared statement released Sunday, Lewis said that the call for a constitutional convention "recognizes the inadequacies of constitutional review through federal-provincial conferences.

PLEASED

He also said he was pleased the Quebec wing had expressed "its determination to build a new and united Canada based on an updated constitution freely supported by all elements of Canadian society."

A split with the Quebec wing would have hurt the NDP's image as a national party, although a Quebec NDP candidate has never been elected to either the national assembly or the House of Commons. On the other hand, any toleration of a position that could be interpreted as pro-separatist would damage the party's attempts to pick up votes in English-speaking provinces.

Membership in the NDP in Quebec has fallen to about 500 from a high of nearly 3,000 prior to the 1968 federal election.

DROP OUT

Since that time, members have either dropped out because of discouragement or joined the Parti Quebecois, whose social and economic policies are similar to those of the NDP.

When the Quebec NDP adopted its "self-determination" resolution last February, it also decided not to contest future provincial elections" leaving the field open to the Parti Quebecois.

Quebec wing leader Laliberte hopes that by so doing, the NDP may now be able to attract — in federal elections — the votes of people who vote separatist in provincial elections.

The Parti Quebecois attracted 23 per cent of the popular vote in the 1970 Quebec provincial election, although it won only seven seats, and is a significant potential power base.

JUDGE TO SEE AMCHITKA DATA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge told the government Saturday that he wants to read secret documents being sought by conservationists who are trying to stop the underground nuclear test in the Aleutian islands.

U.S. district court Judge George Hart Jr. said he would sign a formal order Tuesday to require delivery of the documents to him.

Government lawyers, who contend the documents were intended to advise President Nixon on the effects of the Project Cannikin test, are expected to appeal Hart's order to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Hart ruled during a hearing on a request by conservationists for a preliminary injunction to halt the explosion on Amchitka Island pending further study of its environmental effects.

Hart had rejected an earlier request for a restraining order by David Sive, a New York lawyer representing the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility and seven other groups, contending an environmental report on the nuclear test was inadequate.

Greenpeace Set For Quick Return

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A leader of the greenpeace protest mission says the crew would return to Alaska's Aleutians if necessary to register their opposition to the underground nuclear test on Amchitka island.

"If President Nixon were to announce tomorrow that the test would go off in 10 days, we'd turn around and go back," spokesman James Bohlen said Sunday. "But we're drawing near the end of our resources, and we want to get back to a Canadian port and wait for further developments."

The Greenpeace — flagship of the Canadian Anti-Amchitka movement — was greeted by about 10 persons as it straggled into the blustery Juneau harbor Saturday night.

The 12-man crew, nearly five weeks at sea, immediately went to a reception and dinner at a local restaurant.

Bohlen, a 45-year-old forest products consultant from Vancouver, said the crew considered its mission a success even though it has not carried out its avowed purpose of monitoring at close range the Atomic Energy Commission's five-megaton explosion at Amchitka.

Three On Spy Charges

LONDON (Reuter) — Three men charged with breaching Britain's Official Secrets Act were accused today of conspiring with Oleg Lyalin, a former Soviet secret police official who defected to Britain.

Lyalin and two other Russian agents who have since left Britain were named during preliminary hearings against a Malaysian-born civil servant and two Greek-Cypriots.

The Malaysian, Sirioj Husein Abdoorcader, was originally charged with obtaining at Portsmouth, site of Britain's biggest naval base, an article which might be useful to an enemy.

Further charges were brought against him today. One was that he conspired with Lyalin and another Russian between Jan. 1, 1967, and Sept. 17, 1971, to obtain information which might be useful to an enemy.

The Greek-Cypriots were Kyriacus Costi, 29, and Constantinos Marinou, 26, both traitors in London. They were accused of conspiring with Lyalin and others in London to obtain forbidden information between Jan. 1, 1961, and Sept. 10, 1971.

Only One Man Links Kosygin With Hosts . . . His Translator

TORONTO (CP) — The most important man on Alexei Kosygin's Canadian tour, besides the Soviet premier himself, probably is Victor Sukhodryev.

Mr. Sukhodryev rarely leaves Mr. Kosygin's side. When he does, the Soviet premier is unable to communicate with his Canadian hosts.

Only 39, Mr. Sukhodryev has been one of Russia's most widely-travelled interpreters for the last 15 years.

In a weekend interview, Mr. Sukhodryev said he started interpreting for Russian government leaders in 1956 when he accompanied Nikita Khrushchev, then Soviet premier, to the United States.

Mr. Sukhodryev was there when Mr. Khrushchev whomped a table-top with his shoe at the United Nations.

He also was present on a movie set in Hollywood when Mr. Khrushchev chided Shirley Maclaine and other dancers for flipping their skirts in a Follies Bergere number.

Translating can be a rigorous occupation, he says, thinking back to a five-hour interview Mr. Khrushchev once had with three United States reporters.

"During the fourth hour, I looked at my notes from Khrushchev and translated a couple of his answers and then realized I was talking to the Americans in Russian. I was getting pretty beat."

He lived in England with his mother, who worked in the Soviet trade delegation, from the age of seven to 13.

"When you're that young, a new language is easy to acquire," he says.

But idioms vary from country to country, and an interpretor has to be on his toes.

For example, last Wednesday at a news conference in Ottawa, Mr. Kosygin was quoted as saying that every country has its "riff-raff" This was in connection with the attack on him last Monday.

"I cannot treat the actions of certain riff-raff that exist in every country as the attitude of the Canadian people toward the Soviet Union," Mr. Sukhodryev quoted the premier as saying.

Was "riff-raff" exactly the word that Mr. Kosygin wanted to use?

Mr. Sukhodryev said several euphemisms flashed through his mind, before he selected "riffraff." He said that the word presented Mr. Kosygin's sentiment accurately, but it probably was not precise.

True Confession Of a Ski Cheat

The president and officers of the newly-formed Cowichan Valley Ski Club who call themselves the Skyliners have invited my wife and me to their inaugural week-end on the Forbidden Plateau and I'd be a mighty poor sport if I refused.

Clearly, the boys and girls have seen through my little joke of a couple of weeks ago when, succumbing to every newspaperman's secret yearning to be a writer of fiction, I concocted an entirely imaginary account of an adventure on the higher slopes of the Alps. They're determined, obviously, to have the last laugh. Darned if I don't think I owe it to them.

* * *

In fact, I might as well make a clean breast of the whole fraud right now and freely confess that, all my life, I have been The Ski Cheat of the Western World. There! It's out!

It all began, as a small boy, when I was knee-high to a Gelandesprung. My father, chagrined at my habit of lying about the house reading Nietzsche, Schopenhauer, Bart L. Standish and illustrated medical books, purchased a pair of enormous planks identified as cross-country skis, buckled me into them and shoved me through the door in a northerly direction.

Soon I'd joined a ski club and, to the delight of my parents, spent nearly every weekend in the hills or, to be more specific, hard by the stove in the juniors' cabin where I quickly learned to smoke, drink and cheat at cards.

"They're making a man of my boy," my father would say proudly when I sloped home on Sunday night, flushed with my tiny hangover and the 48-hour barbecue effect of the stove.

If he'd ever sat in on our little discussion groups, which were devoted entirely to basic biology, he'd have been surprised to know how right he was.

I soon discovered that I loved every part of skiing except the part where you actually slide on the snow. This has shaped my single-minded approach to the sport ever since. I mastered the formula of Skiing Without Tears, sneaky little weasel that I was.

Now, after 30-odd years of it, I look back on skiing in the form of a montage in which figure prominently wide, hot fireplaces and tall, hot rums, all-night poker sessions, dancing in slippers by candlelight, marvellous vistas of winter playgrounds seen through frosted, weather-proof windows, harmonizing around the fire to the accompaniment of accordions and all sorts of splendid hot rums.

* * *

Indeed, the very best ski holiday I ever remember was just exactly like that. My wife and I had gone to Timberline Lodge on Mount Hood to celebrate our 20th wedding anniversary. On our very first day we elected to run the slope called The Miracle Mile and within the space of 20 minutes two things happened. One: My wife disappeared into the machinery at the top of the tow and the whole operation was shut down while she was extricated from the gears. Two: My wife then sprained her ankle half way down the hill and had to be rescued by a patrol, strapped in a tobaggan, which then overturned, spraining her other ankle.

This, very successfully, got the skiing nicely out of the way and we had a wonderful week, lying in bed until noon, playing Chinese Checkers, and engaging in the apres-ski festivities each night, all without the necessity of going out into the cold.

No sport creates such congenial camaraderie. This is due in part to the wardrobe which is at once informal and kind of heroic. The white slopes outside will separate the men from the boys, but in the lodge, itself, before the cheery log fire (and with the hot rums in hand) every man has the appearance of having just Schusched the Widow's Leap.

The actual skiing part, as I say, never intrigued me. I made the discovery very early in my career that skiing has a number of insurmountable drawbacks.

It is, for obvious reasons, cold. There is a great deal of falling down and getting up, which never appealed to me very much. There's an awful lot of work involved in it for the excitement of risking a compound fracture. It was just one of those things, like weight-lifting, that seemed, from the beginning, foreign to my delicate nature.

* * *

How I reconciled my repugnance for the outdoor part with my love of the indoor part is a saga of sheer chicanery.

Part of my secret lies in mastering the gentle slope which leads away from the chalet, any chalet. I went to considerable pains to establish myself as the lone skier, eager to set off for the higher slopes unfettered by lesser mortals. It is my practice to make a great show of preparedness, waxing my skis, donning my considerable equipment and then standing theatrically outside the lodge, flexing my knees and leaning on my poles. I do this terribly well if I say so myself.

Then, with a great shout of "Ski Heil!" I coast down the four-degree incline, skid around the bend and fall down and laugh, laugh, laugh. By the time I've recovered my wind they'll all be gone and I can walk back and be warm all day.

Another device, which must be used sparingly, is The Limp. A rueful description of how you sprained a fibula while trying to perfect a reverse Christiana, accompanied by a stoic gritting of the teeth as you hobble to the bar, will generally do the trick.

I will elaborate on all this for the benefit of the Skyliners when the weekend comes unless, as I suspect, 90 percent of the membership are up to the same game themselves.

Ask the Times

Q. After a recent air trip to Hawaii and England we found many films in our baggage had turned out blank. Other people have told us they have had the same experience, and that this is due to airlines x-raying passengers and their baggage, which damages the film. Is this correct? — M.H.

A: An Air Canada spokesman said such complaints are received from time to time, but there is no substance to them. Those airlines using screening devices, he said, have magnetically-operated metal detectors which could not possibly damage films. The official said it would be completely impractical to attempt to x-ray passengers and their baggage.

Q. The world "waffle" frequently appears in news items dealing with the New Democratic Party. What is the full title of the group and what does the name stand for? W.R.C.

A: The Waffle, this is its full title, is a group of left-wing activities within the NDP party which began coming into prominence after the publication of a manifesto by Professor Melville Watkins of the University of Toronto and James Laxer, a history lecturer at Queen's University. To waffle means to equivocate and the group, originally, were determined not to waffle. The name began as something of a joke — but the group decided to stay with it.

Weekend Fire Destroys Seamen's Club Building

Still smouldering this morning, the Club 44 building at CFB Esquimalt was completely gutted this weekend by fire which broke out Sunday morning.

Officials in the base comptroller's office said they were unable to give an estimate of the loss today until a complete inventory has been made. The building was used as a club for leading seamen and corporals.

The fire was discovered about 10:20 a.m. Sunday by the club's president, LS Gordon Kimmett.

BOILER ROOM

Believed to have started in the boiler room, the fire spread rapidly until flames were shooting through the roof.

Although the fire was contained it took four rigs, two from the dockyard, one from Belmont and one from Esquimalt, to bring the blaze under control.

Built in 1942, the building was double-walled and insulated.

The dockyard firemen's stock of air canisters was depleted as the crews worked for hours to subdue the flames. Extra ones had to be rushed from Belmont.

Fire rigs had to be called off twice in the afternoon to answer two other alarms, one of them false.

GREASE FIRE

An Esquimalt crew raced to the dockyard to put out a grease fire that started in the galley of the destroyer-escort HMCS Gatineau at 2 p.m.

One of the dockyard rigs was sent to Work Point at 4 p.m. when another alarm was turned in. Reaching the Work Point barracks they found a failure in the electrical alarm system which triggered the false alarm.

A board of inquiry has been ordered to investigate the Club 44 fire and will report its findings to Rear-Admiral Richard Leir, commander of Maritime Command Pacific.

Soviet Seaman in Jail

A Russian seaman who jumped ship in Nanaimo last week will go before a department of immigration inquiry this afternoon at Victoria city jail.

"The first thing we have to find out is whether he is seeking political asylum or is just a deserter," Douglas Cook, district administrator, said today.

The seaman, Andrei Vlasov, 33, an engine room motor man with the Russian freighter Dzhurma, was being escorted from Nanaimo late this morning by RCMP who have held him since he turned himself in on Friday after the freighter left at noon that day.

A lawyer will be made available to Vlasov this afternoon, Cook said. The proceedings will decide, depending on final approval from the federal immigration minister, whether the man will be deported or allowed to stay. Meanwhile, Vlasov remains in custody.

Vlasov is understood to have told the RCMP in Nanaimo that he is seeking political asylum.

He jumped ship on Thursday and hid overnight in bushes before going to a Dairy Queen in Nanaimo in the evening and asking the attendant to phone "police" — the only word in English he appeared to know.

The freighter, which was loading logs for Japanese ports, delayed its scheduled departure Thursday night until Friday noon.

Vlasov had been a crew member on the ship from February 1970.

Uniform Ambulances Urged

A regional ambulance service that would offer all Greater Victoria residents the quality of equipment that only Saanich residents now receive has been called for by the B.C. Medical Association.

Saanich municipality ambulance is specially equipped and staffed to resuscitate persons overcome by heart attack.

"The fact is that this care is available only to those persons in Greater Victoria who happen to live in Saanich," said the report by the traffic and safety committee of the BCMA, which is under the chairmanship of Dr. Peter Ransford of Victoria.

The report also said that "while in isolated instances the ambulance services may have improved, taken over-all there is still much room for improvement."

The Saanich ambulance has a defibrillator that is used to restore heart beats and a radio that transmits cardiograms of patients to the Royal Jubilee Hospital before the ambulance arrives at the emergency ward.

The attendants are also trained to inject drugs if it is decided by the service's medical consultant.

Brothers, Board To Meet Today

The entire Campbell River school board was to meet Education Minister Donald Brothers this afternoon here. But it is unlikely the delegation will make headway in winning back accreditation for Campbell River Senior Secondary.

'NO COMMENT'

J. R. Meredith, superintendent of instructional services for the department of education, had "no comment" to make on the accreditation withdrawal, which drew charges of "politics" from principal J. A. Young and protests from teachers, trustees, parents and students in Campbell River.

Meredith, who has been out of town and unavailable for comment since his notice of accreditation withdrawal became public two weeks ago, did say that it is "not normal" for a school to get its accreditation back within the same year it is withdrawn.

Asked if the school could get accreditation back as soon as it cleared up department complaints against it, Meredith said that it is normal for accreditation to be restored after a year or even more.

In reply to charges that the department in this case violated its own policy of giving a school at least two years' notice before withdrawal, Meredith said "no comment."

Campbell River Senior Secondary, which has drawn the attention of educators throughout Canada for its free approach to learning, lost its accreditation four months after the first warning.

Young commented this morning that "the whole thing is preposterous. How do you get around bureaucrats like Meredith who are not accountable to the public?"

14 COMPLAINTS

The department took away accreditation because of 14 complaints, which included failure to hold routine departmental testing, lack of clear policy in testing and promotion procedures, and slightly below average academic performance on the part of graduating students.

Young brushed these complaints aside as picayune.

Accreditation withdrawal means that a high school can no longer recommend Grade 12 students for university entrance and that all must now write final exams.

Needy Enjoy Surplus From Cool-Aid Farm

Victoria Cool-Aid's three-acre farm in Saanich was so productive that the group donated leftover vegetables to poor people and charitable organizations, staff worker Rick Stamford said today.

Stamford co-ordinated work at the Saanich farm with the help of other staff workers Benny Quay and Ernie Seedhouse. Total farm expenses this summer came to $8,226, Stamford said in his report on the project.

Financing came from the federal Opportunities for Youth program, Stamford said Cool-Aid intends to work the land again next summer.

Farm produce fed young people who stayed at Cool-Aid's hostels in Victoria. Young transients were hired for one day in groups of five to work the farm. They received $8 a day.

Stamford's report said this works project resulted in a large decrease in the number of young people going to Victoria's welfare department to get transportation money off the Island.

The OFY grant also paid for installation of a water line, irrigation system fittings, seed, fertilizer, tools and field cultivation.

The land was leased from Saanich for a nominal $1 a year. Stamford said many Greater Victoria residents donated time and equipment as well as technical know-how during the early stages of the project.

Cool-Aid grew only organic vegetables. Produce included peas, corn, soybeans, cabbage and beans. Only natural fertilizers were used.

"The most important benefit from the OFY program was the chance to organize a project and take the responsibility for it. Working close to the government allowed a greater understanding on our part of the complexity involved with such large-scale organizing," Stamford said.

CUPE Talks Resume

Negotiations will resume next week between three Victoria private hospitals and the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The negotiations for renewal of existing collective agreements also involve Simon Fraser Private Hospital in Prince George.

In Victoria, the talks involve Glenwarren, Glengarry and Richmond Heights private hospitals. All together, about 120 employees are members of CUPE.

While no details were disclosed, CUPE staff representative Alex Markides said employees voted 96 per cent to reject the first offer by the managements.

Members of the same union have been on strike at Sandringham Private Hospital for almost 13 months seeking a first contract.

Pepin to Head Tourism Meeting

Federal trade minister Jean-Luc Pepin will be chairman of the federal-provincial tourism concerence this week in Victoria, Ottawa confirmed today.

The conference, which opens tomorrow and will run through to Thursday, is being held in Victoria to honor B.C.'s centennial year.

Governments as well as representatives from all parts of the $1.2 billion a year tourist industry will attend the conference.

Pepin estimates that by 1980 the tourist business in Canada will provide an income for the country of $3.5 billion.

Aliens Possible On Voters Lists

But it would be illegal for them to vote, even if they are on the list, because they do not meet the requirement that voters must be Canadian citizens or British subjects.

Other requirements include being 19 years or older and for non-property owners, residence for at least six months in the municipality.

Saanich clerk and returning officer Gordon Hayward does not believe the possibility of aliens getting on to the voters list is much of a problem.

"To my personal knowledge, I don't know of anyone not qualified who voted and I don't really believe it is a problem," he said.

Victoria clerk and returning officer Morran Waller said "we can't tell" if it is a problem.

The bulk of the voters list comprises property owners and this information comes from the land registry office.

Both Hayward and Waller said land registry used to supply citizenship information with property registration, but this has been discontinued.

Hayward said because it is possible for the names of aliens to appear on the voters list this "does not make it right for them to vote and they shouldn't."

He said such persons could be challenged at the polling station and the clerk can demand proof of citizenship.

Songhees Get $6,300 From Fund

Songhees Indian band has received a total of $6,300 from the provincial First Citizens' Fund, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today.

The money will be used for recreation and nursery school expenses. Campbell is chairman of the First Citizens' Fund advisory committee.

He also announced that the Becher Bay Indian band has received $9,000 for operating expenses at their marina. The grants were made following a committee meeting Oct. 13, Campbell said.

The John Howard society of Vancouver Island received a grant of $10,110 for an Indian court worker, and a similar grant went to the John Howard society in Vancouver. More than $220,000 was distributed to 36 bands, individuals or societies.

UVIC STAFF GIVES $3,000 TO APPEAL

Early returns from the United Appeal canvass among University of Victoria staff are pleasing campaign chairman Eric Charman.

Charman said today the canvass only started Friday but the total, with 58 returns in, already exceeds the $3,000 mark.

"That's over $50 apiece so far, a fairly hefty increase on the university average last year," he said.

Total university staff including faculty, secretarial and outside workers is nearly 1,000.

Despite this pleasing aspect of the campaign, Charman said there must be a substantial increase in employees' contributions on the payroll deduction system if the drive is to meet its $758,723 target.

The weekend total was $348,500, or about 46 per cent of the goal.

Anyone wanting to have donations collected should telephone the United Appeal office at 385-6708 or Charman's office at 385-9765.

Donations may also be left at the Appeal office at 1951 Cook or at Charman's office at 608 Broughton.

'Bennies' Decline

Prescriptions for amphetamines — the pep pills or "bennies" long abused by drug users — have declined 45 to 90 per cent in areas where U.S. doctors voluntarily undertook to cut down their use, a survey finds.

And in at least one area, in Utah, there's been a decrease in burglaries of pharmacies, after word spread that the stores had only limited supplies of the pills rather than big stocks, says the American Medical Association. Another result has been smaller amounts of the stimulant drugs on the black market.

DEAR ABBY

Rebel Teen Sees Light

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a letter several years ago. I was another angry teen-ager, complaining because my parents didn't trust me, wouldn't let me grow up, bleach my hair, wear a lot of makeup and date older boys when I was young. They seemed to want to keep my a baby forever. I hated them for being so unreasonable. Since then I have seen many letters in your column so much like my own.

Then I got into a serious automobile accident and suffered neck and back injuries that partially paralyzed me for many long months. At first they said I'd never walk again. My friends flocked to see me while I was in the hospital, but when I went home and was confined to a hospital bed, they forgot me. The painful process of learning how to sit up and walk again was so discouraging and agonizing.

The two friends who never let me down were my parents. During the time I was on my back, I had plenty of time to think, and it was then I realized I had been the unreasonable one, and my parents had kept a watchful eye on me because they loved me. I am glad I found out how wonderful parents can be before it was too late. We are closer than ever now.

Oh, by the way, I never mailed that letter to you. I've kept it all this time in my top drawer. — Wiser Now

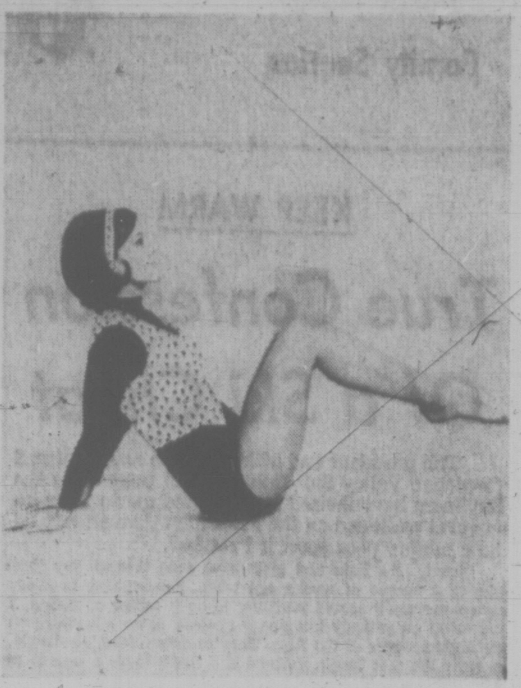
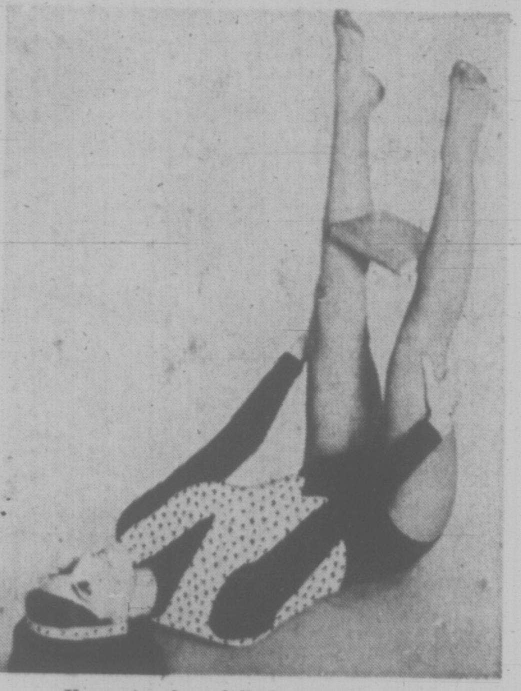
Here's a drill to firm and trim



Activates muscles in lower torso



Keeps trunk and limb muscles active

Basic Exercises Keep You Fit

By REBA and BONNIE CHURCHILL

One conditioning routine, which keeps both trunk and limb muscles active, begins by sitting on the floor with legs extended. Grasp a book in outstretched hands and briskly lift left knee to book. Alternate legs.

Flabby muscle tone quickly shows up in thick thighs. According to the pros, "here's a drill designed to firm and trim." Lie on your back, lift both legs, so they form a right angle to the body. Position hands on outer sides of thighs for support. Now, with resistive pressure, use your hands to push legs toward each other. Hold for the slow count of three. Release and relax. Repeat only four times.

"Playing the accordion." Activates muscles in the lower torso. As actress-singer Holly Smith illustrates, sit on the floor, legs bent, a book wedged between knees. Brace hands on floor behind back, and slowly contract abdominal muscles as you raise feet from floor. Pushing legs toward chest, then away. Inhale through your nose as you bring legs toward body, exhale as you push them away.

There are certain "basic" exercises that have proved themselves all-time favorites, both with performers and physical conditioners. These routines are known as the "Fundamental 10". School Cause Of Many Ills

CHICAGO (AP) — A lot of kids don't like school, as most mothers know. Some of them don't like it so much they get sick.

These children are designated by doctors as "school-phobic," although school itself may not be the source of the problem.

As often happens, the psychological problems of school-phobic children may cause them to have physical problems as well.

Their symptoms may be listlessness, nausea, stomach aches, sore throat, pallor, loss of appetite, coughing, headache or other complaints, in addition to their psychological stress.

These problems arise from anxiety — sometimes to the point of panic — over separation from family and home or over being inadequate in school or over something disturbing at school.

The child's reaction may be so severe that he has to stay home.

Dr. Barton D. Schmitt, of the University of Colorado medical school's department of pediatrics at Denver, points out these children are not malingerers, even though no physiological basis can be detected for their complaints.

Schmitt, writing in a recent issue of the journal Pediatrics, says the school-phobic child rarely tells the parents that he is afraid to go to school but tells them he feels sick.

September and October — the first months of the school year are the worst, he has found, and the children affected usually are good students.

Dr. Albert J. Solnit, the new president of the American Academy of Child Psychiatry, said school phobia in children from nursery school to the third grade usually is related to their anxiety over separation from home.

Solnit, professor of pediatrics and psychiatry at Yale University, said that at later ages the school situation itself is more often the basis of the school phobia.

Youth Plan 'Success'

Evaluation of still another Opportunities For Youth summer program has just been completed by executive director Jack Hawthorn and program director Terry Brown of the Bishop Cridge Centre for the Family. It shows the project worked well and produced the desired result.

"We had three main objects in view when he decided to sponsor this program," Hawthorn told me.

These were to provide for recreational needs of children of working mothers during the school holidays, to enable these same mothers to continue employment without loss of income (through having to stop work to care for their children) and to offer relief from pressures on single parents in the summer months.

Once the decision was made, Hawthorn said, "We applied for a grant from federal Opportunities For Youth."

They didn't get the amount requested. It was whittled down considerably. And by the time the project was approved and the federal promise of aid came through about the end of May; there was only a little over a month left before schools closed and children would be footloose.

"We had to work fast," Terry Brown reminisced as he looked back to those hectic days.

As the man in charge of activating the project he interviewed more than 50 senior high school and university students to find eight who would assume responsibility as team leaders. He publicized the project through posters, the newspapers, radio, telephone and television, making appeals for donations of equipment.

"We asked for everybody's junk," Brown said, "and the trickle became a flood. Arts, crafts and paint shops sent materials. Schools gave such end-of-year things as chalk, paper and books. We got so much material, of all kinds and conditions, we had to build a plywood shed out back of the main building to keep the stuff."

On top of this, the Bay Street Armory pool was given for two hours each afternoon while the program was active. Several private pools were opened for the children. The centre provided a van for transportation and Forest Products Ltd. loaned a site in the Sooke foothills.

There, in groups of 15, according to age and sex, and with three volunteers and a team leader, the youngsters were taken on rotating three-day camping trips, throughout the summer.

In the first week of the program, with the drop-ins and friends the children themselves gathered in, nearly 400 attended each day. The centre's almost eight acres of wooded land was humming with soccer, baseball, talk and drama groups, playground fun, nature walks, volleyball, basketball and 10 different arts and crafts activities, all going on at the same time.

There was also movies, bicycle hikes and the field, swimming and camping trips.

The youngsters were divided into six main groups, according to age, sex and their standing in school from primary to seniors.

By the end of July this group unity had proved valuable to the children," Terry Brown told me.

Will they activate this same project again next year? The answer these dedicated young men give is a decisive "yes."

They hope it will be with help of another federal youth opportunities grant. But, if not, "Some way will be found."

In the meantime, they are deep in plans for a series of winter evening programs to help single parents living in the new housing units and homes, all opened recently on the grounds.

Spare Time Fun

Ceramic Jack O'Lantern pleases Rosemary Mathews

A great many Oak Bay citizens in all age groups are taking advantage of the extensive program offered by the Oak Bay Recreation Commission.

The commission makes use of facilities in the newly-completed Windsor Park Pavillion, the Municipal Hall, elementary and secondary schools to provide a program that ranges from gymnastics to macrame.

Times of the courses have been arranged to accomodate various groups in the community. Housewives and senior citizens use facilities mornings and early afternoon. Children's classes are scheduled for after school or early evening hours.

Anyone may enrol for the 10-week courses, but Oak Bay residents have priority if a class is over-subscribed.

Prices range from $6 to $12 for various courses with an additional charge for materials in some classes like oil painting and ceramics.

Classes for children at Windsor park include ethnic dancing Thursday afternoons and leather work or guitar classes Wednesday evening.

Saturday morning children may enrol in oil painting, crewel embroidery or ceramics at Windsor Park or take creative drama or conversational French at Willows Elementary School.

Classes for children in badminton, gymastics, floor hockey and archery are also available.

Adult camera buffs can sign up for photography classes Tuesday evenings or learn how to set up their own darkroom every second Thursday evening. There is an additional charge for materials in the darkroom course.

Housewives can escape from the endless round of housework by taking the keep fit class or ladies outdoor education which includes field trips and afternoon tea.

Information on courses, times and prices may be obtained from the Recreation Department of Oak Bay.

Liz Loves Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Something about law began to fascinate Elizabeth McFadyen back in Grade 9 and she says she "couldn't let go after that."

Now the courtroom is familiar to the attractive 31-year-old lawyer, just appointed director of the new Edmonton regional office of the federal justice department.

Originally from Saskatoon, Elizabeth, or Liz as she is often called, looks forward to returning to the Prairies although she says she enjoyed her 1½ years in Ottawa with the justice department's tax litigation section.

She did both research and court work dealing with appeals against tax assessments.

"I enjoy sitting down and preparing a case for trial, deciding on the different arguments to be taken into court and going to court." In short, she likes the whole process.

Her new duties are likely again to involve some tax work as well as prosecutions and civil litigation.

The Edmonton office, which will include two other lawyers, is expected to open early in 1972. It is the sixth in Canada staffed by members of the department. The others are in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver and Edmonton's is the first directed by a woman.

"They send you out there with the idea that you're going to handle most of the problems yourself," Elizabeth says of her Edmonton posting. "You do report back to Ottawa and you can get direction from Ottawa any time you really want it or need it."

Elizabeth grew up as one of five children in Saskatoon where she attended the University of Saskatchewan, earning degrees in arts and law and leading the class in each of her three years of law school.

Vote Mixes Sexes

BERNE, Switzerland (Reuter) — Women vote in Switzerland's general elections for the first time at the end of this month, but dramatic changes in the neutral country's traditionally calm politics are unlikely.

The decision to allow 1.8 million women the vote was reached by an all-male referendum last February, reversing a similar referendum taken in 1959.

Until then, Switzerland was the only country in Europe apart from tiny Liechtenstein to deny women the vote on a national scale.

Despite the breakthrough, in the campaigning for the general elections to be held during the weekend of Oct. 30 and 31, political parties have made no special drive to capture the new female voters.

Long-Sleepers Dreary Bunch

People who get along on relatively little sleep — six hours or less a night — tend to be efficient, outgoing and lively, and more socially adept than those needing long sleep, a researcher finds.

Long sleepers — eight hours or more — tend to be introverted, inhibited, anxious and depressed, says a Modern Medicine magazine report of studies by Dr. Ernest Hartmann, director of the Sleep Laboratory of Boston State Hospital, and a Tufts University psychiatrist. He studied 29 volunteers to see whether sleep habits reflect personality traits.

Rebels Will Be Real Winners in India-Pakistan Conflict

WASHINGTON (WP) — The real winners of an all-out war between India and Pakistan would be those who stand at the heart of the hostility, the Bengali rebels of East Pakistan.

With Yahya's forces already heavly committed to containing the Bangla Desh (Bengal nation) insurrection, the opening of several fronts along East and West Pakistan's borders with India would severely weaken the army, perhaps to the point of collapse.

The Mukti Banhini, or liberation forces, of Bangla Desh have been waging guerrilla warfare against Yahya's troops since the army cracked down in East Pakistan at midnight of March 25.

While the guerrillas have achieved some notable success, particularly in sabatagjng ships, bridges and roads, and claim to have killed 20,000 Pakistani soldiers, it is clear that the Bengali leaders recognize that an Indo-Pakistani war would work to their advantage, at least in the long run.

More immediately, though, the Bengalis express some concern that a war between New Delhi and Islamabad would become the focus of international concern and that their own cause would be relegated to being only a part of the larger picture.

Both the Bengalis and the leaders of India have denied vehemently that the Bangla Desh issue is, at its heart, an Indo-Pakistani affair. India's involvement, they maintain, is only a coincidence of geographic proximity.

Yahya, on the other hand, insists that India's arming and training the guerrillas make it very directly involved.

Furthermore, Yahya charges, India is using the East Pakistani civil strife as a ploy to cover its real interest — ultimate take-over of the territory.

The Bengalis deny this.

"This is impossible," a senior Bangla Desh representative said this week. "If this were even remotely possible we would not be fighting as we are now. We would not exchange one set of masters for another. We will be independent."

Although territorial dispute has been at the core of the serious Indo-Pakistani differences since the creation of Pakistan in 1947, those Indians who favor a war have a more pressing reason.

REFUGEES

The estimated nine million refugees who have fled to India will cost the government $700 million in the current fiscal year, ending March 31, according to Indian Finance Minister Y. B. Chavan. This amount, he said recently in Washington, represents a sixth of the nation's annual development budget.

Pro-war factions in New Delhi note that the 1965 war with Pakistan cost India about $100 million. Not only would it be cheaper to go to war than to support the refugees, they argue, but war is the only way toward a political solution in East Pakistan.

Yahya has called for by-elections at the end of the year to fill national assembly seats made vacant by his banning of the East Palistani-based Awami League. But there is little chance the independence-minded Bengalis would find a voice in the civil government to be established after the by-elections.

'MEANINGLESS'

Bangla Desh leaders, predictably, dismiss Yahya's declaration as meaningless. They point to the fact that Awami League leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman is a prisoner of the army, and that without him the Bengalis cannot have representation.

To the rebels, a meaningful political solution would require Yahya to accept the following conditions:

- Officially recognize the existence of an independent Bangla Desh.
- Unconditionally release Mujibur.
- Withdraw all Pakistani army forces from Bangla Desh.

If Yahya were to accept these absolute demands, he would be admitting defeat at the hands of the Mukti Bahini while at the same time giving away a major source of national income.

Indian and Bangla Desh leaders know that Yahya would not and could not willingly oversee the break-up of his country. They also claim that the Mukti Bahini are begining to turn the tide against the army.

Perhaps the only solution open to Yahya is this dilemma, short of open war, would be the concession of a large measure of autonomy to the Awami League under Mujibur.

Some West Pakistani sources have suggested that Awami League candidates could run in the by-elections, on a different ticket, and thus gain significant Bengali representation in the assembly.

Then, the sources add, with a civil government in power and Yahya out of office, a deal could be made with the Bengalis: They would have their voice; Yahya would save face; Pakistan, in some form, would be left standing.

But Bangla Desh leaders flatly reject this suggestion. There has already been too much killing, too much brutality. The only compromise, they insist, must be Yahya's. Bankla Desh must be independent.

Clearly, in their position, they have little more to lose, and perhaps much to gain, from a war between India and Pakistan.

Before the Judge

An unemployed laborer was fined $250 or ordered to spend two months in jail when he appeared in provincial court Saturday on a charge of shoplifting tools worth $9.75.

Raymond M. Lemire, 41, pleaded guilty to stealing the items Friday from Simpsons-Sears Ltd., 5190 Shelbourne St.

Lemire told Judge Edmond Jorre De St. Jorre he needed the $234 he had in his possession when he was apprehended to make payments on his house and car.

He said he had recently lost his laborer's job and needed the tools to help him get work.

He was given a month to pay the fine.

James J. Norman, 21, of 640 St. Jorre he needed the $234 he had in his possession when he was apprehended to make payments on his house and car.

Police said Norman was driving 50 miles per hour and at one point was on the sidewalk in the Bay-Quadra area when he was arrested.

Youth Kiosk Called Unsound

A summer hitch-hiking kiosk to aid transient youth visiting Victoria was not structurally sound and should be replaced by something stronger in future.

That is the message of a report on the kiosk project prepared by supervisor John Durkin, a community youth worker with the YM-YWCA.

The kiosk, a 30-foot-high teepee-shaped tent, was one of about 20 located across Canada. It was situated on Douglas Street near the Island Highway junction. The federal government sponsored the project.

Durkin's report said the tent was impractical because it was structurally unsound and drafty. Another problem was that the entrances were too low, causing hikers to get their packs tangled in the sides of the tent.

For next year, a trailer or geodesic dome, if economically possible, is recommended.

A staff of six manned the kiosk from June 19 to Sept. 15, giving information and advice on housing, medical care, legal aid, welfare, unemployment and transportation.

A total of 3,775 persons visited the kiosk, 72 per cent between the ages of 18 and 25. The destination of most was Victoria and 32 per cent came from the U.S.

Durkin's report said response from the community was good and unexpected. Singled out for their contribution to the effort was the Saanich police force.

A problem in the project was the relationship with regional and national organizers.

"There were times when we didn't know who could provide us with answers to our questions. These relationships should have been better defined from the beginning," the report says.

Newspaper Dispute Settled

TORONTO (CP) — A settlement was reached Saturday in a wage and contract dispute between The Globe and Mail and three mechanical unions.

The end of the dispute came at 12:45 a.m. The unions, representing pressmen, stereotypers and engravers, set aside a midnight strike deadline when it became apparent agreement would be reached.

The agreement provides for a $40-a-week increase over two years but the staging and timing of the increase differ from the terms for a $40-a-week settlement reached previously at The Star.

Pay rates for pressmen and stereotypers were $189 for a 33¾-hour week on night shift and $213 for photoengravers.

HOME GARDEN

Queries Answered

By HILDA BEASTALL

A pot pourri of questions asked during the past month will be of interest to other gardeners than those originally posing their problems.

Are there any dwarf fuchsias which can be left in the ground? I have a tiny pool and would like to plant a few in the rocks to be reflected in the pool.

Sounds a charming idea. The answer is yes. Several hardy little fuchsias are commonly grown in rock gardens and are available from local alpine specialists.

What do you consider the better golden leaved shrub for winter — the Golden Cedar or the Golden Privet?

The Golden Privet does not reliably keep its leaves throughout winter. The Golden Cedar is decidedly attractive, keeping its good looks all year. It will grow very tall and wide with time; it cannot be pruned and still keep its character.

Its growth is easily controlled by cutting branches for decoration indoors where it will last a month in water.

Are there really crocuses which bloom in winter; I mean in January?

Yes, indeed. Crocus ancyrensis and C. biflorus are two of the earliest. You can see others at local bulb growers' display gardens.

Does the poinsettia have to be kept in the dark from now until the red flowers come on the plant?

Good gracious, no! The poor plant would soon give up if kept without daylight. Poinsettias need to be put into complete unbroken darkness from dusk until dawn at this season, until the little greenish flowers develop and the leafy bracts begin to color.

Daytime must be spent in daylight with sunshine when possible. As coloring develops, poinsettias remain in the living room with artificial lights on during evenings as usual.

I have taken up my gladiolus bulbs after the flowers died. Should I, plant them back again now? I have never grown them before.

No gladioli are stored in a cool dry place about 40 to 45 deg. F. for winter, and planted abut April next year.

Will popular and willow trees be fast growning as I want to plant for hiding highway traffic?

These are fast growing all right, but should not be planted on a single lot property, since roots will soon go under foundations and into tile drains. Poplar will also heave blacktop driveways. All fast growers have invasive root systems.

Karpin on Bridge

By FRED KARPIN

In today's deal, our South declarer committed an error by playing hurriedly and unthinkingly. As a result, he failed to fulfill a game contract that was there for the taking. Can you isolate South's error? Both sides vulnerable. East deals.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Dbl.	2 ♣	Pass
Pass	3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣.

Dummy's queen of clubs was played on the opening lead, East capturing the trick with his king. East returned the ace of clubs, which South ruffed with the trump deuce.

The king of spades was then laid down, West's ace winning. West exited with a low trump, which was taken by dummy's ten. A low spade was now played, South ruffing it with his ace. The board was then re-entered via the trump queen. On, the queen of spades, South discarded his diamond three.

A fourth spade lead came next, South ruffing. Dummy's fifth spade was now a winner, but it was uncashable, since declarer had no entry to dummy. Eventually he lost two diamond tricks, to incur a one-trick set. What was his error?

Declarer's error came at trick two, when he ruffed East's ace of clubs with the deuce. He should have ruffed it with the six-spot instead.

He would then play the king of spades (as he did), West winning the trick with his ace. West would then return a trump (as he did). The trick would be captured by the board's ten-spot, South following suit with the seven.

A low spade lead would now be made, declarer ruffing with his ace. Next would come the nine of trumps to dummy's queen, picking up West's last trump enroute. Now the queen of spades would be cashed, South discarding his three of diamonds.

A fourth lead of spades would then be made, South ruffing the trick with his king. And, as before, the board's remaining spade would be the sole surviving spade in the deck.

But South would now be home, with his contract. He would lead his carefully preserved deuce of hearts, to dummy's four-spot. The board's remaining spade would then be led, South discarding another diamond. From here in all the defenders could make would be one diamond trick. Played correctly, declarer's only losers would have been a club, a spade, and a diamond.

Judy looked at the check. "$7.37 in all," she said. "That's only about sixty cents each."

"A bit more than, that," Ann told her. "But it does make exactly equal shares. Let's split it that way."

The others agreed, so how much did each have to pay?

Thanks for idea to C. L. Robins, Cleveland, Ohio.

Legion Death Manslaughter

NANAIMO (CP) — Ian Nicol Walker, 46, of Hendrix Lake, in the Cariboo, was sentenced to 10 after a jury found him guilty Friday on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

He was originally charged with non-capital murder in the shooting of Gloria Muriel Norman, April 24.

The shooting occurred in the lounge of a Canadian Legion branch.

Walker also was charged with attempted murder after the shooting. A companion of Miss Norman, Esko Karu, 25, was shot four times in the head.

STOCKS URGED FOR CRIMINALS

LONDON (UPI) — Humiliating criminals by pelting them with rotten tomatoes and eggs would be cheaper and probably more effective than prison, Dr. Raymond Green wrote in the British Medical Journal.

Stocks should be used, and where they would be put would be important, he said. "For the top criminal a suitable place would be outside his club.

"For everyone, the important consideration should be maximal humiliation."

The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

The gratitude in our hearts can never be fully expressed, but we want our friends, relatives and neighbors to know how much their kind words and expressions of sympathy have meant to us during our recent time of sorrow in the sad loss of our husband and father, Dale G. Creelman. — Mrs. Lil Creelman, son Rod and daughter Laurie.

9 IN MEMORIAM

CLARK — In loving memory of my son, Lennox Clark, who passed away October 25th, 1959.
He would not ask for grieving,
He would not ask for tears.
But only to be remembered
With the passing of the years.
—Mother.

IRISH — In loving memory of Mrs. Dorothy Elizabeth Annie Irish, who passed away October 25th, 1969, and her sister, Mrs. Ruth Jessie Hyde, who passed away November 19th, 1969. —Sadly missed. Mae Pattersen, Agnes Long.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Migraine Misconceptions

Many articles are written these days about migraine headaches, and oftentimes I am disappointed to see that even supposed experts on the subject have some misconceptions. One commonly-held idea is that migraine is just a form of allergy, but I am sure that it is not. Many migrainous persons are allergic to one or more foods, but this is what one would expect, because of their great sensitiveness to many stimuli.

Allergy is just one of the triggers that can start a migrainous headache. Commonly a woman has said to me, "Yes, I know that I must not touch milk or chocolate, and they can give me a bad migraine, but even when I leave those foods alone, I still suffer much from migraine."

Red wine is another suspected culprit in producing migraine, but one of my patients who has severe migraines said recently, "Often I have gotten bad migraines from red wine, and so I generally avoid it. But if someone brings an especially fine red wine to a dinner party and I cannot resist having a glass or two of it, I sometimes get away without any trouble."

Obviously, then, allergy is not the primary cause of migraine. The cause appears to be an irritable spot in the brain which many an able man or woman inherits. Several biochemists have tried to find something wrong with the body chemistry of migrainous persons, and especially of persons while they are actually suffering from a headache, but nothing definite has ever been found. Strangely, most migrainous women say they are free from their headaches during pregnancy. Severe migraine is far more common in women than in men.

I remember only one woman in whom I worked a miracle of healing by ridding her of an allergy. She told me that she had learned that she must not drink milk, because it would bring on a severe migraine. But she said that she still suffered much. It occurred to me that her sensitivity to milk might be so great that even breads and cakes made with milk could affect her, so I asked a master chef who was a devoted patient of mine to make up a loaf of bread without any milk. When the woman ate this bread, she had no more headaches. But in my experience that was a very unusual case. I am migrainous and highly sensitive to two foods, but eating these foods never gave me an attack of migraine.

I was surprised to read an article by an expert on migraine who mentioned aspirin as a drug that can be helpful in treatment. The migrainous women rarely gets any help from aspirin. I always ask, and if she says aspirin relieves her I much doubt that she has true migraine. Also I can nearly always rule out migraine if the woman tells me that she can eat a meal during an attack.

Of all the dozens of drugs that have been recommended for the stopping of attacks of migraine, the best one, which will give relief in 8 out of 10 cases, is ergotamine. The drug tends to close down the dilated arteries in the brain, and whenever this is accomplished, the headache goes. It is generally sold under the names Gynergen, Cafergot, and Wigraine.

Another drug that I have recently found to be very helpful to some of my migrainous patients is Percodan. No patient using it has as yet shown any sign of habituation.

A small but very helpful point that many experts and even sufferers of migraine do not know is that once a person is a bit nauseated, it is generally useless to give any medicine by mouth; the stomach is temporarily out of order and will not absorb it. At such times, medicine must be either injected hypodermically or put into the rectum in the form of a suppository.

YOUR FIRST HOME

Doesn't have to be expensive, but it should be a sound investment. It should be well built, have up-to-date wiring and plumbing, and have a good roof. A basement isn't necessary if you have adequate storage space; nor is a dining room if you have a large kitchen. Wall-to-wall in the bedrooms and living room plus a fireplace would be desirable extras. Let me show you such a home near Simpsons-Sears for only $18,500.

In the good old days before TV, the idea was for a large family with the spirit of togetherness. So a large family meant a large home. I don't know of the spirit of togetherness today, but I do have a large home consisting of 11 rooms on an acre of land, 6 bedrooms, large living and dining rooms, den, kitchen, modern oil furnace, no basement to speak of. With a little effort, this could be the home you want.

WHY BUY THIS (DEEP COVE 1 AC.)?

It does not perc! There are no trees! The 20x60 ex-airport hut was a chicken house and is dirty however, the land is level and cleared, has some good soil and is on watermains. The building seems sound and sits on a concrete foundation. It makes an ideal workshop for building a large boat, a clubhouse or ... chicken house! The other problems can be corrected.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open daily, Monday through Saturday 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you call.

3 Divers Missing

A helicopter from 442 Squadron at Comox today joined coast guard vessels in an air-sea search for three men reported missing Sunday on a scuba diving expedition in the Bowen Island area at the entrance to Howe Sound.

A spokesman for the Rescue Co-ordination Centre in Victoria said the cutters Racer, Rider and Mallard scoured the area through the night, and the Racer was continuing the search today.

The spokesman said Larry Reed, the owner of a 20-foot outboard boat, left a West Vancouver marina about 1 p.m. Sunday with two companions. They were expected to return about 6 p.m.

At the time they set off the weather was calm, he said, but the wind increased during the afternoon poducing choppy sea conditions in the area.

Pioneer To Open New School

A new elementary school will be officially opened at a ceremony Thursday by a descendant of a pioneer family in the Gordon Head area.

Braefoot Elementary will be opened by C. F. Dawson, long-time Saanich resident and descendant of the pioneer Urban family. Mr. Dawson has two sons who are school principals in the Greater Victoria district — Horace at S. J. Willis Junior Secondary and Urban at Monterey Elementary.

The school is located on an 8¾-acre site at 1440 Harrop Road. The total cost was $495,400.

School board officials and department of education representatives will attend the official opening, to be held at the school at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

New Start On Pipe End

Work started today to put a new 200-foot piece of pipe on the end of the Macaulay Point sewage outfall.

The final 200 feet of the 6,100-foot outfall was noticed missing last December. No reason has been given for what happened to the pipe, which has been reported lying nearby.

A derrick and several vessels have moved into position to install the new pipe. The schedule calls for it to be lowered Tuesday and the work completed by Friday but this will depend on weather.

The outfall and feeding trunk line and pumps were built for the Capital Regional Disgrict at a cost of $7.5 million.

Car Driver Only Fair

Kenneth R. Meadows, 4088 Glanford, received multiple injuries when his vehicle collided with the truck about 1:30 a.m.

Truck driver Allan W. Dobie, 24, of Enderby, was not hurt. Two passengers in the truck also escaped injury.

Drivers Needed

Cool-Aid is looking for volunteer drivers to help in its transportation for senior citizens.

Drivers are needed Wednesdays to pick up senior citizens at various rest homes at 1 p.m., take them to the Silver Threads centre in Centennial Square to attend concerts, returning at 3:15 to take them back.

Volunteers are asked to contact Eve at Cool-Aid. The number is 383-1951.

Man Hurt In Crash

A Duncan man is reported in good condition in hospital with injuries he suffered in a car-truck crash near Shawnigan Lake Saturday.

He was the driver of the car that collided with the truck about 1:30 a.m. on the Malahat near the Shawnigan Lake turnoff. The truck driver was unhurt.

Llord's Marionettes Pure Visual Magic

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

For a brief enchanting interlude Sunday, the wizardry of Daniel Llords suspended all of us at the Royal Theatre in once-upon-a-time land.

Llords' International — marionette theatre that is truly one of a kind in the whole world — has performed on two previous occasions with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

But that was a number of years ago. In the meantime solo marionettist Llords has polished his craft to an even finer lustre.

HYPNOTIC BEAUTY

He creates for adult audiences but the hypnotic beauty of his work is certainly not lost on the younger generations.

His specialty — which he calls "concertheatre" — is performance with orchestra in the interpretation of great music.

Out of his quite considerable repertoire he performed Sunday — and will do so again tonight — with Laszlo Gati conducting the Victoria Symphony, Stravinsky's The Firebird and a montage of charming, humorous scenes to Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony.

Unaided he populates his stage with a whole cast of little characters, changes scenes with the speed of light, brings forth fountains and volcanoes.

MANY HANDS

If one did not know differently one would suspect that he possessed at least two extra pairs of hands. As it is, the delicate dexterity and sensitivity of his single pair are a thing at which to marvel.

The only unfortunate aspect of this event is that we humans are not able to pay full attention in two places at once.

One was aware that the orchestra was making excellent music under Gati's baton and one would like to have paid it the honor it deserved of close listening.

But, visually ensnared, this was not possible. At the end one felt like saying, now please, maestro Gati, let us have the music again and by itself.

One was aware of sonorous brass in the Stravinsky and some highly polished moments in the Mendelssohn but detail was lost.

DELIGHTFUL

The program opens delightfully with all four movements of Tchaikovsky's Serenade for Strings. This provides ample opportunity to savor the new fuller string tone which is clearly smoothing and developing toward a genuinely fine ensemble quality.

Although this was his first orchestral work, it is quite clearly the creation of someone with a feeling for instrumentation that is intelligent and original.

There is much richness and color in this brief composition and it embraces some fine dynamic climatic writing as well as a strong melodic instinct.

Industry Must Protect Oil Island Ecology

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oil firms working on Sable Island must ensure minimum damage is done to the island's ecology, Environment Minister Jack Davis said today.

Speaking to the annual western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, he said the public is concerned about the ecological effects of resource development.

"Perhaps the biggest single confrontation we face is far out in the Atlantic on Sable Island. Oil has been found there. It has been found, perhaps in vast quantities, on a little outpost of our far-flung Canadian empire which naturalists would like to think belongs exclusively to the Ipswich Sparrow.

"Disturb the habitat of this 'endangered' species and you're going to be in trouble. Wipe it out and you're going to attract the wrath of people who have never been on this side of the Atlantic Ocean, let alone had an understanding of what the finding of oil offshore can mean to the tens of thousands of Maritimers whose average income places them among the poorest of the poor on this generally-wealthy North American continent of ours."

Even if the province of Nova Scotia is successful in its claim to the mineral rights on Sable Island, Mr. Davis said, his department probably will end up "protecting the rich natural history of the island — the Ipswich Sparrow, thousands of other migratory birds, a few hundred wild horses and a beautiful, fragile and unique sand dune complex."

Mr. Davis said the environment can be protected through industry-government co-operation and enlightened long-range planning by industry.

"What is economically sound for the total community in the long run also is sound from a long-range environmental point of view."

Cadet Week Starts Across Canada

Today marked the start of Cadet Week across Canada.

Each day this week, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., members of three army cadet corps in the Greater Victoria area will man an information booth at Woodward's store in the Mayfair shopping centre.

The corps are the 2136 Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment cadet corps, the 2289 of 5 (B.C.) Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery cadet corps, and the 2483 Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry cadet corps.

RECRUITS SOUGHT

Capt. G. J. Michaux, commanding officer of the artillery cadet corps, reports that Cadet Week was initiated as the first function of the newly-formed Army Cadet League of Canada.

All three corps are looking for recruits, aged 13 to 18, and are beginning another training year.

Also enrolling new recruits is the Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, which is sponsored by the Navy League of Canada and parades at 7 p.m. Tuesday and Fridays at the league's headquarters on Robert.

The Canadian Scottish and field battery corps parade at the Bay Street Armory at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Fridays and the Patricias parade at the same time Tuesdays and Fridays at Work Point.

$3,000 Raised

DUNCAN — One hundred and three people who participated in a 12-mile walkathon Saturday raised $3,000 for the Duncan Christian School.

The money, which was raised by 78 pupils from the school as well as their friends and parents, will be used for construction on the school, sports equipment and research books for the school library.

TOP FISH 10 LBS.

COWICHAN BAY — Fred Schiller of Duncan placed first in the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's 10th annual President's Derby Sunday with his catch of 10:12.

Other winners of the derby, which was open to all directors who worked on the club's coho derby Thanksgiving weekend, were Vivian Purney with a 9:12 catch and Mrs. William Blacklock with a 7:12 salmon.

NFLD. POLITICS STILL RUN DEEP

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Many things are changing in this old island province, but politics still run as deep as the codfish on the Grand Banks.

The two-stacker coastal schooners have all but disappeared, a centralization program is depopulating many of the tiny outports and there's hair and bellbottoms on St. John's Water Street.

But the 108 candidates campaigning for Newfoundland's 42-seat legislature in the province's seventh general election foundland political life haven't changed a bit.

Premier Joseph Smallwood, who hopes the voters won't exchange him for somebody new on Thursday, was in Come by Chance earlier this week when an elderly man said:

"I've been a Liberal since Mr. Squires, sir, and I still am, sir," referring to the pre-Confederation premier, Sir Richard Squires, one of Mr. Smallwood's political heroes.

The premier, in office since Confederation 22 years ago, frequently reaches back to the Squires era to make a point in this 1971 campaign.

The opposition Progressive Conservatives and New Democratic Party go back, too — to the Liberal record since 1949 — and say it's time for change.

Tories to Fight At Grassroots

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) — When Frank Duff Moores won a provincial Progressive Conservative leadership race in May, 1970, his sole aim was to become premier of Newfoundland.

As he saw it, the way to defeat Premier Joseph Smallwood in a provincial election was to build a grass-roots bulwark against the Liberal party, which had remained in power through the six elections since Confederation in 1949.

Mr. Moores, 38, submerged himself in the work of party organization.

RANDOM REQUESTS

By the time Mr. Smallwood announced Oct. 6 that a provincial election would be held Oct. 28 Conservative candidates had been chosen by nominating conventions in all 41 electoral districts, including Harbour Main which returns two members.

Conservatives chose many of their 38 candidates in the last election Sept. 8, 1966 by random requests.

"The time has come," Mr. Moores said in an interview here as he prepared for a campaign speech.

He was repeating a phrase that has become his party's campaign slogan.

The slogan is being carried into the 1,499 poll areas by an estimated 17,000 volunteer workers.

BORN RICH

Mr. Moores is the first Conservative candidate to contest Humber West since 1959. Mayor Noel Murphy of Corner Brook is his Liberal opponent.

The district splits Corner Brook with Humber East.

Mr. Smallwood, who defeated a New Democratic Party candidate in Humber West in 1966, now is running in Placentia East.

Mr. Moores was born into better circumstances than many Newfoundlanders of his time and his financial independence was used by Premier Smallwood as a weapon against him in the 1968 federal election.

The son of the late Silas W. Moores, founder of North East Fish Industries Ltd. of Harbour Grace, Nfld., which the family owned until the majority of shares was sold to a British firm six years ago, he was educated at St. Andrew's College, Aurora, Ont.

QUIT STUDIES

Later he enrolled at Boston University at the insistence of his father who wanted him to become a doctor.

After two months he quit university and went to work on a Boston fish pier. The elder Moores then took him into the family business.

Mr. Moores went on to become president and expanded the business from a firm employing 120 persons 20 years ago to one of Newfoundland's largest. At its peak in 1965 the company employed 1,800.

In 1952 he married Dorothy Elizabeth Pain, his high school sweetheart in Aurora. They have seven children.

GALLUP POLL

Youth Program Reaction Mixed

BY THE CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION OF PUBLIC OPINION

In the opinion of young Canadians, for whom the government's experimental Opportunities for Youth program was launched this year, the project has been an outstanding success. Men and women in their 30s and 40s, however, split evenly on both sides of the debate — while among oldsters of 50 and over, it's a clear-cut verdict, of about two-to-one, that the program has not been a success.

On the national average, these contrasts resulted in an almost even break, with 40 per cent calling it a success, and 38 per cent a failure.

That the program has made a decided impact on the taxpayers is shown in the fact that three-quarters of the adults have heard or read something about the Opportunities for Youth project. It is these Canadians who were asked to give a verdict on the program's performance. The levels of awareness run fairly closely through all age groups.

> "As you may know, the federal government has spent about $25 million on an experimental Opportunities for Youth program, to provide projects across Canada for young people. Do you happen to have heard of this program or not?"

	No, Have Not Heard	Yes, Have Heard
NATIONAL	25%	75%
18 - 29 years	26	74
30 - 39 years	32	68
40 - 49 years	20	80
50, and over	24	76

To those who had heard of Opportunities for Youth, a second question was asked:

In general do you think this program has been a success or not?"

The response reveals the high ratio of approval among the young people, with a complete reversal of opinion among those who are 50 or over, and the divided attitudes among the middle ages.

	Success	Not a Success	Undecided
NATIONAL	40%	38%	22%
18 - 29 years	57	22	21
30 - 39 years	38	38	24
40 - 49 years	37	35	28
50 and over	27	55	18

Rapid Transit Recommended

VANCOUVER (CP) — A regional transportation authority and a several-stage implementation of rapid transit through the lower mainland over 20 years are recommended in a report to the Greater Vancouver Regional District.

After a year of study, including public hearings on the subject, the board's transportation subcommittee felt that a $300 million, 24-mile subway system proposed last year to city council was premature and would benefit Vancouver much more than outlying regions.

The report recommends taking over B.C. Hydro's bus system from the Crown corporation. The province has promised to pay about $4 million annually toward its operation.

First steps in improving transit would be the addition of 120 buses to extend bus service into outlying areas, such as Surrey and Coquitlam, and stepped-up service in Vancouver.

Several years later, "light rapid transit" consisting of commuter trains carrying 15,000 to 20,000 people an hour could also go into service, along B.C. Hydro's present False Creek-Marpole-Richmond railway tracks, and the line parallelling Kingsway which ends in New Westminster.

Finally, in 15 to 20 years, the train service would be upgraded to carry 30,000 to 40,000 persons an hour. The report recommends against rapid transit until the work force in Vancouver's downtown — now about 92,000 — totals 125,000 or 130,000, probably by the late 1980s.

King's Assassin 'Expected Pardon'

CHICAGO (AP) — James Earl Ray allowed himself to be capured and sentenced for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King because he expected to receive a presidential pardon from George C. Wallace, Ray's former lawyer claims.

Percy Foreman, who was Ray's attorney when he pleaded guilty without a trial to the murder charge, said Ray expected the Alabama governor would be elected president in 1968 and that Wallace would grant him a pardon.

Ray, who has since hired new attorneys, has argued in petitions for a trial that it was Foreman who promised he would be able to get Ray a pardon if he pleaded guilty.

Ray said Foreman told him he knew who the next governor of Tennessee would be and that Foreman would be able to get the pardon through him within two years.

"He figured, in his simple mind, that everything is black and white," Foreman said in an interview.

A new team of lawyers is currently appealing Ray's sentence before the Tennessee Appeals Court. Past petitions for a trial on the ground Ray was misled by Foreman have been turned down.

"As long as he can keep being a name and not a number, he's going to keep trying appeals," Foreman said.

Foreman said Ray told him he was surprised that the FBI only found three fingerprints on the murder weapon since he had purposely covered the rifle with prints.

"He never would have been caught if he hadn't wanted to be. He wanted the world to know that he had killed Martin Luther King."

Weapons Seized In Toronto Raids

Kill-Kosygin Attempt Feared

By RON SUDLOW

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police, who carried out weapons raids on 18 Toronto homes and arrested two men Sunday, continued stringent security measures today to protect visiting Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Police were stationed at almost every intersection and on every overpass this morning as the Kosygin motorcade left the hotel and drove 10 miles east to Pickering.

Mr. Kosygin, accompanied by Soviet ambassador Mirosh Nichenko, toured Ontario Hydro's $746 million nuclear generating plant there.

The raids Sunday followed tips to police that an attempt would be made on Mr. Kosygin's life. Weapons seized included a machine gun, some M1 semi automatic U.S. Army rifles, knives and bayonets. Some of the guns were loaded.

Gerald Doyle, 18, was charged with possession of a restricted weapon and possession of an offensive weapon. Kenneth Wilson, 27, was charged with one count of possession of an explosive substance, two charges of possession of restricted weapons and one count of possession of stolen goods valued at more than $50.

Toronto Police Chief Harold Adamson, who described the raids as the stiffest security measures here in recent years, said the action was taken "within the law for the safety of all — the safety of the visit as well as the public."

Chief Adamson said he was concerned about demonstrations planned by about 50,000 area Jews, Hungarians, Czechoslovaks and Ukrainians. He feared a "fanatical fringe" might try to incite trouble.

Special teams of police officers have been studying files to become familiar with known anti-Communist agitators. The science centre, normally open to the public, will be closed today.

Kosygin Made Honorary Chief, p. 3
K's Interpreter, p. 19

SENATOR TOURS TOO

Mr. Kosygin, hatless and smiling, looked at a scale model of the plant before starting the tour, greeted various plant executives and signed a guestbook. He was accompanied by Senator Paul Martin.

Tight security was in evidence Sunday night when Mr. Kosygin's plane from Edmonton landed in a wind-whipped rainstorm. Police cordoned off a section of Toronto International Airport prior to his arrival, and reporters covering the event were checked at least twice for accreditation and identification.

Police also kept the 67-year-old leader well away from about 200 demonstrators at the Inn on the Park, where Mr. Kosygin occupied a $160-a-day suite Sunday night. He was to occupy the same suite — carpeted with deep shag rugs and equipped with two 26-inch color television sets —

—BREZHNEV WOOS PARIS

PARIS (UPI) — Smiling and relaxed on his first visit to a Western country, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev said today he hoped to "clean up the dust of the cold war."

He made the statement in reply to President Georges Pompidou's speech of welcome at the Elysee presidential palace barely an hour after arriving from Moscow for a heavily-guarded six-day official visit.

Brezhnev said, "The Soviet Union has a sincere desire" to improve relations with the West. He said this was in the interest of both the Soviet Union and France and called for "mutual co-operation in Europe and of the peoples of the world."

Pompidou also called for good relations between Paris and Moscow as "a necessary element and probably essential to the security of Europe."

Brezhnev, accompanied by his wife and a half-dozen top Kremlin officials, flew into Paris and the heaviest security ever mobilized in France for a foreign leader.

U.S. Surcharge 'Changes Rules'

OTTAWA (UPI) — The U.S. imposition of a 10-per-cent import surcharge has "unilaterally changed the rules" for bilateral trade, but Canada will not strike any bargains for repeal of the surcharge, according to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

In an interview with the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) taped for weekend release, Sharp said that over the years Canada and the U.S. had worked out rules for bilateral trade.

"Now," he said, "they have unilaterally changed the rules of the game and I consider this to be quite inadmissible. We won't play that way. We have already bargained for access to their markets."

Sharp said that while Canada was willing to help the U.S. with its balance of payments problem, "we are not going to bargain over the surcharge."

"The Canadian government has an interest in the prosperity of the United States, but what we have been asked to do — bargain our way out of this surcharge — is an inadmissible situation," he said.

Sharp also predicted that if the surcharge were to be left on for a year, the U.S. could expect a public outcry from Canadians.

"The United States must realize," he said, "that Canadians resent these measures. They didn't deserve them. Canadians have a strong sense of nationalism . . . and they don't like being pushed about."

Sharp accused the U.S. of "hurting its best friends," since Mexico, which also relies on exports to the U.S., stands to suffer heavily from the surcharge.

PEKING (Reuter) — Members of the U.S. mission headed by President Nixon's envoy, Henry Kissinger, reappeared in Peking today and resumed their talks with Chinese leaders in the capital's Great Hall of the People.

TORONTO (CP) — Most of Bell Canada's telephone operators in Ontario and Quebec remained off their jobs during the weekend as negotiators were starting to tackle money issues in their contract dispute.

India, Pakistan Charge Shelling

In New Delhi, the Pakistani diplomatic mission confirmed Sunday that a large part of its 140-member staff was prepared to return home.

Indian cabinet leaders met today to discuss the reported Pakistani shelling of Agartala, capital of the Indian territory of Tripura, on East Pakistan's border.

A four-man cabinet committee appointed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to administer the nation while she is on a 19-day tour of western nations discussed the shelling of Agartala, but details of the session were not disclosed.

FOUR KILLED

Four persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the shelling during which mortar shells fell in the central part of the city of about 60,000 persons. The casualties were the highest in any incident disclosed by government officials since the start of the recent buildup of Indian and Pakistani troops along the border.

Pakistan's government radio charged today that "Indian artillery" had shelled the town of Comilla Sunday afternoon while people were in the market places, killing 12, wounding 25 and destroying or damaging several houses.

The radio gave the time of the shelling as 4 p.m., which was about four hours before the attack on Agartala. Comilla is located about 25 miles south of Agaratala and about four to five miles inside the East Pakistan border.

RETALIATION

East Pakistani rebel sources in Calcutta, meanwhile, described the shelling of Agartala by Pakistan as a retaliatory move for recent activity in the Comilla district, which borders the town.

Indian military officials in Calcutta said they had no information on the incident in Comilla.

The increased tempo of reports of shellings and casualties came within hours after Mrs. Gandhi left India on a tour seen as an attempt to win greater support for India's position and enlist foreign help.

India's external affairs minister, Sardar Swaran Singh, and other foreign affairs and defence officials met today Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Nikolai Firyubin, who is in New Delhi for what is officially described as "routine" consultations between the two countries.

POLLEN MAY RUN

Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen is expected to announce his candidacy for mayor today at a press conference at 3 p.m.

Pollen said last week he would make a decision over the weekend and make a statement one way or the other.

Pollen's announcement will bring the number of candidates for the chief magistrate's chair to four. They are incumbent Mayor Courtney Haddock, Saanich Ald. Foster Isherwood and "lighthouse philosopher" Bill Scott.

Medical Decisions For Young?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Children's Aid Society is expected to consider tonight a proposal to allow 14-year-olds to decide whether they want to receive medical treatment without their parents' consent.

"There's something to be said for making it easier for young people to get treatment irrespective of their parents' wishes," society president Mrs. Dorothy Beck said Sunday.

"If you can, it's best to respect the wishes of parents. But with some things, especially hepatitis or veneral disease, it's probably a good idea to be able to treat them without any interference."

Mrs. Beck was commenting on a request from the B.C. Hospitals Association that the provincial government allow persons 14 and older to make the final decision on whether they will receive surgery or other treatment.

At present, parents of minors can veto any treatment for their children, including abortions and blood transfusions, unless a doctor judges that the life of the minor is at stake.

Weekend of Violence Kills 6 in N. Ireland

BELFAST (CP) — Northern Ireland's weekend toll of dead civilians stood at six today after police marksmen killed a terrorist and wounded his woman accomplice outside a Belfast night club.

The incident, resembling a gangster movie, happened outside the Celebrity Club, in the fashionable centre of Belfast, just before midnight Sunday night.

Plainclothes police opened fire on two men and a woman hurrying away from the club where they had just left a time bomb in the lobby. One of the men fell dying, the woman collapsed wounded and the second man ran off.

Shortly afterwards the bomb exploded, sending the club up in flames but not before an army bomb disposal squad managed to get clear and club members had scrambled to safety through a back window.

SISTERS KILLED

It was the culmination of Ulster's worst weekend of violence in two months, bringing the death toll to 133 in more than two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

In the preceding 48 hours, troops shot dead two sisters in a car racing past army checkpoints in Belfast and killed three men suspected of trying to rob a bank, or bomb it, at Newry, by the border with the Irish Republic.

The deaths of the two women, who the army said were in a car from which shots were being fired at the troops, provoked bitter accusations by republicans and civil rights leaders against the army's methods and sparked off a series of violent incidents in Belfast.

Worse violence broke out in Newry Sunday after three men were shot and killed by troops who saw them apparently trying to carry out a robbery at a bank. The army said the men refused to stop after they were challenged, and the troops opened fire.

A day of rioting in Newry followed, and Sunday night the 30-foot flames of a blazing timber yard illuminated a cortege of more than 1,000 mourners following the coffin of one of the men, 19-year-old Sean Ruddy, through the rubble-strewn streets.

Similar processions followed the bodies of the two other men from the funeral parlor to their homes. Armed soldiers stood at every street corner with guns at the ready as the mourners, four or six abreast, marched past.

QUESTION MAN

Early today the woman shot down outside Belfast's Celebrity Club was in hospital seriously wounded. A man detained near the scene of the club bombing was being questioned by police.

Snipers wounded five soldiers Sunday.

A policeman was shot in the head and critically wounded early today answering a knock on the door at his home.

In Newry, Bernadette Devlin, civil rights leader and a member of the British Parliament, told an angry crowd near the spot where the three suspected bank attackers were shot: "These British troops are murderers. The only time soldiers have the

McCARTHY SEEMS SET TO TRY FOR PRESIDENT

ST. PAUL (WP) — Eugene McCarthy has written a letter to supporters that is tantamount to a formal announcement of his candidacy for president.

"I'm enlarging my staff and intend to establish very soon a formal campiagn committee," says one passage in the letter, which is to be mailed on Tuesday.

The letter says one key concern "is in an active and positive effort to secure convention delegates with views similar to ours."

And it adds: "This will require involvement in politics in non-primary states, in those states that have quasi-primaries and those states that have full and open primaries," the former Minnesota senator said.

A source said the letter will be mailed to several hundred thousand 1968 supporters and other "friends" acquired since McCarthy's Democratic presidential campaign then.

The other ends with these words: "The party that wins the presidency in 1972 must stand for something. The election should not be settled by default, or choice of the better of two marginal alternatives."

Peking-Taiwan Racing Neck and Neck at UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Diplomats said the race was still neck and neck today, as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an important question requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the Americans figured they had a 58-to-57 or 59-to-57 advantage with more favorable votes possible.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believe the voting would start Tuesday.

The important question resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain to get a majority in the assembly but not a two-thirds majority.

The Albanian resolution was entitled to be voted on first because it was submitted first. But the United States had a motion pending to give its resolution priority.

The U.S. also was pushing a dual-representation resolution to offer both the Communists and the Nationalists seats in the assembly and offer the Communists the Chinese seat on the Security Council.

Peking has said repeatedly that it would have nothing to do with the United Nations as long as the Nationalists remain in it. Their supporters in the world organization say they mean it, but the Americans say there is no way to tell without trying them out.

The U.S. made one gain Sunday when officials in Rome said Italy would vote for the Albanian resolution but would abstain from the vote on the important question resolution. Many observers had believed Italy would vote against it.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would vote for the U.S. resolution but this had been generally expected.

The 23 sponsors of the Albanian resolution planned a last-minute strategy session today to discuss whether, in case their resolution failed, a proposal should be put in to make the American dual-representation resolution an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority.

Popularity Of Nixon Up

WASHINGTON (CP) — With the United States presidential election little more than a year off, President Nixon might be forgiven if he secretly wished the test would come next month instead of November, 1972.

He's in fighting form, demonstrating a greater mastery over events than probably any time in his presidency. The polls reflect a substantial increase in his popularity.

Equally important, the Democratic party is virtually leaderless, poor by comparison with the well-financed Republicans, and hard-pressed in its search for popular election issues. And it faces a possibly nasty battle over the party presidential nomination at next summer's convention.

Given the vagaries of a capricious political situation, all this could change in a year. But as of today Nixon is sitting pretty.

Sometimes called the "unseen president," Nixon of late has changed form, being visibly in control of affairs, appearing frequently on radio and television, and making public appearances in a number of states where votes are vital to his re-election.

'GAME PLAN'

To use one of his favorite terms, the whole thing is said to be part of his "game plan" — a design to bring decisive action on a number of fronts in the final year of his four-year term.

Throughout the two principal slogans have been "A full generating of peace" and "Prosperity without war."

To this end, the turnabout on China policy and his planned visit to Peking with a follow-up trip to Moscow have attracted general popular support.

In dealing with the twin devils of inflation and unemployment he and his free-wheeling treasury secretary, John B. Connally, have imposed strong medicine.

While labor is annoyed by the wage freeze and many thoughtful Americans are concerned that the 10-per-cent import surcharge will bring retaliation or at least an era of ill-will from U.S. trading partners, it seems that the majority of Americans are sympathetic to the way Nixon is dealing with this national crisis.

In another field, Nixon recently pressured Japan and some other countires into agreeing to limit textile exports to the U.S. This fulfilled a three-year-old election promise to the hard-pressed textile industries of the U.S. south.

HAS PROBLEMS

That is not to suggest Nixon is without remaining serious problems.

For a start, the overseas journeys could turn out to be disappointing. And if the economic situation stubbornly refuses to budge, it would reflect on him.

He got practically no Negro support in his 1968 election. So far there is little or no evidence that he has succeeded notably in winning over the black vote or that of other important minorities, such as the Mexican-Americans.

Also, the farm industry, particuarly in the traditionally-Republican Midwest, is hard-pressed and showing growing discontent.

In 1972, the youth between 18 and 21 years will get the vote for the first time and some experts have suggested the young could defeat him in a close vote. Others, however, suggest that the Democrats are mistaken in their belief that they can take the youthful voters for granted.

A number of studies have indicated that voter-registration among these new voters has been low so far.

In other words, many may not vote for anyone and that would hurt the Democrats more than Nixon.

Barbershop Singers Needed

The Squires — the local branch of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America — are holding auditions at the K-Mart shopping centre Friday for new members.

A spokesman said auditions will begin at 9:15 p.m. in the shopping centre mall. The Squires currently have 35 members and sing at hospitals and conventions.

The S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. has 33,000 members in 700 chapters across the continent.

In Dublin, capital of the Irish Republic, about 800 demonstrators marched to the British embassy Sunday night shouting for an end to "murderous tactics of the British army in Northern Ireland."

SWEAR REVENGE

The Irish Republican Army swore to avenge the weekend deaths with "a life for a life." At a meeting in Dublin, the IRA chief of staff, Sean MacStiofain, told a cheering crowd the underground army was launching a final phase "more intensive than anything so far."

Ruari O'Bradaigh, president of Sin Fein, the IRA's political branch, said the movement would force the British army to withdraw from Northern Ireland by bringing down the Ulster Parliament and making the country "ungovernable."

Named a vice-president of the Sinn Fein was David O'Connell, 33, who is wanted by British and Dutch police in connection with three tons of Czechoslovak arms seized Sept. 16 at Amsterdam. Authorities said the weapons were intended for the IRA.

O'Connell told Dublin's Irish Times that he had been in Eastern Europe to purchase rocket launchers, machine-guns and rifles for the IRA.

Meanwhile, British police arrested two Irish sailors from the crew of the Queen Elizabeth II. They had failed to return to the liner after she docked in Ireland last week and landed six suitcases in which were found arms smuggled from New York.

AUTHOR Philip Wylie died today in Miami at 69. His novels included Generation of Vipers and Opus 21 and his main themes were that Canadian males are brought up by females at home and in school and are dominated by them throughout life. He also attacked the advertising industry, saying it was sex-oriented. (AP Wirephoto)

THE WEATHER

An extensive cloud deck covered all areas of the forecast district early this morning. Rain is general over the entire coast with rain or wet snow over the central interior. Several Pacific disturbances moving rapidly eastward toward the Queen Charlotte islands are causing this poor weather.

The last in the series was about 200 miles off the southern tip of the Charlottes at forecast time and will cross the central interior today and into Alberta by tomorrow morning.

The associated frontal system will move southeastward across southern B.C. today and tonight and out of the province by noon tomorrow. Clearing behind the system will occur over the north coast on Tuesday but cloud and showers are forecast over the south coast and all sections of the interior.

tonight. His departure to Cuba was set back to 8 a.m. Tuesday from 10 p.m. tonight.

The demonstrators — representing the Canadian Jewish Congress, the Jewish Defence League, the right-wing Edmund Burke Society and a number of ethnic organizations — gathered about four hours before Mr. Kosygin's arrival.

They sang Jewish songs and chanted "One, two, three, four, open up the iron door."

Others carried signs saying "Let my people go," "Bulgaria for the Bulgarians" and "Kosygin go home."

Reporters covering the demonstration had difficulty returning to the hotel despite their press credentials. Others were frisked.

Everybody who entered the hotel was subjected to a search of his car. Police maintained a vigil throughout the nigt.

It was an eventful weekend for Mr. Kosygin in Western Canada. After leaving Vancouver Sunday morning, he made a five-hour stop in Edmonton where he picked up the title of Chief Golden Eagle, toured a nickel refinery and accepted a gift of an 85-pound musk ox calf named Little Ivor.

GIFT FROM CHILDREN

Little Ivor didn't make it to the government house luncheon with Premier Peter Lougheed. The animal was said to be a little out of sorts after being separated from his mother on Saturday but will be shipped by air to the Soviet capital in a few days.

Bus Accident

MACKENZIE — Five people were treated for minor injuries and released Sunday after a bus accident in the Pine Pass area of the Hart highway about 80 miles north of Prince George. The bus, bound for Prince George from Dawson Creek, left the highway, described by RCMP as very slippery. Motorists have been warned to avoid the pass.

House Wrecked

VANCOUVER — A 40-year-old man has been held under the Mental Health Act after an incident in which a rooming house was wrecked. House-owner Henry Ostrowski told police the man shattered windows and mirrors, smashed toilets and tore out sinks before he could be stopped. Damage to the property has been estimated at a minimum of $4,000.

Teach-ins Urged

PRINCE GEORGE — Students opposed to the planned U.S. nuclear blast in the Aleutians were urged at the weekend by Dorothy Stowe of the Don't Make A Wave committee to organize teach-ins on possible effects of the blast. She spoke to about 400 persons at a rally organized by high-school students.

Crash Toll Rises

NORTH VANCOUVER — Carl W. Williams, 27, of North Vancouver, died in hospital at the weekend, bringing to five the death toll in an accident at the north end of the Second Narrows bridge across Vancouver harbor. The accident occurred when a convertible car slammed into a concrete divider at the north end of the bridge. RCMP said the barrier, consisting of sand-filled drums of a plastic-type material, was intended to slow down any vehicle hitting it and keep the vehicle from going over onto an embankment below the highway.

True Confession Of a Ski Cheat

The president and officers of the newly-formed Cowichan Valley Ski Club who call themselves the Skyliners have invited my wife and me to their inaugural week-end on the Forbidden Plateau and I'd be a mighty poor sport if I refused.

Clearly, the boys and girls have seen through my little joke of a couple of weeks ago when, succumbing to every newspaperman's secret yearning to be a writer of fiction, I concocted an entirely imaginary account of an adventure on the higher slopes of the Alps. They're determined, obviously, to have the last laugh. Darned if I don't think I owe it to them.

In fact, I might as well make a clean breast of the whole fraud right now and freely confess that, all my life, I have been The Ski Cheat of the Western World. There! It's out!

It all began, as a small boy, when I was knee-high to a Gelandesprung. My father, chagrined at my habit of lying about the house reading Nietzsche, Schopenhauer, Burt L. Standish and illustrated medical books, purchased a pair of enormous planks identified as cross-country skis, buckled me into them and shoved me through the door in a northerly direction.

Soon I'd joined a ski club and, to the delight of my parents, spent nearly every weekend in the hills or, to be more specific, hard by the stove in the juniors' cabin where I quickly learned to smoke, drink and cheat at cards.

"They're making a man of my boy," my father would say proudly when I sloped home on Sunday night, flushed with my tiny hangover and the 48-hour barbecue effect of the stove.

If he'd ever sat in on our little discussion groups, which were devoted entirely to basic biology, he'd have been surprised to know how right he was.

I soon discovered that I loved every part of skiing except the part where you actually slide on the snow. This has shaped my single-minded approach to the sport ever since. I mastered the formula of Skiing Without Tears, sneaky little weasel that I was.

Now, after 30-odd years of it, I look back on skiing in the form of a montage in which figure prominently wide, hot fireplaces and tall, hot rums, all-night poker sessions, dancing in slippers by candlelight, marvellous vistas of winter playgrounds seen through frosted, weather-proof windows, harmonizing around the fire to the accompaniment of accordions and all sorts of splendid hot rums.

Indeed, the very best ski holiday I ever remember was just exactly like that. My wife and I had gone to Timberline Lodge on Mount Hood to celebrate our 20th wedding anniversary. On our very first day we elected to run the slope called The Miracle Mile and within the space of 20 minutes two things happened. One: My wife disappeared into the machinery at the top of the tow and the whole operation was shut down while she was extricated from the gears. Two: My wife then sprained her ankle half way down the hill and had to be rescued by a patrol, strapped in a toboggan, which then overturned, spraining her other ankle.

This, very successfully, got the skiing nicely out of the way and we had a wonderful week, lying in bed until noon, playing Chinese Checkers, and engaging in the apres-ski festivities each night, all without the necessity of going out into the cold.

No sport creates such congenial camaraderie. This is due in part to the wardrobe which is at once informal and kind of heroic. The white slopes outside will separate the men from the boys, but in the lodge, itself, before the cheery log fire (and with the hot rums in hand) every man has the appearance of having just Schussed the Widow's Leap.

The actual skiing part, as I say, never intrigued me. I made the discovery very early in my career that skiing has a number of insurmountable drawbacks.

It is, for obvious reasons, cold. There is a great deal of falling down and getting up, which never appealed to me very much. There's an awful lot of work involved in it for the excitement of risking a compound fracture. It was just one of those things, like weight-lifting, that seemed, from the beginning, foreign to my delicate nature.

How I reconciled my repugnance for the outdoor part with my love of the indoor part is a saga of sheer chicanery.

Part of my secret lies in mastering the gentle slope which leads away from the chalet, any chalet. I went to considerable pains to establish myself as the lone skier, eager to set off for the higher slopes unfettered by lesser mortals. It is my practice to make a great show of preparedness, waxing my skis, donning my considerable equipment and then standing theatrically outside the lodge, flexing my knees and leaning on my poles. I do this terribly well if I say so myself.

Then, with a great shout of "Ski Heil!" I coast down the four-degree incline, skid around the bend and fall down and laugh, laugh, laugh. By the time I've recovered my wind they'll all be gone and I can walk back and be warm all day.

Another device, which must be used sparingly, is The Limp. A rueful description of how you sprained a fibula while trying to perfect a reverse Christiana, accompanied by a stoic gritting of the teeth as you hobble to the bar, will generally do the trick.

I will elaborate on all this for the benefit of the Skyliners when the weekend comes unless, as I suspect, 90 percent of the membership are up to the same game themselves.

Ask the Times

Q: After a recent air trip to Hawaii and England—we found many films in our baggage had turned out blank. Other people have told us they have had the same experience, and that this is due to airlines x-raying passengers and their baggage, which damages the film. Is this correct? — M.H.

A: An Air Canada spokesman said such complaints are received from time to time, but there is no substance to them. Those airlines using screening devices, he said, have magnetically-operated metal-detectors which could not possibly damage films. The official said it would be completely impractical to attempt to x-ray passengers and their baggage.

Q: The world "waffle" frequently appears in news items dealing with the New Democratic Party. What is the full title of the group and what does the name stand for? W.R.C.

A: The Waffle, this is its full title, is a group of left wing activities within the NDP party which began coming into prominence after the publication of a manifesto by Professor Melville Watkins of the University of Toronto and James Laxer, a history lecturer at Queen's University. To waffle means to equivocate and the group, originally, were determined not to waffle. The name began as something of a joke — but the group decided to stay with it.

Weekend Fire Destroys Seamen's Club Building

Still smouldering this morning, the Club 44 building at CFB Esquimalt was completely gutted this weekend by fire which broke out Sunday morning.

Officials in the base comptroller's office said they were unable to give an estimate of the loss today until a complete inventory has been made. The building was used as a club for leading seamen and corporals.

The fire was discovered about 10:20 a.m. Sunday by the club's president, LS Gordon Kimmett.

BOILER ROOM

Believed to have started in the boiler room, the fire spread rapidly until flames were shooting through the roof.

Although the fire was contained it took four rigs, two from the dockyard, one from Belmont and one from Esquimalt, to bring the blaze under control.

Built in 1942, the building was double-walled and insulated.

The dockyard firemen's stock of air canisters was depleted as the crews worked for hours to subdue the flames. Extra ones had to be rushed from Belmont.

Fire rigs had to be called out twice in the afternoon to answer two other alarms, one of them false.

GREASE FIRE

An Esquimalt crew raced to the dockyard to put out a grease fire that started in the galley of the destroyer-escort HMCS Gatineau at 2 p.m.

One of the dockyard rigs was sent to Work Point at 4 p.m. when another alarm was turned in. Reaching the Work Point barracks they found a failure in the electrical alarm system which triggered the alarm had been repaired.

A board of inquiry has been ordered to investigate the Club 44 fire and will report its findings to Rear-Admiral Richard Leir, commander of Maritime Command Pacific.

LOCAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

Camsell, Ready and Quadra in port; Douglas en route to Quatsino Narrows, Racer and Rider in Sand Heads patrol area. Vancouver on Station Papa.

Brothers, Board To Meet Today

The entire Campbell River school board was to meet Education Minister Donald Brothers this afternoon here. But it is unlikely the delegation will make headway in winning back accreditation for Campbell River Senior Secondary.

'NO COMMENT'

J. R. Meredith, superintendent of instructional services for the department of education, had "no comment" to make on the accreditation withdrawal, which drew charges of "politics" from principal J. A. Young and protests from teachers, trustees, parents and students in Campbell River.

Meredith, who has been out of town and unavailable for comment since his notice of accreditation withdrawal became public two weeks ago, did say that it is "not normal" for a school to get its accreditation back within the same year it was withdrawn.

Asked if the school could get accreditation back as soon as it cleared up department complaints against it, Meredith said that it is normal for accreditation to be restored after a year or even more.

In reply to charges that the department in this case violated its own policy of giving a school at least two years' notice before withdrawal, Meredith said "no comment."

Campbell River Senior Secondary, which has drawn the attention of educators throughout Canada for its free approach to learning, lost its accreditation four months after the first warning.

Young commented this morning that "the whole thing is preposterous. How do you get around bureaucrats like Meredith who are not accountable to the public?"

14 COMPLAINTS

The department took away accreditation because of 14 complaints, which included failure to hold routine departmental testing, lack of clear policy in testing and promotion procedures, and slightly below average academic performance on the part of graduating sturents.

Young brushed these complaints aside as picayune.

Accreditation withdrawal means that a high school can no longer recommend Grade 12 students for university entrance and that all must now write final department

Needy Enjoy Surplus From Cool-Aid Farm

Victoria Cool-Aid's three-acre farm in Saanich was so productive that the group donated leftover vegetables to poor people and charitable organizations, staff worker Rick Stamford said today.

Stamford co-ordinated work at the Saanich farm with the help of other staff workers Benny Quay and Ernie Seedhouse. Total farm expenses this summer came to $8,226, Stamford said in his report on the project.

Financing came from the federal Opportunities for Youth program. Stamford said Cool-Aid intends to work the land again next summer.

Farm produce fed young people who stayed at Cool-Aid's hostels in Victoria. Young transients were hired for one day in groups of five to work the farm. They received $8 a day.

Stamford's report said this works project resulted in a large decrease in the number of young people going to Victoria's welfare department to get transportation money off the Island.

The OFY grant also paid for installation of a water line, irrigation system fittings, seed, fertilizer, tools and field cultivation.

The land was leased from Saanich for a nominal $1 a year. Stamford said many Greater Victoria residents donated time and equipment as well as technical know-how during the early stages of the project.

Cool-Aid grew only organic vegetables. Produce included peas, corn, soybeans, cabbage and beans. Only natural fertilizers were used.

"The most important benefit from the OFY program was the chance to organize a project and take the responsibility for it. Working close to the government allowed a greater understanding on our part of the complexity involved with such large-scale organizing," Stamford said.

CUPE Talks Resume

Negotiations will resume next week between three Victoria private hospitals and the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The negotiations for renewal of existing collective agreements also involve Simon Fraser Private Hospital in Prince George.

While no details were disclosed, CUPE staff representative Alex Markides said employees voted 96 per cent to reject the first offer by the managements.

Members of the same union have been on strike at Sandringham Private Hospital for almost 13 months seeking a first contract.

Pepin to Head Tourism Meeting

Federal trade minister Jean-Luc Pepin will be chairman of the federal-provincial tourism concerence this week in Victoria, Ottawa confirmed today.

The conference, which opens tomorrow and will run through to Thursday, is being held in Victoria to honor B.C.'s centennial year after joining Confederation.

Government's as well as representatives from all parts of the $1.2 billion a year tourist industry will attend the conference.

Pepin estimates that by 1980 the tourist business in Canada will provide an income for the country of $3.5 billion, a press release says.

Aliens Possible On Voters Lists

But it would be illegal for them to vote, even if they are on the list, because they do not meet the requirment that voters must be Canadian citizens or British subjects.

Other requirements include being 19 years or older and for non-property owners, residence for at least six months in the municipality.

Saanich clerk and returning officer Gordon Hayward does not believe the possibility of aliens getting on to the voters list is much of a problem.

"To my personal knowledge, I don't know of anyone not qualified who voted and I don't really believe it is a problem," he said.

Victoria clerk and returning officer Morran Waller said "we can't tell" if it is a problem.

The bulk of the voters list comprises property owners and this information comes from the land registry office.

Both Hayward and Waller said land registry used to supply citizenship information with property registration, but this has been discontinued.

Hayward said because it is possible for the names of aliens to appear on the voters list this "does not make it right for them to vote and they shouldn't."

He said such persons could be challenged at the polling station and the clerk can demand proof of citizenship.

Soviet Seaman in Jail

A Russian seaman who jumped ship in Nanaimo last week will go before a department of immigration inquiry this afternoon at Victoria city jail.

"The first thing we have to find out is whether he is seeking political asylum or is just a deserter," Douglas Cook, district administrator, said today.

The seaman, Andrei Vlasov, 33, an engine room motor man with the Russian freighter Dzhurma, was being escorted from Nanaimo late this morning by RCMP who have held him since he turned himself in on Friday after the freighter left at noon that day.

A lawyer will be made available to Vlasov this afternoon, Cook said. The proceedings will decide, depending on final approval from the federal immigration minister, whether the man will be deported or allowed to stay. Meanwhile, Vlasov remains in custody.

Vlasov is understood to have told the RCMP in Nanaimo that he is seeking political asylum.

He jumped ship on Thursday and hid overnight in bushes before going to a Dairy Queen in Nanaimo in the evening and asking the attendant to phone "police" the only word in English he appeared to know.

The freighter, which was loading logs for Japanese ports, delayed its scheduled departure Thursday night until Friday noon.

Songhees Get $6,300 From Fund

Songhees Indian band has received a total of $6,300 from the provincial First Citizens' Fund, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said today.

The money will be used for recreation and nursery school expenses. Campbell is chairman of the First Citizens' Fund advisory committee.

He also announced that the Becher Bay Indian band has received $9,000 for operating expenses at their marina. The grants were made following a committee meeting Oct. 13, Campbell said.

The John Howard society of Vancouver Island received a grant of $10,110 for an Indian court worker, and a similar grant went to the John Howard society in Vancouver. More than $220,000 was distributed to 36 bands, individuals or societies.

Uniform Ambulances Urged

A regional ambulance service that would offer all Greater Victoria residents the quality of equipment that only Saanich residents now receive has been called for by the B.C. Medical Association.

Saanich municipality ambulance is specially equipped and staffed to resuscitate persons overcome by heart attack.

"The fact is that this care is available only to those persons in Greater Victoria who happen to live in Saanich," said the report by the traffic and safety committee of the BCMA, which is under the chairmanship of Dr. Peter Ransford of Victoria.

The report also said that "while in isolated instances the ambulance services may have improved, taken over-all there is still much room for improvement."

The Saanich ambulance has a defibrillator that is used to restore heart beats and a radio that transmits cardiograms of patients to the Royal Jubilee Hospital before the ambulance arrives at the emergency ward.

The attendants are also trained to inject drugs if it is decided by the service's medical consultant.

UVIC STAFF GIVES $3,000 TO APPEAL

Early returns from the United Appeal canvass among University of Victoria staff are pleasing campaign chairman Eric Charman.

Charman said today the canvass only started Friday but the total, with 58 returns in, already exceeds the $3,000 mark.

"That's over $50 apiece so far, a fairly hefty increase on the university average last year," he said.

Total university staff including faculty, secretarial and outside workers is nearly 1,000.

Despite this pleasing aspect of the campaign, Charman said there must be a substantial increase in employees' contributions on the payroll deduction system if the drive is to meet its $758,723 target.

The weekend total was $348,500, or about 46 per cent of the goal.

Anyone wanting to have donations collected should telephone the United Appeal office at 385-6708 or Charman's office at 385-9765.

Donations may also be left at the Appeal office at 1951 Cook or at Charman's office at 608 Broughton.

Weapons Seized In Toronto Raids

Kill-Kosygin Attempt Feared

By RON SUDLOW

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police, who carried out weapons raids on 18 Toronto homes and arrested two men Sunday, continued stringent security measures today to protect visiting Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Police were stationed at almost every intersection and on every overpass this morning as the Kosygin motorcade left the hotel and drove 10 miles east to Pickering.

Mr. Kosygin, accompanied by Soviet ambassador Miroshi Nichenko, toured Ontario Hydro's $746 million nuclear generating plant there.

The raids Sunday followed tips to police that an attempt would be made on Mr. Kosygin's life. Weapons seized included a machine gun, some M1 semi automatic U.S. Army rifles, knives and bayonets. Some of the guns were loaded.

Gerald Doyle, 18, was charged with possession of a restricted weapon and possession of an offensive weapon. Kenneth Wilson, 27, was charged with one count of possession of an explosive substance, two charges of possession of restricted weapons and one count of possession of stolen goods valued at more than $50.

Toronto Police Chief Harold Adamson, who described the raids as the stiffest security measures here in recent years, said the action was taken "within the law for the safety of all — the safety of the visit as well as the public."

Chief Adamson said he was concerned about demonstrations planned by about 50,000 area Jews, Hungarians, Czechoslovaks and Ukrainians. He feared a "fanatical fringe" might try to incite trouble.

Special teams of police officers have been studying files to become familiar with known anti-Communist agitators. The science centre, normally open to the public, will be closed today.

SENATOR TOURS TOO

Mr. Kosygin, hatless and smiling, looked at a scale model of the plant before starting the tour, greeted various plant executives and signed a guestbook. He was accompanied by Senator Paul Martin.

Tight security was in evidence Sunday night when Mr. Kosygin's plane from Edmonton landed in a wind-whipped rainstorm. Police cordoned off a section of Toronto International Airport prior to his arrival, and reporters covering the event were checked at least twice for accreditation and identification.

Police also kept the 67-year-old leader well away from about 200 demonstrators at the Inn on the Park, where Mr. Kosygin occupied a $160-a-day suite Sunday night. He was to occupy the same suite — carpeted with deep shag rugs and equipped with two 26-inch color television sets —

BREZHNEV WOOS PARIS

PARIS (UPI) — Smiling and relaxed on his first visit to a Western country, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev said today he hoped to "clean up the dust of the cold war."

He made the statement in reply to President Georges Pompidou's speech of welcome at the Elysee presidential palace barely an hour after arriving from Moscow for a heavily-guarded six-day official visit.

Brezhnev said, "The Soviet Union has a sincere desire" to improve relations with the West. He said this was in the interest of both the Soviet Union and France and called for "mutual co-operation in Europe and of the peoples of the world."

Pompidou also called for good relations between Paris and Moscow as "a necessary element and probably essential to the security of Europe."

Brezhnev, accompanied by his wife and a half-dozen top Kremlin officials, flew into Paris and the heaviest security ever mobilized in France for a foreign leader.

Parisians gave him a lukewarm reception, despite urging of the Communist party to turn his visit into a triumph.

U.S. Surcharge 'Changes Rules'

OTTAWA (UPI) — The U.S. imposition of a 10-per-cent import surcharge has "unilaterally changed the rules" for bilateral trade, but Canada will not strike any bargains for repeal of the surcharge, according to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

In an interview with the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) taped for weekend release, Sharp said that over the years Canada and the U.S. had worked out rules for bilateral trade.

"Now," he said, "they have unilaterally changed the rules of the game and I consider this to be quite inadmissible. We won't play that way. We have already bargained for access to their markets."

Sharp said that while Canada was willing to help the U.S. with its balance of payments problem, "we are not going to bargain over the surcharge.

"The Canadian government has an interest in the prosperity of the United States, but what we have been asked to do — bargain our way out of this surcharge — is an inadmissible situation," he said.

Sharp also predicted that if the surcharge were to be left on for a year, the U.S. could expect a public outcry from Canadians.

"The United States must realize," he said, "that Canadians resent these measures. They didn't deserve them. Canadians have a strong sense of nationalism . . . and they don't like being pushed about."

Sharp accused the U.S. of "hurting its best friends," since Mexico, which also relies on exports to the U.S., stands to suffer heavily from the surcharge.

India, Pakistan Charge Shelling

In New Delhi, the Pakistani diplomatic mission confirmed Sunday that a large part of its 140-member staff was prepared to return home.

Indian cabinet leaders met today to discuss the reported Pakistani shelling of Agartala, capital of the Indian territory of Tripura, on East Pakistan's border.

A four-man cabinet committee appointed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to administer the nation while she is on a 19-day tour of western nations discussed the shelling of Agartala, but details of the session were not disclosed.

FOUR KILLED

Four persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the shelling during which mortar shells fell in the central part of the city of about 60,000 persons. The casualties were the highest in any incident disclosed by government officials since the start of the recent buildup of Indian and Pakistani troops along the border.

Pakistan's government radio charged today that "Indian artillery" had shelled the town of Comilla Sunday afternoon while people were in the market places, killing 12, wounding 25 and destroying or damaging several houses.

The radio gave the time of the shelling as 4 p.m., which was about four hours before the attack on Agartala. Comilla is located about 25 miles south of Agaratala and about four to five miles inside the East Pakistan border.

RETALIATION

East Pakistani rebel sources in Calcutta, meanwhile, described the shelling of Agartala by Pakistan as a retaliatory move for recent activity in the Comilla district, which borders the town.

Indian military officials in Calcutta said they had no information on the incident in Comilla.

The increased tempo of reports of shellings and casualties came within hours after Mrs. Gandhi left India on a tour seen as an attempt to win greater support for India's position and enlist foreign help.

India's external affairs minister, Sardar Swaran Singh, and other foreign affairs and defence officials met today Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Nikolai Firyubin, who is in New Delhi for what is officially described as "routine" consultations between the two countries.

POLLEN MAY RUN

Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen is expected to announce his candidacy for mayor today at a press conference at 3 p.m.

Pollen said last week he would make a decision over the weekend and make a statement one way or the other.

Pollen's announcement will bring the number of candidates for the chief magistrate's chair to four. They are incumbent Mayor Courtney Haddock, Saanich Ald. Foster Isherwood and "lighthouse philosopher" Bill Scott.

Medical Decisions For Young?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Children's Aid Society is expected to consider tonight a proposal to allow 14-year-olds to decide whether they want to receive medical treatment without their parents' consent.

"There's something to be said for making it easier for young people to get treatment irrespective of their parents' wishes," society president Mrs. Dorothy Beck said Sunday.

"If you can it's best to respect the wishes of parents. But with some things, especially hepatitis or veneral disease, it's probably a good idea to be able to treat them without any interference."

Mrs. Beck was commenting on a request from the B.C. Hospitals Association that the provincial government allow persons 14 and older to make the final decision on whether they will receive surgery or other treatment.

At present, parents of minors can veto any treatment for their children, including abortions and blood transfusions, unless a doctor judges that the life of the minor is at stake.

Weekend of Violence Kills 6 in N. Ireland

BELFAST (CP) — Northern Ireland's weekend toll of dead civilians stood at six today after police marksmen killed a terrorist and wounded his woman accomplice outside a Belfast night club.

The incident, resembling a gangster movie, happened outside the Celebrity Club, in the fashionable centre of Belfast, just before midnight Sunday night.

Plainclothes police opened fire on two men and a woman hurrying away from the club where they had just left a time bomb in the lobby. One of the men fell dying, the woman collapsed wounded and the second man ran off.

Shortly afterwards the bomb exploded, sending the club up in flames but not before an army bomb disposal squad managed to get clear and club members had scrambled to safety through a back window.

SISTERS KILLED

It was the culmination of Ulster's worst weekend of violence in two months, bringing the death toll to 133 in more than two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

In the preceding 48 hours, troops shot dead two sisters in a car racing past army checkpoints in Belfast and killed three men suspected of trying to rob a bank, or bomb it, at Newry, by the border of the Irish Republic.

The deaths of the two women, who the army said were in a car from which shots were being fired at the troops, provoked bitter accusations by republicans and civil rights leaders against the army's methods and sparked off a series of violent incidents in Belfast.

Worse violence broke out in Newry Sunday after three men were shot and killed by troops who saw them apparently trying to carry out a robbery at a bank. The army said the men refused to stop after they were challenged, and the troops opened fire.

A day of rioting in Newry followed, and Sunday night the 30-foot flames of a blazing timber yard illuminated a cortege of more than 1,000 mourners following the coffin of one of the men, 19-year-old Sean Ruddy, through the rubble-strewn streets.

Similar processions followed the bodies of the two other men from the funeral parlor to their homes. Armed soldiers stood at every street corner with guns at the ready as the mourners, four or six abreast, marched past.

QUESTION MAN

Early today the woman shot down outside Belfast's Celebrity Club was in hospital seriously wounded. A man detained near the scene of the club bombing was being questioned by police.

Snipers wounded five soldiers Sunday.

A policeman was shot in the head and critically wounded early today answering a knock on the door at his home.

In Newry, Bernadette Devlin, civil rights leader and member of the British Parliament, told an angry crowd near the spot where the three suspected bank attackers were shot: "These British troops are murderers. The only time soldiers have the

McCARTHY SEEMS SET TO TRY FOR PRESIDENT

ST. PAUL (WP) — Eugene McCarthy has written a letter to supporters that is tantamount to a formal announcement of his candidacy for president.

"I'm enlarging my staff and intend to establish very soon a formal campaign committee," says one passage in the letter, which is to be mailed on Tuesday.

The letter says one key concern "is in an active and positive effort to secure convention delegates with views similar to ours."

And it adds: "This will require involvement in politics in non-primary states, in those states that have quasi-primaries and those states that have full and open primaries," the former Minnesota senator said.

A source said the letter will be mailed to several hundred thousand 1968 supporters and other "friends" acquired since McCarthy's Democratic presidential campaign then.

The other ends with these words: "The party that wins the presidency in 1972 must stand for something. The election should not be settled by default, or choice of the better of two marginal alternatives."

Peking-Taiwan Racing Neck and Neck at UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Diplomats said the race was still neck and neck today as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an important question requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the Americans figured they had a 58-to-57 or 59-to-57, advantage with more favorable votes possible.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believe the voting would start Tuesday.

The important question resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain to get a majority in the assembly but not a two-thirds majority.

The Albanian resolution was entitled to be voted on first because it was submitted first. But the United States had a motion pending to give its resolution priority.

The U.S. was pushing a dual-representation resolution to offer both the Communists and the Nationalists seats in the assembly and offer the Communists the Chinese seat on the Security Council.

Peking has said repeatedly that it would have nothing to do with the United Nations as long as the Nationalists remain in it. Their supporters in the world organization say they mean it, but the Americans say there is no way to tell without trying them out.

The U.S. made one gain Sunday when officials in Rome said Italy would vote for the Albanian resolution but would abstain from the vote on the important question resolution. Many observers had believed Italy would vote against it.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would vote for the U.S. resolution but this had been generally expected.

The 23 sponsors of the Albanian resolution planned a last-minute strategy session today to discuss whether, in case their resolution failed, a proposal should be put in to make the American dual-representation resolution an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority.
